NEWSPAPER TIE-UP IS ALMOST COMPLETE

Chicago's 3,000,000 Population Gets Its Sunday News from 50,000 Combined Editions.

MORE RIOTING IS EXPECTED

Importation of Non-Union Men May Result in Further Sympathetic Strikes—Arrests in Journal Office.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 5.—While there was an absence of rioting in Chicago to-day, chiefly because of its being Sunday and the consequent issuance of no afternoon papers, the tie-up of the Chicago newspapers resulting from the pressmen's strike became almost complete.

Of the four morning papers—The Tribune, Record-Herald, Inter-Ocean, and Examiner—probably not more than 50,000 copies in the aggregate were distributed among a population of almost 3,000,000 persons in Chicago proper and another million in the suburbs and adjacent towns.

The most startling event of the day was the discovery of five men climbing up the fire escape of The Evening Journal office. The men, all of whom admitted that they were members of striking unions, were arrested just after one of their number had succeeded in forcing open one of the upper windows in the building.

The police theory is that the men intended to wreck the machinery. All were heavily laden with tools and steel implements. They were taken to the Central Police Station, where all refused to give their names.

None of the morning papers attempted to print more than a twelve-page edition, with the addition of colored and comic supplements, most of which are obtained from New York. The tie-up was so complete that a band of non-union stereotypers went from office to office making the stereotype plates, and were succeeded by bands of pressmen, who in like manner traveled from office to office in automobiles and printed limited editions of the various papers.

Non-Union Men Jeered.

From midnight until 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning bands of strike sympathizers surrounded the newspaper offices, threatening all sorts of dire misfortune to the non-union men who were engaged in getting out the papers. Police Chief McWeeney, however, had the situation strongly in hand, and threw a cordon of men around each newspaper plant, so that no person unable to give a good account of himself could get within the lines.

The four newspapers combined in a system of automobile delivery in big trucks on which were several policemen as well as special detectives. These trucks made the rounds of the various offices collecting the editions for distribution, mainly in the suburbs. Then they started on their uptown, or suburban journeys, amid cat-calls and hoots of thousands of strike sympathizers, among whom was a large quota of the 8,000 freight handlers of the various railroads now having difficulties with their employes.

Chief McWeeney's order abolishing all newsstands in the loop district on account of the sympathetic strike of the newsdealers and the wagon drivers had a quieting effect in the "loop," or great central business district of the city. No newsstands, hence necessarily no newspapers, and therefore no rioting. Persons bent on a holiday arriving at the various elevated and trunk line stations in the loop district called for their morning papers in vain.

The general situation to-night remains unchanged. For to-morrow's editions of the morning papers the same roundabout process of sending stereotypers and pressmen from office to office to aid in publication will continue. The publishers declare that in so far as the number of pages is concerned the usual number will be issued. The question of circulation, however, is a matter of doubt.

There were many conferences to-day in the offices of the Chicago Publishers' Association, as a result of which it was announced that so far as the morning newspapers are concerned it was believed that a normal condition of affairs would prevail in the course of a few days and that by Saturday at the latest the strike would be broken.

Working Force from Outside.

While Victor F. Lawson, President of the Chicago Publishers' Association, will make no statement on the subject, nor will Henry N. Cary, the Secretary, it is understood that a large number of pressmen and stereotypers will arrive in Chicago in the course of a few hours ready and willing to take the places of the men on strike. With the arrival of these men it is expected there will be rioting, not confined to the newsstands on the streets, but which will affect directly the newspaper offices, now under a heavy guard of police.

Labor men, on the other hand, differ with the officials of the Publishers' Association. They say that Chicago is on the verge of the greatest labor war in the history of the United States, and that if the owners of the Chicago newspapers do not give in that every labor union in Chicago will be called out in sympathetic strikes. If this is insufficient, the labor leaders say, the strike will be extended to other cities.

The Chicago newspapers are necessarily dependent upon coal to maintain power. The threat is made by the labor unions that if an adjustment of the existing difficulties is not speedily arrived at, the union drivers of coal wagons will refuse to deliver coal to those papers and thus add the the troubles of the publishers.

A trades union leader made the announcement to-day that the unions of Chicago have enough money on hand to carry on any strike undertaken, and sufficient "to wear out capital."

An enormous loss to the business interests of Chicago has resulted from the present strike. It is estimated that the loss of advertising to newspapers alone during the last four days aggregates $200,000. Department store advertising, which runs to pages in both Sunday and daily newspapers, has necessarily been eliminated.

One of the curious sights of Chicago to-day was the invasion of the Loop district by thousands of women, who, failing to receive their usual Sunday newspapers with the bargain sale announcements, came downtown and plastered their faces against the windows of the shops making attractive offerings.

The department stores, having to forego

TICKING IN ROOSEVELT MAIL.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Friends of Col. Roosevelt learned to-night the horrifying details of a near-tragedy that nearly occurred in their New York headquarters several days ago.

A box addressed to the Colonel arrived there and was delivered to George Henry Payne. Mr. Payne was about to open it, when his practiced ear caught a faint ticking within. With that promptness and decision which always characterizes him, Mr. Payne separated himself from the box by the largest amount of space the office was able to furnish and called up the Bureau of Combustibles. Mr. Payne subsequently estimated that it took the bureau an hour and a half to get the connection, but central says it was ten seconds. Mr. Payne thinks central's watch stopped.

An Inspector was promptly on the spot. He immersed the box and its fiendish contents in water until the thing got discouraged and stopped ticking. Then he took the roof off the box and discovered a small clock, two bottles containing some kind of liquid, and a very damp letter. The letter, being opened, was found to contain an affectionate adjuration to the Colonel to partake of the contents of the bottles, as they would probably do him a lot of good.

On examination the bottles were found to contain samples of a patent medicine, the aim, intent, and purpose of which is to reduce fever. The Inspector offered to return them to Mr. Payne if he wanted to forward them to Col. Roosevelt, but Mr. Payne became petulant and the Inspector withdrew. Up to date, Col. Roosevelt's friends are informed, the news of his escape has been withheld from him.

LASSOES DROWNING BOYS.

Policeman McLaughlin Then Hangs from Bridge and Saves Another.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—Three young men and a girl, occupants of two canoes, were rescued from drowning in the Schuylkill River this afternoon by a policeman, who first lassoed two of the youths and then dragged the third to safety while hanging head downward from a foot bridge.

The canoeists were members of a party of forty, twenty girls and twenty youths, who set out from the Belmont Canoe Club in the morning for a picnic at Flat Rock Dam. Twelve canoes were towed upstream by steam launches, and as the tow passed a mill inlet in the Manayunk Canal the last two canoes of the string broke from the fastenings, and were sucked into the swirling current.

The girl screamed and the men called for help, but their cries were in vain. The light craft bobbed about like eggshells in the mill race and finally capsized. The occupants were rapidly being drawn toward the turbines at the end of the race, when Policeman McLaughlin of the Manayunk Station heard their cries.

With Tom Miller, a watchman, employed at one of the mills near by, McLaughlin ran out on a narrow foot bridge spanning the race. The quartet had gone down several times, when finally the three young men in the water succeeded in pushing the girl toward a plank protruding from the bank and she clung to it.

McLaughlin saw that the three youths were unable to help themselves, and, looping a rope, threw it over their heads and dragged two of the boys to safety. The third was exhausted and was close to the turbines, when McLaughlin, with the watchman holding him by the feet, hung head downward from the bridge and grasped the drowning youth by the hair as he floated under.

INTO RIVER TO SAVE A BOY.

Modest Rescuer Declined to Give His Name to the Police.

Seven-year-old Israel Greenberg played on the stringpiece of Pier 21, East River, yesterday until he tripped and fell into the water. A woman who saw him fall ran for aid, and the first person she met was a neatly dressed man, who had come off one of the New Haven boats at Peck Slip. The man dropped his valise, ran to the spot, and dived overboard. He grabbed the boy, and managed to get him aboard a sand barge. Patrolman Meyers found the man and the boy on the barge, and asked the man his name.

"You don't want my name," said the man. "That isn't necessary. Just show me a place where I can change my clothes. That's all I want."

The policeman called an ambulance, and the boy was removed to the Hudson Street Hospital. Then Meyers led the rescuer to a seaman's lodging house. After changing his clothes he went on his way, insisting that his name was of no interest to the public and declining to make it known.

The boy said he lived at 66 Rutgers Street, but the police could find no trace of his parents at that address.

FOUR CANOEISTS DROWN.

LEWISTON, Me., May 5.—J. Osborne Faulkner, sporting editor of The Lewiston Evening Journal, and William D. Lovell of West Springfield, Mass., a student at Bates College, were drowned to-day when their canoe capsized while they were attempting to shoot the rapids, just above the Turner Centre Bridge, on the Androscoggin River.

Several people witnessed the accident, but although the water was shallow it was so rapid that those on the banks could be of no assistance.

Mr. Lovell was manager of last year's football team and a member of many college organizations. At a late hour tonight the bodies had not been recovered.

HARRISBURG, Penn., May 5.—Thomas Earl Eldridge, aged 22 years, and Leroy Young, aged 20, of this city, were drowned while on a canoe trip on the Susquehanna below McCall's Ferry today.

In company with Gilbert M. Over, and Marcy Glace of this city, they started from here in two canoes bound for Chesapeake Bay. A strong current caused both canoes to upset about two and a half miles below the dam. Over and Glace, whose canoe was near the shore, managed to save themselves by swimming.

SITS DOWN; BLOWN TO BITS.

Dynamite in Man's Pocket Strikes Stone Causing Fatal Explosion.

SHARON, Mass., May 5.—Thomas J. Leary, the town Tree Warden, sat down beneath a tree in East Roxboro Street tonight, and a moment later a terrific explosion blew him to pieces. A hole three feet deep was made in the ground where he had been sitting. The report of the explosion was heard for miles, and houses a quarter of a mile away rocked dangerously.

The cause of the explosion is not definitely known, but the theory is, that Leary, who was a contractor, had a stick of dynamite in his pocket, and that when he sat down it came in contact with a stone. Leary was 35 years old and unmarried.

STEAMBOATS ABLAZE SET A PIER ON FIRE

CREW LEAPS OVERBOARD

A watchman employed at Cadell Brothers' shipyard and basin at Mariners Harbor, S. I., saw flames rising from the upper works of the steamboat Mohawk, moored, with many other boats, in the basin, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning. He shouted a warning while he ran to turn in a fire alarm.

In the short time he was gone the fire had burned through the hawsers which held the Mohawk and the Iroquois, the steamboat next in line among the other boats, and the two steamboats had begun to drift out into the Kill van Kull.

Both boats had come into the basin on Saturday night to be overhauled for their regular Summer business on Lake Cayuga, and Capt. Melvin M. Brown, their owner, with his wife, son, and grandson, was asleep on the Iroquois. On the Mohawk were George Carr, Charles Forbes, and Harry Banks. The rest of the crew and officers of both boats were absent, only a few men being needed while the boats were in the basin.

The fire had spread to the Iroquois as the steamboats drifted away together, and they were half way across the Kull before those on board them were aroused by the smoke and heat. The men on the Iroquois found their quarters afire when they finally awoke, and, without stopping for clothing, all three dived overboard and swam toward shore until a passing tug picked them up.

The tug Shubert, which was towing a brick scow through the Kull, cast her hawser off and made for the Mohawk, aboard which Capt. Brown was calling for help. The tug crew took off all hands from the Mohawk, landing them at the Marine Construction Company's pier, and hurried back to their tow, which was drifting dangerously near the burning steamboats.

Firemen had responded to the watchman's alarm, and, though the Mohawk and Iroquois were beyond their reach, they found work enough in the basin, where the tugboat Robert Robertson of the McCaffrey Towing Company of Manhattan was burning briskly, having caught fire as the steamboats drifted by it.

The burning steamboats meantime had drifted over to Shooters Island, where they brought up against the pier of the Shooters Island Shipyard Company, setting it afire, as well as the excursion steamboat Arion and the barges Starina and Rosilia of the McAllister Steamboat Company and the derrick Syracuse, belonging to the Shooters Island Company.

A two-story frame office and a three-story frame storehouse on the pier caught fire, and, although every one on the island was up and at the scene by this time, the fire had gained such headway that they could not save the buildings. They moved the steamboat, the derrick, and the barges, so that they escaped with a bad scorching.

The fireboat Boody, from St. George; the Seth Low, from Brooklyn, and the Zophar Mills, from Manhattan, reached the Shooters Island pier after 270 feet of it had been burned away, the office building destroyed, and two-thirds of the storehouse burned down. They quenched the flames before they could spread further.

The ocean tug S. Q. Brown was the first to reach the Mohawk and Iroquois. The tug was equipped with heavy hose, and soon put out the fire in the steamboats. The tug men then pumped the steamors out, so that they might not sink in the channel and towed them back to the Cadell Brothers' basin.

The fire caused about $12,000 damage to the Mohawk and the same amount to the Iroquois. The Robert Robertson was not so badly damaged, as firemen were able to reach her from shore. The loss to the Shooters Island Company was estimated at $25,000, however, as there the fire burned for many minutes before the fireboats arrived.

How the fire started on the Mohawk is not known. No watch was being kept aboard, and the first Capt. Brown knew of the blaze was when the heat aroused him.

BIRTHDAY OF THE GREAT.

Peary Is 56, Knox 59, and Leader Underwood 50 To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Three notable birthdays will be celebrated to-morrow—if "celebrated" is the word when nothing out of the ordinary will be done.

Rear Admiral Robert Edwin Peary, the discoverer of the north pole, will be 56 years old, and a touch of cold weather in Washington will enable him to spend the day comfortably at home. The great explorer's study is hung with reminders of his Northern expeditions, and in that room with his secretary he will pass a part of the day, receiving the letters and telegrams of congratulation from friends, personal and scientific, that already have begun to pour in on him.

The Admiral is a great walker, and in the afternoon he expects to take his usual hike. He is in perfect health, and his friends say that he is as capable as ever of making a dash for the pole.

"I was willing to leave that Southern hunt to younger men," said the Admiral, when the suggestion was made. "When I have enough sleep I can go as far as anybody. But when I don't sleep a younger man can wind me. And in the polar work, at certain seasons, to get the best results, you have to stop sleeping altogether."

Secretary of State Philander C. Knox will be 59 years old to-morrow. Accompanied by Mrs. Knox, the Secretary is now on his way to California, where he will deliver an address in connection with the preliminaries to the Panama Exposition. They will celebrate the day only informally.

Mr. Knox is a member of the Cabinet for a second time, having served as Attorney General from 1901 to 1904. After that he was Senator from Pennsylvania until his appointment to the chiefship of the Department of State by President Taft.

Representative Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama will be 50 years old. He will celebrate the day just as he has celebrated all the days since he became the Democratic leader in the House of Representatives—by hard work.

Just now Mr. Underwood is the hardest worked man in Congress. He has more people to see him than any other man in either house, and from the moment he gets down to his rooms in the House Office Building he is busy receiving visitors, laying out plans, giving directions, and generally assuming the management of legislation.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Improves.

At the residence of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., 660 Fifth Avenue, it was said last night that she is resting comfortably and is improving. Mrs. Vanderbilt was operated on for appendicitis last week.

THE SUNDAY TIMES.

ATTACKS MADE ON OTHERS

Band Controlled by the Tiger Chief Now Seen to Reach Farther Than Was First Realized.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, May 5.—Associates of the motor car bandits have now started to wreak vengeance on those who were implicated in the arrest of their companions. After the arrest of Carouy an attempt was made on the life of Grandhaud, with whom he lodged, and yesterday at Nancy a carpenter named Blanchet was brutally murdered by Charles Bill, a fellow-workman, who accused him of betraying an Anarchist named Reinert and his wife, who were arrested last Wednesday on the suspicion of having given asylum to Dieudonne, Carouy, and Bonnot.

Blanchet, who was a respectable workman, used to visit the Reinerts' house on account of his attachment for a young dressmaker who lodged there. This young woman gave evidence against Reinert, and Charles Bill, who was a close friend of the prisoners, believing that Blanchet was her accomplice in bringing about the arrest of his friends, determined to be avenged.

Yesterday morning Bill told Blanchet, who was out of work, that his brother, Antonio Bill, at Neuves Maisons, nine miles away, would give him something to do. He persuaded Blanchet to accompany him. Before arriving at Neuves Maisons Bill turned on his companion and exclaimed:

"It was you, was it, who denounced the Reinerts? Now they are avenged."

He fired a revolver point-blank at Blanchet's chest. The victim ran behind a tree, but the murderer followed, firing all the time. Blanchet finally fell to the ground with two bullets in the back of the head and two in the stomach.

The murderer, after making certain that Blanchet was dead, walked off and has not since been seen.

The entire town of Nancy was engaged to-day in hunting for Bill. The house of every Anarchist in the neighborhood was subjected to a rigorous search. Police and motor cars are covering the country for miles around. It is generally believed that Bill sought refuge in the Forest de "Hay; which is now surrounded by troops.

It is stated at headquarters that Blanchet had nothing to do with the arrest of Reinert.

It is becoming more evident that the Bonnot gang comprises a greater number of members and has a more perfect organization than the police realize. M. Guichard, the Superintendent of Detectives, declared during the early stages of the series of crimes that "the whole cause of militant anarchy and every Anarchist, who is a partisan—and every Anarchist, is a partisan of violence—is allied with the bandits."

It is stated that there are no fewer than 2,000 militant anarchists in Paris alone, and these, with those who profess and preach anarchy without putting their principles into active practice, bring the total up to 10,000.

SUFFRAGISTS TO STORM OHIO

Mass Meetings All Over State on Mothers' Day Next Friday.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 5.—Next Friday, May 10, has been proclaimed officially as Mothers' Day in this State by Gov. Harmon, and suffrage leaders have planned mass meetings to promote their propaganda for "mothers' rights" in every city and village and hamlet of the Commonwealth.

Mothers' Day is to mark the starting of the State-wide battle for the ballot for women. By an overwhelming majority the Constitutional Convention has voted to submit to the electors of the State an amendment to the Constitution, giving women equal rights of citizenship with men. This victory has inspired the militant suffrage leaders with determination to win another just as decisive at the polls.

"Men have monopolized Mothers' Day in the past, but this year we Suffragists are going to have it," said Miss Genevieve Blair Sackett of Amherst, who is directing the suffrage campaign, at the State capital to-day. "A square deal for the mothers of Ohio," is going to be the slogan of the Mothers' Day uprising.

MILWAUKEE, May 5.—The attitude of the business world toward Milwaukee and its Socialistic administration was shown by the first award of bonds under the new administration, the bids being higher than any bid for city bonds since the Socialists won control of the city two years ago.

The latest issue is for $365,000, and is taken by the S. A. Kean Company of Chicago at a premium of $11,862.82 for an issue, with interest at 4½ per cent.

CUNARDER ULTONIA IS DISABLED IN ICE

ON FIRST TRIP OF SEASON

Runs Into Floes Near Entrance to Gulf of St. Lawrence, Where Phenomenal Conditions Are Reported.

Special to The New York Times.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 5.—Another transatlantic liner has been damaged in the ice fields which crowd the entrance to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The Cunard liner Ultonia, from Southampton, bound to Montreal, arrived here to-night in a disabled condition, and reported the loss of one propeller. The Ultonia has twin screws, but Capt. Prothero decided not to risk further ice perils of the Gulf and proceeded to Halifax, the nearest port.

This is the Ultonia's first trip to Canadian ports this season. She has 1,200 passengers on board, and they will be debarked to-morrow and forwarded to their destinations in Canada and the United States.

Phenomenal ice conditions are reported in the track of transatlantic liners, extending far south of the Grand Banks. Navigators have to exercise great caution in approaching the Gulf of St. Lawrence, where the field ice is closely packed and in some cases extends for many miles.

Capt. Prothero did not make formal report to-night, but it is believed that beyond the loss of the propeller the Ultonia suffered only slight damage. Because of the late hour of her arrival she remained in Quarantine for the night.

Before reaching port Capt. Prothero sent a message to the Cunard agents here notifying them of the steamer's accident, because of which it had been decided to land the passengers at this port, and requesting that arrangements be made for their transportation. Tugs were sent out to meet the crippled steamer, and they assisted her into port.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 5.—W. I. Sears, representing the Montreal agents for the Cunard Line, sad to-night that the Ultonia lost her port propeller two days ago while at sea, when the weather was fine and the sea was calm. The Ultonia was not in collision with any other boat or icebergs, he said. It is supposed that the snapping of the propeller was due to some flaw in the steel.

The Ultonia is a four-masted twin-screw steamship of 10,500 gross tonnage, with 500 feet length, 57.4 feet in beam, and 38.9 in depth of hold. She was built for the Cunard Line by Swan & Hunter in 1898, and was until last October engaged in the New York-Mediterranean service, carrying second and third class passengers. According to the reports received here last night, the Ultonia was 800 miles east of the Gulf of St. Lawrence when she was damaged.

It was said in the message received from Capt. William Prothero that the port propeller and tail shaft had dropped off, and the liner was proceeding to Halifax under her starboard propeller at a speed of 9 knots.

VASARI IN GREAT STORM.

The Captain of the Lamport & Holt liner Vasari, which arrived here yesterday from South American ports, reported that the vessel passed through the great windstorm which caused such heavy loss of life on April 9 in the Argentine and Uruguayan Republics, having sailed from Buenos Aires the day previous. The Vasari did not receive any damage from the "pampero," as the storm is called in South America. The sky, according to her passengers, was hidden from their gaze by the hundreds of wooden houses, barns, haystacks, sails, and other things the pampero had garnered in its devastating flight. During the gale on last Friday night one of the lifeboats was torn from the davits of the Vasari and some damage done to the rails on the upper deck.

L. C. Good, one of the passengers, brought a tiger cat with him to present to Director Hornaday of the Bronx Zoo. The animal is eight months old and is prettily spotted like a leopard. It walked the promenade deck with its owner in fine weather. It was quite tame, Mr. Good said, but scratched him when he stopped to listen to some jingles composed by another passenger who claimed to be the poet of the pampas.

Purser John Rennie of the Vasari celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday on Friday, and three of his guests were passengers over 45 years old who had traveled with him when they were 16 years old, and all three were spinsters. Mr. Rennie has been at sea since 1866 and has crossed the equator 350 times, of which he made twenty voyages in the steamship Tennyson of the Lamport & Holt Line.

AGROUND ON RIVER JETTIES.

NEW ORLEANS, May 5.—The Hamburg-American freight steamship Bermuda, bound from New Orleans to Hamburg with a miscellaneous cargo, ran aground late this afternoon at the edge of the west jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi River. The ocean tug Wilmot left New Orleans to-night to give assistance. The position of the Bermuda is not thought dangerous.

AUTO DASHES INTO STORE.

Stopped by Soda Fountain After Breaking Through Brick Wall.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 5.—A big touring car containing Thomas E. Fury of Philadelphia and Ethel and Edna Shipley, Paul Blondell, and Wilbur Carter of this city, collided with a taxicab early this morning, then dashed over the sidewalk through the front of a drug store at Baltimore and Exeter Streets. Blondell and Miss Ethel Shipley were injured by splintered glass when the car crashed through the door. The machine ripped a mail box from a post, and brought up against the soda water fountain in the store, after tearing an opening eight feet wide through solid brick and window framing. The building was damaged to the extent of about $1,000, and stock and fixtures about $700.

In apartments above the drug store lived Samuel Levi and Samuel Nusbaum and their families. Samuel Nusbaum was thrown from his bed by the shock, while next door to the drug store Mrs. M. Brave, owner of the drug store property, was hurled from her bed to the floor and the glass and chinaware in the kitchen cupboard were shattered.

Miss Ethel Shipley and Paul Blondell were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Fury and Carter were arrested and held as witnesses.

SANITARY AID FOR CHILE.

America to Send Engineers as Urged in a Dispatch to The Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Government of the United States, through the State Department, has signified to the Chilean Government that it will be glad to aid that Government in any way in putting down the yellow fever epidemic at Tecopilla.

The yellow fever epidemic in Chile was first brought to the attention of the American public and Government officials by a cable dispatch from Stephen Bonsal, published on Saturday in THE NEW YORK TIMES.

In an interview President Barros Luco of Chile told Mr. Bonsal that he had about decided to ask Washington for the services of sanitary engineers from Panama to counteract the ravages of the disease at Tocopilla.

SENT MESSAGES IN MIDAIR.

French Aeroplanists Reach 35 Miles with a Wireless Outfit.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, May 5.—Experiments were made at Chartres yesterday in sending wireless messages from aeroplanes. The results, obtained at a distance of thirty-five miles, were highly satisfactory.

Aviator Frantz took a telegraph operator up in his biplane and sent numerous telegrams to his starting point during a flight from Chartres to Etampes and back. When the machine was flying at a height of 1,500 feet, the operator successfully transmitted the words of a song.

CITIZENS THREATEN CASHIER.

UTICA, N. Y., May 5.—Frank T. Arnold, cashier of the defunct First National Bank of New Berlin, N. Y., was taken to the jail in Norwich at 5 o'clock this morning. He was arrested at his home early in the evening, and was held there to avoid a demonstration. It had been openly said by responsible men of the village that unless the authorities arrested Arnold they would tar and feather him.

Last evening a crowd numbering 300 gathered in front of Arnold's home awaiting the arrest that had been rumored. At midnight the number had dwindled and at 5 o'clock United States Marshal Black of Binghamton had no trouble in getting his man away in an automobile.

Physicians have examined Arnold, who experienced a nervous breakdown following the discovery of the discrepancies in his accounts at the bank, and declare that he will be able to stand trial. The bank shortage is said to be $250,000.

MEAT MEN WANT BOYCOTT.

Anything to Readjust Prices, Says The National Provisioner.

Commenting in its current issue on the intention of the Housewives' League of New York to boycott meat dealers while the present high cost of that commodity is in force, The National Provisioner says:

"Some people seem to think this will be a terrible blow to the meat trade, and that meat will have to come down as a result.

"Blow or no blow, such a movement will be hailed with joy by the meat men. There is nobody on earth more disturbed by existing conditions in the beef market than the men who sell the beef. The situation is perplexing and serious. If the Housewives' League members, or anybody else, can carry out a boycott or any kind of a movement which will readjust conditions of supply and demand so that the beef market may be put upon a healthier basis every man in the meat trade will consider them his best friends.

"But it is to be feared that neither the Housewives' League nor anybody else can make corn and grass where there isn't any, or induce farmers to feed cattle for beef instead of selling the fodder for cash."

SURVIVES 11,000 VOLTS.

Man Who Struck New Haven Railroad's Wire Saved by Policeman.

Samuel Ehrhardt, a porter with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, escaped death yesterday by the narrowest margin when 11,000 volts passed through his body.

Ehrhardt was walking on the top of one of the animal cars in the Mount Vernon freight yards, when his head came in contact with one of the feed wires which furnish the electricity for the trains on the New Haven Railroad. There was a blinding flash, and Ehrhardt was hurled from the car to the roadbed.

Policeman J. W. Dalzell, who knew the first aid to a man who has received an electric shock, worked over Ehrhardt until a doctor arrived, and the porter was then taken to the Mount Vernon Hospital. It is believed that the quick work of Dalzell saved Ehrhardt's life, as the emergency treatment, the doctor said, was just the thing that kept the man's heart beating. The electricity burned all the hair off the porter's head, and his shoulder was burned black.

"It was all over in the twinkling of an eye," said Ehrhardt. "There was a great roar in my head, and I knew no more. I suffered no pain."

Missing Jewels from Philadelphia Home Traced to Dismissed Employe.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—Shadowed for more than three weeks by detectives Andrew Johnson of this city was arrested to-day, charged with the theft of thousands of dollars' worth of gems from the home of T. C. Henry, St. Martin's, Chestnut Hill, where he had been employed as a valet. The jewels, among them two big diamonds and half a dozen pearls, were recovered.

It is admitted that the jewels were cleverly secreted in Johnson's home and that he made a furious fight before he was taken. It is believed that the police plan the arrest of an accomplice.

While Johnson was employed in the Henry home, about five weeks ago, a valuable diamond owned by Mrs. Henry disappeared, and later another diamond, pearls, and other jewelry were missing.

A detective was engaged and watched the house, but was unable to discover the thief. Suspicion fell on Johnson, however, and three weeks ago he was discharged.

ROOSEVELT CHARGES UNTRUTHS TO TAFT

SAYS IT IS DISHONORABLE

Taft Did Approve Harvester Delay, Roosevelt Reiterates—Archbald Named to Placate Penrose.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., May 5.—Thoroughly aroused by the attacks made upon him by President Taft in the Maryland campaign, Col. Roosevelt on his return to Sagamore Hill to-day, wrote out a statement in answer to the charges. He told the reporters that he felt the personal reference to him by the President demanded a vigorous reply.

In many ways the statement is an unusual campaign document, for in it Col. Roosevelt throws restraint to the wind. He charges that the President well knows that in Kentucky, Indiana, New York City, and elsewhere the delegates elected for him represent barefaced fraud and that he stands guilty of connivance and condonation of these frauds. Mr. Taft, he declares, "has stood for crooked misrepresentation of the people."

In fact, Col. Roosevelt does not stop there, but declares the President has knowingly misstated the facts in discussing the controversy over the prosecution of the Harvester Trust. He asserts that the President while Secretary of War emphatically approved of the course taken by Roosevelt, and the Colonel declares that it is impossible to reconcile his present position with any standard of honorable conduct.

Then calling attention to the fact that Standard Oil stock has increased by $200,000,000 since the dissolution suit and that the stock of the International Harvester Company jumped 2 points when the suit against it was started, Col. Roosevelt says:

"Evidently Wall Street has made up its mind that Mr. Taft's prosecutions are fake prosecutions."

Col. Roosevelt also referred to the charges against Judge Archbald, now before Congress, and charges that Mr. Taft appointed Archbald to please Mr. Penrose and try to obtain the delegates from Pennsylvania. Mr. Taft, he says, might have foreseen what has happened if he had considered the interests of the people. The Lorimer case is taken up again and the Colonel here accuses the President again of untruthfulness.

The reference made by Col. Roosevelt to fraud in connection with the naming of some delegates has convinced some politicians that if he has a majority of the delegates from the Northern States, Col. Roosevelt will not sit calmly by and go down to defeat at the hands of the delegates from the South. But on this subject the Colonel will not say a word and he refused also to make any prediction about the Maryland situation to-day.

The Colonel was asked if he had any comment to make about the table of delegates which has been issued from the Taft headquarters in Washington. He laughed, and declined to answer any more questions. Here is Col. Roosevelt's statement:

The Colonel's Statement.

"With Mr. Taft's personal opinion about me I have no concern beyond pointing out the sufficiently obvious fact that he never discovered that I was dangerous to the people until I had been obliged to come to the conclusion that he was useless to the people. But his specific statements as to the trusts, the crookedness in selecting delegates, and the Lorimer incident, I shall once again answer, although I have already answered them specifically in Massachusetts, and although Mr. Taft's repetition of them now is incompatible with sincerity of purpose or conviction on his part.

"Mr. Taft knew all the facts about the Harvester Trust decision, and he was present at a Cabinet meeting where they were all discussed, and at that Cabinet meeting and also in private conversation with me he repeatedly and emphatically approved the course actually taken, just as he repeatedly and emphatically approved the course taken as regards the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. He was absent from the country when Mr. Smith was reporting to me and consulting with Mr. Bonaparte, but after his return in January the matter came up again, and it appeared that Mr. Bonaparte had not understood that my judgment was that the course advocated by Mr. Smith was the proper one to follow.

"Accordingly the matter was gone over at length in the Cabinet meeting. Mr. Bonaparte was the only member who was inclined to believe that the suit should be continued without regard to Mr. Smith's investigation. Mr. Taft emphatically took the opposite ground, and it is utterly impossible that he should now have forgotten that he did thus, as a member of my Cabinet, take the opposite ground.

Says Taft Knew Harvester Proceedings.

"Of course, as a member of my Cabinet, whom at that time I was supporting for the Presidency, he knew and could not avoid knowing everything of any importance that went on. It is impossible to reconcile his present position with any standard of honorable conduct, whether we accept the view that he then approved what he believed to be wrong or whether we accept the only alternative, which is that he now denies what he cannot possibly help remembering. Moreover, he has been President for three years; every document was in his possession throughout these three years, and if he is right now his three years' delay is inexcusable.

"I saw Mr. Perkins in this matter precisely as I saw Mr. Morgan at the time of the beginning of the Northern Securities suit, and as I saw representatives of the Standard Oil Trust again and again at the time of the beginning of the Standard Oil suit, just as in the case of every large suit I saw any party interested who asked to appear before me. I believed then, and believe now, that the course urged by Mr. Smith was the only one to take. Mr. Smith is one of the most efficient and high-minded officials in the public service; and while it was not necessary for me to, and while as a matter of fact I did not make up my mind as to whether he was correct in his belief as to what the investigation would show, it was my clear duty to follow his recommendation and have him make the investigation before any suit was undertaken. Mr. Taft, not once merely but again and again, expressed his complete acquiescence in this view.

"Mr. Taft says I have changed my mind about the anti-trust law. He well knows that the position I take now is precisely the position I took again and again in speeches and in messages to Congress while I was President. He was then in my Cabinet, and repeatedly expressed his approval of what I thus said.

"Mr. Taft says I have said that the anti-trust law ought to be repealed. Mr. Taft well knows that this is not true. I have always explicitly stated that it ought to be kept on the books and really enforced (not merely nominally enforced, as had been done by Mr. Taft in the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trust cases) against all trusts guilty of anti-social practices, but I have always said, and now say, that by itself the anti-trust law will never solve the problem of dealing with the great corporations, and that to control the great industrial inter-State corporations we should have a law akin to the present inter-State commerce law, but without the mischievous Inter-State Commerce Court.

Says Taft Nullified Effect of Suits.

"Mr. Taft says that I criticise him because he prosecuted the Standard Oil and Tobacco Companies to the Supreme Court and got decisions there. On the contrary, Mr. Taft knows well that I criticised him not for having thus continued the prosecution of the suits that I had begun but because after he had got these decisions he then permitted the Department of Justice so to shape matters that the result was a complete nullification of all the good results of his suit.

"His conduct in this respect is quite incompatible with any sincere purpose really to enforce the anti-trust law. As a result of his action, the stocks of the corporations in question rose greatly in value, the rise in Standard Oil stock being over $200,000,000. Mr. Taft can hardly have failed to notice that following his institution of a suit against the Harvester Trust Harvester stock went up 2 points.

"Evidently Wall Street has made up its mind that Mr. Taft's prosecutions are fake prosecutions, whereas the bitter hostility of Wall Street to me shows how lively is its memory of the fact that my prosecutions were really prosecutions and hurt the persons prosecuted.

"The Archbald case (now before Congress owing to the fact that Congress forced the President's hand) shows that Mr. Taft appointed on the new Commerce Court at the request of Mr. Penrose a Judge whose unfitness for the office had already been brought before him, and what has since happened to the Judge is merely what Mr. Taft might have foreseen if he had considered the interests of the people instead of being intent on trying to secure the delegates from Pennsylvania by placating the Pennsylvanian boss."

Charges Primary Frauds.

"In Kentucky and Indiana, in New York City, and elsewhere Mr. Taft knows well that the delegates elected for him represent barefaced frauds. He stands guilty of connivance at and condonation of these frauds; he stands guilty of approving and encouraging fraud which deprives the people of their right to express their will as to who shall be nominated.

"In all these primaries and conventions I have stood for absolute honesty and fair play. Mr. Taft has stood for crooked misrepresentation of the will of the people.

"As for the Lorimer case, the facts are these: I fought Mr. Lorimer hard and in the open for eighteen months. Originally Mr. Taft was secretly against Mr. Lorimer. As the Illinois primaries approached Mr. Taft's opposition vanished. Almost all of Mr. Taft's followers in the Senate supported Mr. Lorimer. Mr. Lorimer was the leading Taft worker in Illinois. As long as there was hope that Mr. Lorimer might carry the State for Mr. Taft, Mr. Taft kept silent about Mr. Lorimer. But as soon as Illinois was lost Mr. Taft rushed to Massachusetts, where there were no Lorimer votes, and repudiated Mr. Lorimer.

"Now, it was wrong for Mr. Taft to keep silence, and therefore really to help Mr. Lorimer as long as Mr. Lorimer could be of use to Mr. Taft, but it was not merely wrong, it was wrong in a peculiarly mean way, after having thus endeavored to use him while he might help Mr. Taft, to turn around and for the first time openly condemn him when the chance for using him had vanished."

SENTIMENT FOR HUGHES.

Borah Found It Among Massachusetts Republicans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Senator Borah of Idaho, who returned recently from a trip through Massachusetts, told a friend yesterday that he had found a strong sentiment among the Republicans of the Bay State for a compromise candidate for the Presidential nomination. He intimated that Col. Roosevelt's advocacy of the recall of judicial decisions was sticking in the crop of many who did not want to vote for Taft, and they were anxious for a third candidate.

"You, for instance?" suggested the friend.

Mr. Borah said no, and added that the talk was all in favor of Justice Hughes.

The Idaho Senator has never been one of the most radical of the Progressives. He is a great constitutional lawyer, and that saves him from the extravagances into which some of his fellow-Progressives have been plunged. He did not intimate in this conversation that he himself favored a third candidate, but the friend gathered an impression that Borah did not altogether disapprove the Hughes talk.

The "third-candidate" talk in the Republican Party has come hitherto chiefly from Taft sources, or at least anti-Roosevelt sources.

Among the latest to be suggested is Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel.

TAFT GOES TO OHIO IN FIGHT FOR STATE

Will Spend Three Days There This Week and All Next Week to Win the Primary.

MAY BE THE CRUCIAL VOTE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—To make a preliminary three days' campaign in his own State, President Taft left Washington this afternoon for Cincinnati. The State primary does not take place until May 21, and the President will return to Ohio next week, when he will spend six days in speechmaking. Col. Roosevelt, who will be in New Jersey this week, will invade the Ohio field while the President is there on his second visit.

The President's exertions in Ohio are thus to be more extended than those he put forth in Massachusetts or Maryland. It is felt by his friends that Ohio is the crucial point now, and that if Mr. Taft cannot carry his own State, the fact will be a damaging argument before the convention.

Besides the President, Senator Root, Senator Bradley of Kentucky, Senator Townsend of Michigan, Representative Campbell of Kansas, Job Hedges of New York, and Secretary of War Stimson will go to Ohio to present the case of the Administration.

The choice of Bradley is due to his popularity in the southern part of the State, where there are many Kentuckians. The southern section is the part from which the President himself comes and might be thought perfectly safe, but there have been reports of lukewarmness there.

The Roosevelt men are claiming the State with the greatest confidence. Their greatest strength is said to be in the north, particularly near Cleveland. Senator Burton, a strong Taft man, comes from that city, but his reports have not been altogether encouraging.

On his present trip the President will make his first speech at Nelsonville, Ohio, at 8:45 to-morrow morning, followed by short addresses on his way to Athens, where he will speak at 11 o'clock. Leaving Hamden, Chillicothe, Greenfield, Leesburg, New Vienna, and Blanchester, reaching Cincinati at 10 P. M. He will spend the night with his brother, Charles P. Taft, and remain in Cincinati the following day, making no speeches there.

Leaving Cincinnati early Wednesday morning, the President will speak at Batavia, Mount Orab, Sardinia, Winchester, Peebles, Portsmouth, Ironton, Sciotoville, Oak Hill, Jackson, Wellston, Logan, Lancaster, and Columbus. The Columbus speech will be made in the evening, after which the President will leave for Washington.

The following view of the political situation was given out to-night by a representative of the President:

"Bringing him within reach of his goal, the political developments of last week have been of striking importance to President Taft and his followers. Massachusetts spoke the deciding word and carried the campaign for renomination beyond the critical stage. With 26 of the Bay State's 36 votes conceded to the President, and with 46 of the 74 delegates elected in the course of the week instructed for or pledged to him, President Taft is now within easy reach of victory.

"The week's accessions brought his convention strength to 466. Maryland is expected to give him 16 more; Nevada and Arkansas have already gone through the preliminaries that will give him 24 more; Washington, Idaho, and Arizona are in sight with 28 more; the Texas preliminaries point to Taft control of a large majority of the State's delegates—40 in number—all of which, without taking into consideration what the President may obtain in California, Kansas, Wyoming, Montana, Ohio, Minnesota, New Jersey, North Carolina, and other district conventions, which are certain to give him his share, bring him considerably beyond the total of 540 which will be required to nominate at the Chicago Convention in June.

"Mr. Roosevelt now has 232 votes pledged or instructed. If he were to get all that are yet to be chosen, exclusive of Arkansas and Nevada, he yet could not obtain enough votes to bring about his nomination. And by next week the possibility of all combinations against the President will have passed, as the strength of Senator La Follette has not gone beyond the 36 already reported, and Senator Cummins has been unable to add to his total of 10."

OUST 1,000 DEMOCRATS.

Maryland Republicans Will Have a Merry Feast of Officers.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, May 5.—To-morrow will be moving day for Democrats in State offices—the first real one they have had since 1896.

Under the Constitution State officials, whose terms are not otherwise defined, take office on the first Monday in May, so that many Democratic State officials will soon be succeeded by Republicans, appointed by Gov. Goldsborough, the Republican Executive. In Baltimore City and in the 23 counties of the State, more than one thousand Democrats will give way to Republicans. The minor places may not all be filled at once, but the delay will not be long.

The Liquor License Commissioners, Police Board, Police Examiners of Baltimore, Election Supervisors, Police Justices, and Justices of the Peace, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner, Coroners, and State Fire Marshal, are among those affected.

MARYLAND TO VOTE TO-DAY.

Much Depends Upon the Negroes at the Presidential Primaries.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 5.—Maryland's first Presidential primary election to-morrow will decide to whom the votes of the sixteen delegates from this State to each of the National Conventions will go. The law permits no divided delegation, and the delegates must support the candidate for whom they are instructed until they "conscientiously" believe he no longer has a chance of winning the nomination. While this feature of the instructions has been variously interpreted, it is conceded to hold the delegates at least for the first ballot at the National Conventions.

The names of Theodore Roosevelt and President Taft appear on the Republican ballot, while the Democrats have the choice of voting for Speaker Champ Clark, Gov. Judson Harmon, or Gov. Woodrow Wilson. Active campaigns have been waged on behalf of all those candidates, and to judge from the claims of the opposing leaders none of them is likely to win by a wide margin.

The primary election will choose 129 delegates to each State Convention representing the various counties, and the legislative districts of Baltimore City and each county or district will bind its delegates to vote for a National delegation favorable to the Presidential candidate for whom such county or district declares its preference. Victory, therefore, will depend upon the preferential vote by counties or districts and not upon the popular preference of the State as a whole.

President Taft's supporters expect to carry all the Southern and Eastern counties, and at least part of Baltimore. The Roosevelt leaders said to-night that they were sure of the Western part of the State, and all the twenty-eight delegates from Baltimore. Speaker Clark is backed here by the regular Democratic city organization, and his supporters count on all the city delegates and enough from outside to control the convention.

A statement by the Wilson committee counts on seventy-eight delegates, or thirteen more than the required majority. Gov. Harmon's candidacy has been backed by the anti-organization Democrats, who claim for him a large plurality in the counties.

An uncertain factor in the contest is the negro vote, which is about 35 per cent. of the whole, and in some of the eastern and southern counties comprises more than half the Republican suffrage. If the Republican election is close the result may depend upon returns from these counties, which, owing to the difficulties of communication on the Eastern Shore, usually are the last to arrive.

In addition to the Presidential preference, both parties will nominate candidates for member of Congress.

The polls will open at 6 A. M. and close at 5 P. M. in Baltimore City, and open at 8 A. M. and close at 6 P. M. in the counties.

Under the law the entire Democratic vote will be counted first.

SOUTH CAROLINA IN DOUBT.

Wilson Men Are Confident, but Feeling Is Strong Against Instructing.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 5.—On the eve of the county conventions to name delegates to the State Convention, which meets here May 16, the supporters of Gov. Wilson are confident of victory. On the surface the claims of the Wilson men seem well founded. There has been little outspoken support for other candidates, and in the precinct meetings Gov. Wilson was the only candidate who obtained indorsement.

The Governor's supporters assert that they will control the State Convention and send an instructed delegation to Baltimore. Senators Tillman and Smith have declared for Wilson.

Nevertheless strong sentiment has been manifested since the Underwood victories in Georgia and Florida in favor of sending an uninstructed delegation to Baltimore. The State Democrats in the past have generally sent uninstructed delegations to National Conventions.

ROOSEVELT MEN MAY BOLT.

Arkansas Likely to Send Two Delegations to Chicago Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 5.—A bitter fight between Taft and Roosevelt forces for the control of the Arkansas delegation to the Republican National Convention will be waged here during the next two days. The State Convention will be held on Tuesday, and the Roosevelt Republican League, which is conducting the Roosevelt campaign in the State, will meet to-morrow night. It is almost a certainty that two State Conventions will be held.

The regular State Convention will be dominated by the Taft leaders, who assert there are only 22 uncontested Roosevelt delegates, while Taft has more than 300. Contesting delegations have been elected in many counties by the Roosevelt men, and it is expected that if they are turned down by the convention they will hold a separate convention and elect delegates at large to the National Convention.

The Roosevelt leaders intimate that this will be the result if the Administration men do not seat their delegates. The fight involves the control of the party in this State, as the present organization leaders have lined up solidly for President Taft.

BLAMES SYRACUSE OFFICIALS

Controller Sohmer Says They Have Violated City Fiscal Laws.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 5.—Alleged violations of mandatory provisions of law and basic business principles by officials of the city of Syracuse are pointed out in a statement to-day by State Controller Sohmer, following an examination of the fiscal affairs of that city by examiners of the State Controller's office.

Among other things the examiners report illegal payment of city moneys, failure to collect money due the city, county officials paying city debts from the city's moneys, failure to provide a sinking fund for the payment of $3,800,000 in water improvement bonds due in 1920, and repeated violations and evasions of the provision of the second-class cities law, which requires that all contracts of $250 or more shall not be awarded without public letting.

"The officials of a city," says Controller Sohmer, "accept the responsibilities of the positions with the honors, and the voters who elected them have a right to expect that they will be zealous in working for the city's interests. This fact does not seem to have been properly appreciated by some of the officials of Syracuse."

For Massachusetts Secretary.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 5.—Former Representative Russell A. Wood of this city announced to-night that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Secretary of State at the primaries in September.

ARRESTED IN CHURCH.

Beggar Interrupts Atlanta Charity Sermon, Pleading Hunger.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 5.—While the Rev. John D. Robins was delivering a sermon on charity in Trinity Southern Methodist Church this morning an unkempt man rose in front of the chancel rail and cried repeatedly, "Give me 5 cents, I am hungry."

A large and fashionable congregation was present, and the interruption of a charity sermon by an appeal for bread caused a commotion. Several women screamed, apparently fearing that the man might attack the pastor. Officers of the church escorted him, still crying that he was hungry, out of the church and turned him over to a policeman.

At the station the man said he had been out of work, and that the preacher's talk on charity moved him to reveal his straits. Mr. Robins and several members of the church visited the man later at the police station. They say they will aid him, and see that the charge of disorderly conduct is dismissed.

TEXAS VOTE CLOSE, BOTH SIDES CLAIM IT

President Carries the Tenth Congress District and Roosevelt Has the Fourth.

WILSON SWEEPS THE STATE

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, May 5.—Returns from yesterday's precinct primary conventions are not yet sufficiently tabulated to tell whether Taft or Roosevelt will get the State's forty delegates to the Republican National Convention. Col. Cecil Lyon, National Committeeman and Republican State Chairman, who managed Col. Roosevelt's campaign in this State, is confident that the final result will show the former President to be the victor, but the Taft men are equally confident that the President will win. Taft is known to have carried the Tenth Congressional District.

On the Democratic side Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey swept everything before him and will have the full forty votes of the Texas delegates at the Baltimore Convention. Wilson's popular vote, from present indications, will be double that of Harmon and Clark combined. The County Conventions to be held on Tuesday next to send delegates to the State Convention at Houston on May 28 will be under control of the Wilson men in nearly all the Congressional districts.

There is talk of the Wilson men in the State Convention disregarding any Congress district action that may be taken to obtain a minority of delegates for Harmon, basing their action on the Bailey majorities of four years ago, when a solid delegation of Senator Bailey's friends was sent to the Denver Convention.

It is almost a certainty that R. M. Johnston will be retired as the Texas member of the Democratic National Committee. T. B. Love of Dallas is being considered by the Wilson men as Johnston's successor.

Senator Bailey, Mr. Johnston, and other Harmon leaders, were in consultation at Harmon State headquarters to-day. They were downcast, and had no news or plans to make public.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The only official news received to-day from Texas was a dispatch to Senator Dixon from E. N. Mulkey, the Roosevelt manager in the Fourth Congress District, saying:

> This county and district will elect instructed Roosevelt delegates. Returns from balance of State are too meagre for prediction, but Roosevelt carried first twelve out of thirteen boxes reported in Dallas County; and in Houston County, home of MacGregor, (Taft's Texas campaign manager,) the first four boxes reporting are all Roosevelt.

A few Texans in town received advices from home late to-night saying that Taft appeared to have a small lead. The informants added, however, that nothing definite was known about how the State had gone.

RIVALS HELPED WILSON WIN.

Opposition of Harmon and Clark in Texas Proved a Benefit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson's landslide in Texas yesterday has done something toward evening things up on the Democratic side. Hitherto Speaker Clark has had everything his own way. The 40 votes that Wilson has captured in the Lone Star State bring his total up to 153, so that he is now within gunshot of Clark, who has 199. If he does not increase his lead, but yet can keep about that far behind the Speaker, he will be able to prevent him from getting the necessary two-thirds or even a majority. It looks more and more like a deadlock and a dark horse.

What is even more important than Wilson's success in Texas is the way in which he won. When Wilson's candidacy appeared to be the most formidable of any the other candidates entered into a gentleman's agreement whereby they divided up the United States against him. If, for instance, Harmon appeared to be stronger than others in a certain State then the strength of all the others were thrown to Harmon as against Wilson, and they did not appear as candidates; if Underwood seemed the stronger the State was turned over to him; if Clark seemed to have the greatest strength then he was selected to represent the anti-Wilson cobination.

The result of this was that Clark showed vastly more strength than anybody had expected, while Harmon failed to show any at all, and Underwood has been getting just about what was predicted. The Harmon and Underwood men had not counted on putting Clark so dangerously far ahead. They seem to have prevented Wilson from becoming the leading candidate and from getting a majority, much less a two-thirds vote on the early ballots, but the race horse way in which Clark is running disquiets them.

Now, in Texas Harmon was selected as the anti-Wilson candidate. But as the campaign went on his appalling weakness in the Lone Star State became apparent. The Governor of Ohio went to Texas and took the stump, and Senator Bailey went there to help him out, but every day it became more and more evident that Harmon had not the ghost of a chance in the State. And Texas has forty votes.

So at the last moment, in desperation, Clark was brought forward in the hope of splitting the Wilson strength. An attempt was made to start a Clark boom, but it was too late, and served only to demoralize the Harmonites.

The result is that Wilson will control the State Convention by more than two to one and that Texas's forty votes will go as a unit to Wilson. The only big county which Harmon has surely carried is Jefferson, in which the Beaumont oil industry is situated. By agreement, he gets one-third of Harris County, in which Houston is located. Bear County, where is San Antonio, is in doubt, with the chances favoring Harmon. If Clark has got any counties at all, they are small ones.

Wherever Senator Bailey spoke for Harmon an overwhelming majority for Wilson was piled up. Representative Burleson received a telegram from Austin to-night reading:

"Wherever Gov. Harmon spoke," said Representative Henry of Texas, Chairman of the Rules Committee, to-night, "he made Gov. Wilson stronger, because he made it perfectly manifest that his sympathies are with the special interests and against the masses of the people. Wherever he made a speech he lost the county and the territory surrounding it. Gov. Wilson's friends owe him much for this unintentional aid."

The Wilson people claim 208 delegates for their candidate with Texas; but they do this by including those delegates whose second choice is Wilson. They give the Speaker 184; Harmon, 4; Underwood, 64; Gov. Marshall of Indiana, 30; Gov. Burke of North Dakota, 10, and Gov. Baldwin, 14.

ALLEN JURY IN CHURCH.

After Returning Sings Old Hymn So Outlaw Prisoner Can Hear.

WYTHEVILLE, Va., May 5.—The Allen jury went to church to-day, and on returning to its room in the Court House held a song service. The hearty voices of the twelve countrymen blended in the harmony of an old hymn, "Are You Ready for the Judgment Day."

Across the Court House green, Floyd Allen, the prisoner on trial—first of the gang which exterminated the Carroll County court officers in March—heard the song. To-morrow his trial continues, with the prospect that it may not be ended before two weeks. Eighteen witnesses have been examined, and the prosecution still has forty-seven to swear. The defense has as many or more.

Allen's mental strain, and the pain he has endured from his broken leg, which was improperly set, have made him a sorry sight. He is now little like the rugged mountaineer who once spread fear over a countryside. His decline has alarmed all who see him.

KILLED STEALING A RIDE.

Boy Tramp Victim of a Wreck on Chicago & Alton Road.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 5.—An unidentified boy, who was stealing a ride, was killed and several passengers were injured this afternoon when a Chicago & Alton passenger train running between Kansas City and Chicago went into a ditch eight miles from Springfield.

As the accident occurred on a straight stretch of track railroad men are at a loss to determine its cause.

any advertising in the Sunday newspapers, adopted the alternative of placing in each window a neatly printed placard of the bargains which will be offered on Monday morning. Hundreds of well-dressed women were seen during the afternoon, notebook and pencil in hand, taking notes of these offerings.

Great Money Loss to Trade.

Not alone has the loss been heavy to the newspapers in the matter of advertising, but managers of the department stores said to-day that as a result of the inability to reach the reading public the sales in all the big shops of Chicago during the last few days have decreased many thousands of dollars, and that a conservative estimate of the curtailment would not fall far short of $750,000.

Importation of Sunday newspapers from neighboring cities to Chicago was on an enormous scale. The Joliet Herald sent in 60,000 copies of its edition, with a special Chicago page. Milwaukee sent in a large quota, as did Aurora, Elgin, and other near-by points. New York newspapers were at a premium, and copies of THE NEW YORK TIMES of Friday containing a full and unbiased report of the conditions existing in this city were quoted at 25 cents each. By nightfall it was impossible to purchase a copy of THE TIMES at any price.

President Berry of the International Pressmen's Union, to whom is ascribed a threat to call out the pressmen on all the newspapers affiliated with the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, arrived in Chicago this evening. He made several addresses at meetings of the striking pressmen, but evaded the question of calling a general strike.

President Freel of the International Stereotypers' Union is expected in Chicago to-morrow morning. It is believed that his coming will have some influence upon the belligerent attitude assumed thus far by the striking pressmen.

TOURING CARS

The fact that The Raymond & Whitcomb Co., pioneers of coast-to-coast tours, selected GARFORD cars and trucks to make up their first transcontinental automobile train is in itself sufficient proof of the GARFORD'S supremacy as an all-around road car.

The GARFORD was selected because it filled all the requirements of simple mechanical construction; easy operation, splendid appearance, equipment, comfort and absolute dependability.

The good judgment of The Raymond & Whitcomb Company was completely demonstrated. The four GARFORD cars and one truck made the trip from New York to Los Angeles without a single mishap, as is attested by the sixteen passengers who made up the company of the train and arrived at their destination several days ahead of schedule time.

A full and interesting review of the trip is given in the "TRAIL TO THE SUNSET" and the "LOG OF AN AUTO PRAIRIE SCHOONER." Copies may be had upon request.

KAISER WIELDS PICK TO UNCOVER TEMPLE

DISCOVERY IS IMPORTANT

He Sends to the Archaeological Institute in Berlin a Technical Description of the Results.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, May 6.—The Athens correspondent of The London Times sends the following dispatch:

"The German Emperor was once more fortunate in assisting in a discovery of great archaeological importance yesterday in the garden of King George's villa, 'Mon Repos,' in Corfu.

"The foundations and a considerable portion of the superstructure of an ancient temple were brought to light. Some few remains were discovered there in 1822, but the greater part of the structure is now laid bare. The temple, which is of small dimensions, dates from the fifth or sixth century before Christ. It is of the Doric order, without triglyphs, and presents certain features of the Ionic style.

"The Emperor, who manifested the greatest interest in the excavation, spent most of the day on the spot, and, taking off his coat, wielded the pickaxe. The King and Queen and Crown Prince and Princess of Greece were present at the operations. During the afternoon sailors from the imperial yacht assisted the workmen.

"During the last few days a number of ancient painted stelae of remarkable size and beauty have been discovered in the course of excavations conducted on the site of the ancient Pagasae, near Volo. The stelae are built into the walls of the latter, which are fortresses, erected by the Macedonian King Perseus, and their colors have thus been preserved. More than a hundred of these specimens of ancient pictorial art are now in the museum at Volo, forming a unique and most interesting collection."

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, May 5.—The Emperor has sent to the Imperial Archaeological Institute here a detailed and highly technical description of the excavations at "Mon repos." His report says that the excavations began last week with the consent of the King of the Hellenes on the site of a Doric temple, which was partly excavated some ninety years ago by English archaeologists, and was subsequently reburied in rubbish.

On being re-excavated, the walls of the cellar, of which the understructure was stone and the upper part clay brick, were found preserved to a height of about one meter. Inside the cella the base of the statue of the deity was cleared and well preserved.

The sub-structure of two stone steps and numerous Doric columns and capitals, which are to be set up again, still remain. Of the buildings on the north, south, and west sides of the temple a number of architraves belonging to the entablature, have been excavated, and the Emperor describes them as having a row of leaves instead of a decoration of the usual Doric style. The cornices of the west pediment, which he thinks can be restored, are decorated with the same device, and there is "a rich non-Doric decoration on other parts." The Emperor adds that "by reason of the vicinity of the renowned springs of Aescula, Apollo should be regarded as the deity of the temple, although this conclusion is at present uncertain."

TO SUE FOR TROLLEY HURTS.

Guilford Passengers Say Car Was Driven Recklessly.

Special to The New York Times.

GUILFORD, Conn., May 5.—Suits will be filed immediately by nearly all the forty persons who were injured in the wreck of the trolley express car of the Shore Line Electric Company yesterday, alleging that the car was making nearly fifty miles an hour and was being driven recklessly.

Several of the injured assert that the car was allowed to dash down Long Hill just before reaching this place without slackening its speed when the curve was reached at the foot of the hill.

The condition of all the injured was better to-day, although four are not yet out of danger. They are Mrs. George Hollenbeck of Wallingford, whose chest was crushed; Miss Ellen Brennan of Clinton and Mrs. W. L. Booth of Meriden, both of whom sustained fractures of ribs and collarbone, and Miss Jennie Erwing of Brookfield, Mass., a school teacher of Meriden. She has a slight contusion of the brain.

Two Yale students, Charles Langdon of Hartford and C. S. Mead of Everett, Mass., who were riding behind the motorman, escaped with badly cut heads.

Mrs. Harry Johnson of Madison, who was riding in the car with a basket of eggs by her side, was thrown through the window; her basket was found without an egg broken.

Chester Griswold of Guilford, who had a bottle in each coat pocket, was badly cut by being thrown through the window, but neither bottle was broken.

FREIGHT STRIKE CONFERENCE

Chicago Chief Promises Railroads Ample Police Protection To-day.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Chief of Police McWeeny and Assistant Chief of Police Schuettler conferred to-day with representatives of the various railroads affected by the freight handlers' strike. More than a score of railroads were represented by their Superintendents or special agents. After the conference Chief McWeeny announced that he would place Assistant Chief Schuettler in charge of the freight handlers' strike situation and in command of 450 policemen who will be detailed to-morrow at more than thirty-eight freight houses to preserve order.

PADEREWSKI WAS INSULTED.

Will Never Return to South Africa, Says the Angered Pianist.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 5.—Ignace Paderewski, the famous pianist, who has just finished a tour of South Africa, complained bitterly before sailing for England of the treatment he had received, and announced his intention never to visit the country again.

In an interview published in The Cape Times, the pianist related his experiences while coming down the coast from Durban aboard the steamer. He was playing very softly on the ship's piano when a man came up and said:

"Here, you stop that noise."

"I stopped playing at once," said Paderewski, "and then the man went into the smoking room to his friends and they roared with laughter when he told them that he had stopped me from playing. He was not content with insulting me, but must also go up on deck, where my secretary was painting, and throw biscuit crumbs all over the picture.

"What a country! How could one be happy in a country where there is no understanding of art? They have no idea of art, no sentiment for it, and no desire for it."

If the famous musician is vexed at the treatment he received in South Africa, the inhabitants in their turn are vexed by his remarks.

"If we have disappointed the great performer as an artistic community," says The Johannesburg Star, "it is only fair to say that he has likewise disappointed us as a man of the world and a good sport.

"It is not our fault if an artist visits our towns, and particularly Johannesburg, under the impression that we are an open gold mine. It has never been previously impressed upon such visitors that we have had little more than a quarter of a century's existence, and that we are still in our artistic swaddling clothes."

Sheep Herder on Sinking Mound Drops Into Prehistoric Chamber.

Special to The New York Times.

SANTA Fe., N. M., May 5.—At Magdalena, Socorro County, Ursulo Borrego, a sheep herder, while standing on one of many mounds in that section, felt himself sinking, and broke through the roof of a subterranean room, apparently part of a large communal dwelling.

In the room were a large number of rare and artistic pieces of prehistoric pottery that curio dealers value at $500. There were also charred corn and several skeletons.

Unexcavated prehistoric communal dwellings number many thousands west and south of Santa Fé, and tradition has it that some of them contain treasures.

VICTIMS OF LABOR SWINDLE.

Brooklyn Boys Enticed Away to Become Strikebreakers in Baltimore.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—Driven to the verge of starvation and to the point of devouring grass for food, five youths reached this city from Baltimore to-day after having been enticed from Brooklyn, N. Y., by promises of lucrative employment.

They gave their names, ages, and addresses as Simon Kander, 18 years, of 198 South First Street; Edgar Cox, 17 years, of 174 Metropolitan Avenue; James Becchiv, 18 years, of 120 Jackson Street; Harry Willett, 19 years, of 464 Metropolitan Avenue, and Joseph Fretzer, 22 years, of 151 Withers Street.

They walked into the Thirty-second Street and Woodland Avenue Station and asked for food. The police took them to City Hall, where they were well fed. Messages were sent to their relatives in Brooklyn and means will be found to return them to their homes.

According to the story of the boys, they were approached by three well-dressed men last week in Brooklyn, and offered $2.50 a day as clerks in Baltimore. Together with about twenty-five other young men they accepted the positions. Thursday night they were taken to a special train in Jersey City and started for Baltimore. One by one the men disappeared at different stations, and when the boys attempted to leave the car they found it locked.

At a small station near Baltimore they were met by another man, who demanded that they follow him. He took them to the water front and quartered them in shacks, and then informed them that they had been hired to act as stevedores during a strike. Many protested, but a number were forced to work on a ship called the Maggie.

The five boys watched their opportunity and ran away. They told their story to the Baltimore police, but received no assistance. Then they began the march home, stealing rides and walking along the railroad tracks. They say that hunger forced them frequently to eat grass.

LOOK FOR ITALIAN FEUDISTS.

Police Believe Man Found in Reid Lake Was Vendetta Victim.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 5.—The finding of the body of a young Italian, who is as yet unidentified, in the lake on Whitelaw Reid's country estate on Saturday leads the police here to believe that there is an Italian vendetta in operation in Westchester County.

The body of the man found on Ophir Farm, the Reid place, had fourteen stab wounds in the back and two bullet wounds in the left side. Coroner Iles is in charge of the case, but the papers found on the body were so water soaked that the name could not be read. The body was found by Carl Hubert of Harrison, who was fishing in the lake, and his line raised it after a cast.

The murder of this man is thought to be the outcome of the killing of Felipe Carida, whose corpse was found in the Bronx Valley sewer on Feb. 28. Three weeks later an attempt was made to kill Tony Marro, a friend of Carida, as he walked along Main Street. Then came the killing of an Italian in the street at Peekskill, and the feudists were traced to Fishkill. The body of the latest murdered man had been in the water about three weeks, and although dressed as a laborer he had little of the appearance of one. This was also true of the victims of the other killings.

POISONED EX-PRIEST HAD SOUGHT A WIFE

Berlin Police Think Liebe Killed Himself Because the Marriage Broker Failed.

HAD A COLLECTING MANIA

Besides a Fortune in Gems, He Had Gathered a Mass of Apparel and a Huge Stock of Poisons.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, May 5.—The mysterious death of ex-Priest Liebe, owner of a £7,400 ($37,000) horde of jewels and precious stones, continues to baffle Berlin. Why he poisoned himself, and how he contrived to collect gems rivaling in beauty and value a King's treasure, remain an unsolved and apparently insolvable problem.

The detectives, lacking any other theory, are now persuaded that Liebe was the victim of the "collecting mania." It has been ascertained that the £1,500 ($7,500) communion chalice was made to order for him by a Parisian goldsmith.

This collecting mania is also held responsible for the nondescript mass of cast-off neckties, collars, and other trifling articles of apparel, which Liebe collected in orderly fashion. To the same passion is attributed the existence of his cabinet of poisons, in which he kept deadly drugs sufficient to kill the population of a good-sized village.

Liebe's diaries fail to reveal the motive for his self-destruction or the source of his treasure, but his correspondence shows that he had been of late negotiating with a marriage broker. Despondency at his failure to obtain a wife may, it is thought, have induced him to commit suicide.

Liebe was also melancholy over his dismissal from an army Chaplaincy on account of his fondness for "high life."

WILL STATE CLAIM LETTER?

Virginia Once Demanded Washington Relic Now Offered in Lossing Sale.

There is an interesting story connected with the original manuscript of the circular letter addressed to Benjamin Harrison, Governor of Virginia, by George Washington, which is probably the most valuable of the autographs in Part I. of the late Benson J. Lossing's collection of Americana, which will be auctioned off by the Anderson Company on Thursday and Friday. The letter consists of twenty-one pages folio, and is dated "Head Quarters, Newburgh," June 12, 1783. The body of the letter is in the handwriting of Jonathan Trumbull, Jr., who was secretary to Gen. Washington. It is thus described in the Lossing sale catalogue:

> A remarkable manuscript of supreme interest, not merely as marking a great epoch in the life of Washington, but as outlining the principles by which he considers the United States should be governed to take its place among the nations of the world. As a literary production nothing else that Washington ever wrote approaches this document, and it was evidently carefully thought over and worded. Washington, in referring to it, always termed it his "legacy."

It is the farewell letter which the Father of his Country addressed on June 12, 1783, to the Governors of the thirteen States. In it he urges oblivion of local prejudices and policies, and advocates an indissoluble union, a proper peace establishment, and a sacred regard to public justice, in other words, provision for the payment of the public debt.

Early in 1862 Dr. Lossing began the compilation of a work on the civil war, published in 1866-69. He visited the Southern States to gather material for the book. Shortly before his death on June 3, 1891, at Dover Plains, N. Y., he sold at auction a number of his historical autographs. Mr. Burns, a short time before his death, said that after the demise of Dr. Lossing, Mrs. Lossing turned over to him another lot of valuable material, which he catalogued with great care, bringing out the fine points of each important item. The sale was announced to be held at Libbie's, in Boston. The finest and most valuable autograph of this collection, Mr. Burns said, was one of Gen. Washington's circular letters to the Governors of the States. It was addressed to Benjamin Harrison, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, who was elected Governor of Virginia in 1782.

Much interest was manifested by collectors, Mr. Burns said, and on the day of the sale a goodly number were present in the auction rooms. The general opinion was that the Washington letter to Gen. Harrison was the most desirable item of the lot.

Ere the auctioneer began the sale, however, Mr. Burns said, a gentleman came forward who said that he was from Virginia, that he was a State official, and that he was present to assert and maintain Virginia's sole ownership of the Washington letter. He denied, Mr. Burns said, Dr. Lossing's right to it. It was addressed to Benjamin Harrison, he declared, not in his private capacity, but in that of Governor of the State. It was, therefore, a State paper, and no one had just claim to it except Virginia.

Mr. Burns said that he tried to convince the gentleman that he was in the wrong, but without avail. He told him that it had been given to Dr. Lossing by the Military Governor of Virginia after the close of the war, and that, therefore, it belonged to Dr. Lossing. The Virginian would not acquiesce. He said that no one except Virginia herself had any right to the letter. Neither President nor Congress, nor Military Governor, had any authority to give away what belonged solely to the State of Virginia.

Many years had elapsed since this incident, and Mr. Burns said that he did not quite clearly recollect what followed this unlooked for visit and action of the Virginia official, but his impression was that it either seriously interfered with the success of the sale or led to its postponement, and that the Virginian returned home with the precious missive.

The appearance of the Washington-Harrison letter in the present Lossing sale, therefore, gives rise to the question whether Virginia will again come forward with a claim to its ownership.

New Yorker Killed by Boston Train.

BOSTON, May 5.—The body of a man who had fallen from a train and been killed at Hyde Park station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, was picked up to-night, and it is believed to be that of P. Macken of Brooklyn, N. Y. Identification was made by means of a tag on the man's key ring.

RHODES WAS EASILY TAKEN.

Governor Yielded the City to Italy and Shells Dispersed His Men.

ROME, May 5.—According to official dispatches from Rhodes, which Italian forces seized yesterday, troops were landed some distance from the capital city. They immediately advanced, driving the Turkish troops before them at the point of the bayonet.

In the meantime, Admiral Viale summoned the Governor of the city to surrender. The latter replied that he possessed no means of resistance, and accordingly abandoned control of the city under protest. He added that he had no power to issue orders to the garrison, which retired soon afterward to a position outside the city. The warships promptly shelled the Turkish soldiers, who withdrew, and the Italian colors were hoisted over the city.

Five of the Italians were wounded in the engagement. The Turks are believed to have suffered heavily. Fifty were made prisoners.

ACCUSE AMERICAN AS SPY.

Turks Remove the Captain of the Texas to Prison Infirmary.

ATHENS, May 5.—In spite of the protests of the American and Greek Consuls the Captain of the steamship Texas, which was blown up a few days ago in the Gulf of Smyrna, was forcibly removed from the Greek Hospital at Smyrna to a Turkish prison infirmary to-day. The Turks accuse him of spying in Italy's behalf.

The American Consul has notified the Embassy at Constantinople, and it is said that the First Secretary of the Embassy and the Captain of an American guardship have been sent to Smyrna.

A large number of the passengers and crew were drowned when the Texas sank. An inquiry into the disaster showed that the Turkish forts fired several solid shots at the steamer, one of which is supposed to have exploded a mine or the vessel's boilers.

ARMY CORPS FLY TO-DAY.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Aero Club of Washington holds field day to-morrow in commemoration of the anniversary of Samuel Pierpont Langley's first aerodrome flight, May 6. 1896. It is sixteen years since Secretary Samuel Pierpont Langley of the Smithsonian Institution made his first successful flight with his model steam aerodrome, demonstrating the practicability of mechanical flight.

Mr. Langley's machine, although only a model, was practically a real ship of the air, and has precedence over any heavier-than-air craft in the world. This historical flight was made at the experimental station on the Potomac River, near Quantico, Va., where Mr. Langley's workshop houseboat was moored.

The successful model No. 5 was a steam-driven, double propeller, tandem biplane, having a total sustaining surface, without the tail, of 68 square feet, and a total flying weight of twenty-six pounds. Its engine was rated at about one horse power. In the initial flight the machine remained in the air for one minute and thirty seconds, and traversed a distance of about 3,000 feet, a little over half a mile.

It landed safely in the river, as had been planned, was taken out, immediately put on the track and relaunched. In the second flight a repetition of the former success followed. In a subsequent report on the subject, Mr. Langley said:

"A flying machine, so long a type for ridicule, has really flown; it has demonstrated its practicability in the only satisfactory way, by actually flying, and by doing this again and again, under conditions which leave no doubt."

Mr. Langley continued his investigations, experimented with models driven by both steam and gasoline, and eventually, aided by means of an allotment from the War Department, constructed a large man-carrying machine driven by a remarkably efficient five-cylinder gasoline motor which was built in the Smithsonian shops under the direction of Mr. Charles M. Manley, Mr. Langley's engineering assistant.

Mr. Langley died on Feb. 27, 1906, and it was not until the last few years that he has been accorded the measure of credit which his experiments deserved.

In commemoration of the services Mr. Langley rendered to the art and science of aviation, the Aero Club of Washington conceived the idea in 1911 of holding a field day annually on the 6th of May, to be known as Langley Day. The first of these celebrations will be held at the Chevy Chase Club to-morrow, when Prof. Willis L. Moore, President of the Aero Club of Washington, will give an address on Langley's work and influence on aviation, Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver will speak on the work of the army in aviation, and Capt. W. I. Chambers on the work of the navy. Flights will be made by members of the Army Aviation Corps and Mr. Paul Peck of the Gyro Motor Company.

LONDON HAS TO WAIT FOR NEW CLOTHES

COURT LEVEE ABOUT DUE

And Embryo Uniforms and Knee Breeches Repose on Workroom Shelves Without a Stitch in Them.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 5.—There is no sign of peace at present in the tailoring trade, consequently there is no chance of having clothes made in the West End of London.

No matter how great the need or how distinguished the customer, no master tailor will guarantee the delivery of any suits. It is small consolation for the well-dressed man, who has nothing to wear save suits of the Winter fashion, that even Kings and Princes are sharing the same discomfort.

The master craftsmen of Savile Row and Conduit Street are master tailors to monarchs, and in this time of a strike the clothes for the royal personage fare no better than the garments of commoners.

There is much perturbation among those officers and officials who are expected to attend the forthcoming levees and Courts and need new uniforms. The Court tailoring firms have great numbers of special orders for Courts and levees, and practically all of them are delayed.

There is scarcely a Court dress in the making which has received a stitch since Wednesday. The naval and military orders at this time of the year are particularly numerous. Thousands of unfinished uniforms of all kinds, together with private garments carefully conceived and eagerly awaited, are reposing on the shelves of the empty workshops.

ATTACKS GIRL AND ESCAPES.

Child Left Cut and Bruised on Vacant Lot in Coney Island.

Virginia Bolan, 12 years old, of 17 New Street, Coney Island, while returning home late last night after running an errand for her mother, was attacked by an unknown man on a vacant lot opposite her home. The child's face was badly cut, and one of her lower teeth was knocked out and her lips were bleeding.

The child went across the lot as a short cut to her home. Half way across the lot a man sprang out from behind a clump of bushes, and, seizing her in his arms, carried her to a wall in the rear of a car barn. The child fought desperately to free herself, and her cries brought her mother to the door of their home. Mrs. Bolan ran toward the lot, and saw a man running toward the street. She pursued him four blocks to Sheepshead Bay Road, and then, returning to the lot, found it was her daughter whose cries had attracted her.

She carried her daughter to the house and summoned Dr. P. S. Nash of Neptune Avenue and Cortlandt Street. The physician found the child to be in a serious condition. Capt. Thomas Murphy and a dozen detectives on a description of the man furnished by the child went to search the neighboring highways for him.

Baron Bickerstein to be German Envoy in London, Is Report.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, May 5.—A diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Mail states that Baron Marschall von Bickerstein will shortly replace Count Wolff Metternich as German Ambassador in London, and that the appointment, which will give rise to many speculations in Europe and Asia, is an event of more than usual significance and importance.

"It would surprise those who know him (Baron Bickerstein) if his appointment does not mark the beginning of a new epoch in our relations with Germany. At any rate, his presence in London must tend to solve some vital problems affecting the East as well as the West."

Men's Blue Serges
at Saks'

¶ The average blue serge suit is a commonplace in Men's clothes. It is made by all tailors, worn by nearly all men, and its chief characteristic is an irritating resemblance to its fellows. What difference does exist is confined to the quality of the fabrics. The quality of the tailoring is uniform in its lack of individuality.

¶ It has remained for Saks' to redeem the blue serge from the danger of living on its past reputation, and to tailor it with those distinctive touches which have come to be the especial province of the Saks organization.

¶ In the many models of blue serge suits we are now showing for Spring, you will discern in the tailoring a number of smart features and a general faultlessness of line and finish, due primarily to "knowing how."

¶ The man who is ready for his blue serge will find us ready, at an elastic range of prices, but with style and distinctive tailoring common to all prices. 17.50 to 35.00

the best the town affords!

¶ By all means do not miss this. We have 1,200 silk and linen shirts that are the finest it is possible to make. Better workmanship does not come in any shirts, at any price, anywhere. No, nor better fabrics either. You may get more expensive fabrics, but not better. Silk-and-linens of this quality don't take a back seat for any shirting made. They are not only handsome in appearance and exquisitely soft and comfortable, but they will defy wear and water indefinitely.

¶ Fine Russian cords and plain silk stripes, on light grounds. A few dark grounds for the few who want them. But on both grounds, and on all grounds, these shirts are a remarkable value—in fact, a regular 3.50 value. Made with the new French cuffs, which are rounded at the corners to the North and the South of the cuff links. All sizes and sleeve lengths. Just the shirts for cool, negligee wear, and the kind which, in workmanship, finish, and design, will appeal to the man who has a taste for the artistic in his linen. Main floor

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The life of Major Archibald W. Butt as a soldier, newspaper man, aid to President, and lodge member, and his heroic death on the Titanic was commemorated by his Commander in Chief, the President, the Secretary of War, a Senator of his native State, a contemporary in the newspaper field, and the fraternity of Masonry at an impressive memorial service here to-day.

The tribute President Taft paid to his late aid epitomized all that was said. "Everybody knew Archie as Archie," said the President. "I cannot go into a box at a theatre; I cannot turn around in my room; I can't go anywhere without expecting to see his smiling face or to hear his cheerful voice in greeting. The life of the President is rather isolated, and those appointed to live with him come much closer to him than any one else. The bond is very close, and it is difficult to speak on such an occasion.

"Archie Butt's character was single, simple, straightforward, and incapable of intrigue. A clear sense of humor lightened his life and those about him. Life was not for him a troubled problem. He was a soldier, and when he was appointed to serve under another, to that other he rendered implicit loyalty. I never knew a man who had so much self-abnegation, so much self-sacrifice as Archie Butt.

"Occasions like the sinking of the Titanic frequently develop unforeseen traits in men. It makes them heroes when you don't expect it. But with Archie it was just as natural for him to help those about him as it was for him to ask me to permit him to do something for some one for me.

"He was on the deck of the Titanic exactly what he was everywhere. He leaves a void with those who loved him, but the circumstances of his going are all what we would have had, and, while the tears fill the eyes and the voice is choked, we are felicitated by the memory of what he was."

President Taft spoke with difficulty and he was forced to an abrupt ending by a failure of voice and a steady flow of tears.

Beside Mrs. Taft sat Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Butt of Augusta, Ga. Opposite them sat Secretary Wilson, Secretary Meyer, and other prominent officials. Senator Bacon sat with the members of the Georgia delegation in Congress, and throughout the meeting place were statesmen, soldiers and friends of the dead officer. Temple Lodge No. 32, of the Masonic fraternity, was seated with the speakers.

Major Butt the Soldier.

"Archibald Butt entered the volunteer forces of the United States in January, 1900, as an Assistant Quartermaster with the rank of Captain. A year later, on the recommendation of Mr. Taft, then the Chairman of the Philippine Commission, he was commissioned a Quartermaster in the regular army with the same rank. Ten years later he became a Major. The first three years of his service were spent in the Philippine Islands, where he had charge of the depot corral at Manila, being responsible for the issuance of fuel and forage, and where he had supervision over the care and training of all the pack trains and other means of transportation necessary for our operation in the islands during those years of insurrection and disturbance.

"From Manila he was transferred to Washington, and remained there as Depot Quartermaster until the Army of Pacification entered Cuba for the second intervention in September, 1906. He went with it as Depot Quartermaster for Havana, and took charge of the landing of our troops and supplies and their distribution to their various destinations throughout the island. In May, 1908, he was called back from Cuba to become the personal aid of President Roosevelt, and he continued on as the personal aid of President Taft until his death.

"It is not always that the terse, dry records of an officer on file in the War Department reveal those dominant characteristics which have brought him success or failure in his profession. Very often it is only from other sources—from the lips of his associates or others—that we can obtain the keynote of his character which furnishes the true picture of the living man. In the case of Major Butt, however, the story told by the records and by all his fellow-officers is the same. From the day he landed a young volunteer at Manila with his shipload of teamsters and pack animals, down to his latest recorded service, he made the same simple yet clear and strong impression upon all who came in contact with him.

"Absolute and unshaken loyalty to every friend and to every duty, good-humored tact and discretion combined with efficiency, an ever gentle and considerate manner coupled with unflinching courage when courage was required—those were the simple, soldierly traits which all who met him recognized.

A Cotillion Leader in Overalls.

"Col. Miller, the Chief Quartermaster in charge at Manila, has put it on record that he was so impressed with the condition of Capt. Butt's cargo when it reached Manila; with the excellent care which had been given to the animals and the skill and discretion shown in handlig the unruly teamsters and pack men, that he at once assigned the young Quartermaster to the unusually important and responsible position which he held thereafter during the three years of his stay.

"An old newspaper friend who had known him as a society man and leader of cotillions in Washington, went aboard the transport to welcome him at Manila, and found him in overalls and shirt-sleeves among his men pushing mules over the gang plank. He never seemed to lose his temper or his coolness. He was never loud or boisterous, nor was he ever excited. He was never rough with his men, but was always able to get an unusual amount of work out of them.

"Shortly after his arrival during the Fall of 1900 a tremendous tyhoon or hurricane visited Manila. When the inspecting officer visited the Quartermaster's corral the next morning, expecting to find loss and destruction of animals and property, he found instead that Capt. Butt had spent the night there among his teamsters quieting the animals and insuring their protection.

"When orders came for the Cuban intervention in September, 1906, instead of waiting to go with his companions by ship, Butt took the train at once for Key West and Havana, reached there two days in advance of his chief, and had all plans ready for the landing by the time that they arrived.

Complimented by Gen. Chaffee.

"All of these incidents, each comparatively small, perhaps, of itself, show that under the pleasant, cheerful exterior of this young officer there lay a keen interest in his profession, a constant ability to cope with men and events, and an ever ready devotion of self to duty. Lieut. Gen. Chaffee wrote to him in 1906:

> You are an officer always regardful of the Government's interests, loyal to superiors of every rank, honest as the United States Treasury, your integrity unassailable.

"We do not always associate gentleness and consideration for others with the courage of a soldier's profession. Our ideal of army valor, too, often carries with it the notion of ruthless force which dominates and overrides. Are we right in this? Have not courage and gentleness been ever combined in the ideal of chivalry? A noble Frenchman, speaking to Mr. Justice Holmes of two of his compatriots, relics of the ancien régime, expressed it: "They were very gentle; they thought nothing of their lives.' It was of the soldier that Bayard Taylor wrote:

> The bravest are the tenderest;
> The loving are the daring.

"The same ideal of courage shines out in the records of the American Army. What battlefield of the Spanish war, with its many priceless memories of valor and self-devotion, offered an instance of more sublime courage coupled with devotion to humanity than the example of Surgeon Lazear and his associates quietly taking into their blood the deadly virus of yellow fever in order to gain the priceless knowledge which has since saved thousands of lives?

"And so we are glad to think that there came to Major Butt an opportunity to vindicate this chivalrous ideal of the quiet, self-sacrificing valor of the American soldier. We are proud to think of him on the deck of the Titanic, calm, efficient, helpful, ever master of himself; helping Miss Young into the lifeboat and even placing her wraps about her, as unaffectedly as if she were starting on a pleasure ride, and yet showing in his simple messages of farewell that he realized only too clearly what a long farewell it was.

"We like to think of him there as a fit representative of the American soldier, quietly doing his duty. Such an end is far from a tragedy; it is the fulfillment of a soldier's faith."

Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who once employed Major Butt as a Washington correspondent, and knew him as man and boy, spoke feelingly of his associations. He said he could not fail to mention the splendid courage of another Georgian, Jacques Futrelle, who lost his life on the Titanic, a fellow worker with Major Butt.

Edgar C. Snyder, a Washington newspaper man, spoke of Major Butt's activity in the newspaper field, and quoted a tribute written by Henry Watterson, a former employer of the President's aid.

Carter B. Keene, Master of Major Butt's lodge, also spoke. Philander C. Johnson read a poem dedicated to Major Butt. During the services the Marine Band, assisted by a choir, gave a programme of appropriate music.

SAW LIGHTS NEAR TITANIC.

Capt. Rostron Says He Thought Them Closer Than Carpathia Was.

LONDON, Monday, May 6.—Capt. Rostron of the steamship Carpathia, interviewed at Gibraltar by the correspondent of The Daily Mail, told the story of the rescue of the survivors of the Titanic. He warmly defended J. Bruce Ismay, declaring that he behaved irreproachably on board the Carpathia.

He concluded by saying that he remembered seeing distinctly two masthead lights at 3 o'clock Monday morning, which appeared nearer the Titanic than the Carpathia, and at daybreak he saw two other ships about eight miles away to the north, while the Carpathia was picking up survivors.

CABLE SHIP BRINGS MORE TITANIC DEAD

The Minia Arrives at Halifax with Fifteen Bodies, Including That of C. M. Hays.

NEW SHIP TO BE SENT OUT

Government Steamer Montmagny Sails To-day to Continue the Search for Victims.

HALIFAX, Monday, May 6.—The cable ship Minia reached here at 1:45 o'clock this morning, bringing, according to the wireless advices that have been received, fifteen additional bodies of victims of the Titanic.

Seventeen bodies in all were recovered by the Minia, she reported, but two, supposed to be those of firemen and unidentified, were buried at sea.

The list of identified bodies on the Minia is headed by the name of Charles M. Hays, President of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 5.—The search for Titanic bodies is to be continued, and the Canadian Government steamer Montmagny is to sail to-morrow, relieving the Minia. The White Star officials tried hard to get another steamer but failed. The two cableships which have been searching are required for their regular work.

As a last recourse an application was made to the Dominion Government for the Montmagny, which has been lying here some time undergoing repairs. This work was about concluded. At first the officials of the Marine Department at Ottawa were disinclined to let the vessel go, but a request was made direct to Premier Borden, and through him the Minister of Marine ordered that the ship be made ready to go.

Stevedores have been busy all day at the dock yards coaling the Montmagny, and she will be ready to sail to-morrow afternoon. The Montmagny is about four knots faster than either of the cableships, and is well adapted for the job she will have in hand. Supplies will be taken for a cruise of ten days or more. Ample material required by undertakers will be put on board.

The Government steamer in prosecuting her search will cruise along the edge of the Gulf Stream, and it is expected that bodies will be found in cold water as far north perhaps as 100 miles from the place where the Titanic went down. The Mackay-Bennett reported bodies drifting northeasterly, and the Montmagny's cruise will be in that direction.

A conference was held to-day with the Captain of the Mackay-Bennett, so that the commander of the Montmagny will be possessed of all the information at that official's disposal. Capt. Johnson, in charge of the lighthouse service of this coast, an experienced navigator, will likely proceed with the Montmagny.

SENATORS AID WOMEN'S PLAN.

Will Name Women in Their States to Help the Memorial Project.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—United States Senators, co-operating with the committee of one hundred of the Woman's Titanic Memorial Movement, will nominate ten women in each State, who will be asked to form State organizations and act as "centres of information" in their territories.

Already several Senators have announced the names of women in their States who are anxious to join the movement to pay "women's tribute to man" in the form of a memorial arch to be erected in Washington. Among the latest to pledge support to the enterprise are Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, and Mrs. Phoebe R. Hearst.

Senator William Alden Smith, Chairman of the sub-committee, which investigated the wreck of the Titanic, returned from New York to-day and announced that no more public hearings would be held. Senator Smith and other members of the sub-committee will meet soon to draft the report and recommendations to Congress.

SERVICES FOR TITANIC DEAD.

Two Recovered Bodies Buried Here—Memorials for Two Others.

A memorial service for S. Ward Stanton, marine writer and painter, who was drowned in the Titanic disaster, was held last night at the Washington Heights United Presbyterian Church, Audubon Avenue and 172d Street, of which Mr. Stanton was a Trustee. His widow and two young daughters and his mother, Mrs. Margaret Stanton of Breedentown, Tenn., were present. The Rev. John L. Hervey, pastor of the church; the Rev. James M. Farrar, D. D., pastor of the Old First Reformed Church, Brooklyn, where Mr. Stanton was formerly a member, and the Rev. R. L. Ross, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Chatham, N. Y., a lifelong friend of the dead artist, delivered short addresses.

The funeral of S. Kanter, another of the Titanic's dead, took place yesterday from Beth-Hamedrash Hagedel, at 64 Norfolk Street. Rabbi Simon Jeffe conducted the service. Mr. Kanter and his wife, Marion, were on their way here from Moscow. He was planning to take up a course of medicine. Mrs. Kanter was saved in one of the Titanic's lifeboats, but her husband remained aboard the steamer. His body was recovered by the cable ship Mackay-Bennett. It was buried in Zion Cemetery, Long Island.

Memorial service was held yesterday for Emil Taussig, who lost his life in the sinking of the Titanic. It was conducted by Dr. Stephen S. Wise at the Taussig home, 777 West End Avenue. The widow and her daughter, survivors of the wreck, were overcome with grief when Dr. Wise told how Mr. Taussig gave up his life that others might survive.

Mr. Taussig, his wife, and daughter Ruth were first cabin passengers on the Titanic. When the fatal crash came Mr. Taussig assisted his wife and daughter into the waiting lifeboat, and then turned aside that other women and children could enter.

TO STRENGTHEN NEW LINER.

The White Star Boat, Now Building, Will Have More Bulkheads.

LONDON, May 5.—It is stated that the big White Star liner now under construction at Belfast will be altered so as to include additional lateral bulkheads to minimize the risk of disaster.

The work on the new steamship will be accelerated so that she can take the place of the Titanic as soon as possible.

NEW LINK IN DEATH CHAIN.

H. A. Freeman the Fifth Victim Since "Hoodoo" Building Was Started.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., May 5.—H. A. Freeman, Secretary of the Board of Education, died at his home, 124 South Street, early this morning from a complication of diseases. Mr. Freeman was 60 years old. He was at one time Chief of the Morristown Fire Department, and was a member of the Board of Aldermen from 1896 to 1899. In 1910 he ran for Mayor on the Democratic ticket, but was defeated by the late Rev. Dr. Norman Fox. For thirty-four years he served as Secretary of the Board of Education.

A year ago the local civic association authorized the building of an addition on the Maple Avenue school, where the high school is situated. The contractor, Thomas Dempsey, soon after starting the work, dropped dead; then the architect was suddenly taken ill and died. President Stephen Pierson of the Board of Education was taken ill and died, and David H. Wilday, who succeeded Dr. Pierson, died also on Friday. Mr. Freeman leaves a widow.

The Time is opportune to Exchange Pianos

Your old piano in an exchange proposition is a larger asset to you now than later in the year.

Because if you let us have it now to apply on the purchase of a new Piano or Playerpiano we can make you a specially attractive allowance for at least two reasons.

First: At this time of year we have a large demand for used pianos to be sent to seashore and country resorts and can make a quick turnover.

Second: We can keep our workshop busy repairing and rebuilding old pianos during the usually dull months of summer.

Also if you intend to change your residence or close your home, and store your piano, you can save the moving or storing charges if you make the transfer now.

It may be that you are not ready to make the purchase of a Piano or before the autumn, in which case we will take your old instrument and give you a due bill to apply any time later when a selection would be more convenient.

People who love music often have to make sacrifices to own a piano, and those sacrifices represent a sincere belief in the integrity of the maker and the word of the seller.

Unfortunately because of that trustful belief it is presumed upon, and there are many very cheaply made and unworthy pianos sold to people who spend years of regret.

The safeguard lies in not being led by some alluring inducement, but to buy only such pianos as have attained an indisputable reputation for genuine artistic worth, and that are sold at an honest price by a reliable business house with an honest record to maintain.

334-PEARL NECKLACE STOLEN, SOUGHT HERE

PICKPOCKETS GET WATCHES

The Pinkerton National Detective Agency is searching this city for a four-strand pearl necklace containing 334 perfect and uniform pearls and held together by a large clasp of nine large diamonds. The necklace is said to be worth $75,000, and a $5,000 reward is offered for its recovery. According to a circular left by the agency with the various pawnbrokers in the city, it was stolen from a hotel room in San Francisco on Feb. 12 last in the early morning.

The same detective agency also has reason to believe that three other valuable pieces of jewelry stolen at the same time are now in this city. One of these is a pearl and diamond pin. The pin has ten curved prongs radiating from a common centre, and is set with several hundred diamonds of a quarter to half a karat in weight. On the ends of alternate prongs are five large pear-shaped pearls, two of them of a dark hue and the other three pink. The value of this elaborate ornament is not stated, but a single dark pear-shaped pearl like those described in the circular recently sold in this city for $8,000.

Another piece stolen is a diamond-studded lorgnette with attached diamond chain. The piece contains 265 diamonds, and the chain, which is about five feet long, 232 smaller diamonds. Another stolen piece of jewelry is a one-piece bracelet, consisting of a circlet of brilliants set in platinum.

Pawnbrokers said yesterday that none of the pawnshops in this city ever had in their possession any pieces of jewelry to compare with those stolen, and that detectives would have little chance of ever finding the pieces intact. The pearls in the necklace, for instance, could easily be unstrung and matched into half a dozen single strands of good size, and the pear-shaped pearls would sell best if reset.

Thieves in New York were also busy in April. The "green lists" for the month show that hauls aggregating at least $150,000 were made. The amount of goods stolen in other cities and being searched for here adds another $100,000.

Miss Jennie M. Cody won one of THE NEW YORK TIMES silver medals for an essay on the history of the city when she was a grammar school pupil in Public School 50. She was robbed of this medal and other pieces of jewelry.

A List of Stolen Diamonds.

Corsage pearl and diamond pin, three large dark pear shaped pearls on top, two large pink pear-shaped pearls on ends, spray set with small diamonds.

Bracelet, entire circlet of small diamonds.

Dinner ring, black sapphire surrounded by 10 diamonds.

Gold bracelet, three diamonds.

Plain gold bracelet with chip diamonds.

Three rings, three diamonds each, marked "Shreve."

Ring, coral surrounded by twelve brilliants.

Princess ring, sixteen brilliants.

Crescent brooch, thirteen brilliants.

Horseshoe scarf pin, thirteen brilliants.

Stick pin, fancy jade, ruby, sapphire, and three diamonds.

Stud with 3¼ and 1-16 and 1-32 karat diamond, blue-white stone.

Seal ring, bulldog's head with front paw, marked "A. H. M."

Two lists of diamond thefts, marked "Special," were evidently considered so important by the police that they listed them both in the green lists and in separate notices. Although separately listed, the date of the theft is the same on each, and it is believed that they were individually listed so as to make the theft appear less conspicuous. This is the combined list:

Solitaire diamond ring, about four and one-half-karat, with three chip diamonds on each side of the ring.

Gold watch, marked "E. B."

Stick pin, sapphire, surrounded by diamonds.

Five stick pins, miscellaneous designs.

Three star sapphire waistcoat buttons and two star shaped shirt buttons.

Gold chain, with seven or eight pearls.

Pickpockets Get Many Watches.

The number of watches stolen was much larger last month than in any of the winter months. It was explained that many watches were taken by pickpockets, and that the absence of overcoats always makes an appreciable difference in the number of thefts. At Police Headquarters, on the other hand, it was said that under the new arrangement fully 47 per cent. of all watches stolen in the city were recovered. The detectives, it was said, found the watches in the pawnshops. The new arrangement consists of a simplified method of tabulating the numbers of all watches taken in by the various pawnbrokers.

Formerly detectives visited each pawnshop and consulted the "watch book" for numbers. Now each pawnbroker is required to send to Police Headquarters daily a list of the numbers of the watches taken in each day, and the simple process of eliminating those for which a complaint has been filed is all done by clerks at Police Headquarters.

TRAIN KILLS A LAWYER.

C. H. Converse of Los Angeles Struck by Santa Fe Express.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 5.—Charles H. Converse, attorney and well-known in Los Angeles County, was struck by a Santa Fé train to-day while autoing, and died in twenty minutes. The accident totally wrecked his automobile, and threw the front engine trucks from the tracks, threatening the lives of passengers on the train.

There is a considerable grade where the Santa Fé tracks cross Loraine Avenue, and it is believed tnat Mr. Converse turned on oil to make the grade and drowned out his engine.

Mr. Converse was a pioneer of this section and stood high in the estimation of his neighbors. He leaves a widow, three daughters and a son, Lawrence Converse, who achieved considerable note when arrested in Mexico during the Madero rebellion.

FLOOD PERIL GROWS WITH HEAVY RAINS

"No Work, No Rations" Order Is Issued to Force Negro Refugees to Guard the Levees.

DISTRESS AMONG CHILDREN

Supply Depots Short of Milk—Sunday Schools Pressed Into Service to Aid in Feeding Infants.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 5.—Six great breaches have been torn in its barriers by the Mississippi River from the Tennessee line to the Gulf, and through these gaps in the levees, from 300 to 3,000 feet wide, uncounted millions of gallons of water escape each minute fro mthe mighty stream. But still the river rises. Nothing like it ever was known before, as the official flood record of the United States shows, and what mischief will be wrought before the danger has passed therefore is guess work.

Heavy rains pelted the softened levees from Vicksburg down to-day, and high winds whipped waves which lashed the embankments. Laborers, too, were sullen, tired by the long struggle and spoiled by the prospect of free rations. Thus every condition was against the engineers, and the planters who are commanding the fight. Still, no more crevasses were recorded up to midnight.

Near Morganza, La., is a levee thirty-five feet in height and 300 feet thick at the base. To-night, the water is within three inches of the top of this massive embankment and rising.

Large sections of fifteen Louisiana parishes west of the Mississippi River are under water, and four other parishes have some flood water and are bound to get more this week. Approximately 100,000 people in that territory have been driven from their homes, and trains are taking out hundreds of families daily. Fleets of motor boats and skiffs are also being used to rescue marooned people.

Every day brings stories of suffering in new sections inundated. Millions of dollars' worth of property is at stake, and thousands of lives would be jeopardized if some of the biggest of the levees should give way.

In the Third District of New Orleans the situation is still grave, and 1,000 laborers worked all day long to-day filling in dirt between the levees and the revetments. The water is over the dock at Esplanade Street, and the rear of the Southern Pacific transfer station is 18 inches deep in water.

Work continued to-night, and armed guards patroled the levees at all weak points in the city.

Water is running over the levee which protects the wholesale district of Baton Rouge to-night, and a great gang is working under arc lamps strung along the water front and the glare of steamboat searchlights. The conditions have been critical at Baton Rouge for days. State University students and the Governor in shirt sleeves worked side by side with the negro convicts.

Capt. Logan, in charge of the relief and rescue work, is now being assisted by additional officers who arrived to-day. Sergeants have been sent to Morgan City, Marksville, Plaquemine, Port Barre, St. Martinsville, Breaux Bridge, and Lafayette.

Nearly a thousand refugees have arrived at Baton Rouge, and the condition of the children is particularly distressing because of the scarcity of milk. All the Sunday schools there were dismissed today, the children being instructed to make a thorough canvass for milk and take it to the supply depots for distribution.

Gov. J. Y. Sanders ordered Major Allison Owen, in command of the Louisiana militiamen at Natchez, to load the 500 Louisiana negro refugees at Natchez on boats to-day and take them to New Roads to assist in holding the protection levees in that territory, using force with the negroes if necessary. Unless the negroes do work they will get no rations.

The Louisiana Railroad and Navigation Company's railroad transfer boat, William E. Denborn, running between Angola and Naples, was caught by the swift current in Old River this morning, crashed into the Texas & Pacific bridge pier and sank with its cargo of loaded freight cars. The crew of twelve escaped.

FOR ENDING COLLEGE STRIKE.

New Hampshire Trustees to Meet Students' Representatives To-day.

DURHAM, N. H., May 5.—Three members of the Board of Trustees of the New Hampshire College will meet representatives of the striking students here tomorrow in an effort to bring about a settlement of the differences. One hundred and seventy students, comprising practically all the members of the three lower classes of the college, including the "coeds," are out on strike, and the members of the senior class have passed resolutions supporting the lower class men and condemning the Faculty.

The trouble arose over the suspension of W. H. L. Brackett, head of the sophomore class, for ringing a false alarm of fire on the chapel bell. President William D. Gibbs has refused to reinstate Brackett and has given the freshmen and sophomores until Tuesday and the juniors until Wednesday to return, under penalty of expulsion.

Warren Brown of Hampton, President of the Board of Trustees; Harvey L. Boutwell of Malden, Mass., and Edward H. Wasson of Nashua are the three Trustees who will endeavor to settle the matter.

$1,406 Now in the Rush Fund.

The fund for the widow and daughter of Battalion Chief Juhn Rush, who died in a runaway accident ten days ago and whose family was left without means of support, has now reached $1,406. Ex-Fire Chief Edward F. Croker, who was a great admirer of Chief Rush and who started the fund, is anxious to get at least $2,000, in order to carry out plans which will insure the family's comfort for the future. Additional subscriptions may be sent to Chief Croker, President of the Croker National Fire Prevention Engineering Company, Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street.

DARROW'S TRIAL NEAR.

McNamara Lawyer Accused of Bribery to Defend Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 5.—Preparations for the trial of Clarence Darrow, indicted for alleger jury bribery in connection with the McNamara case, are about completed by the District Attorney. The attendance of Attorney John E. Harrington and Mrs. Ortie McManigle, both of Chicago, has been assured, and Deputy District Attorney Keetch is now in Chicago obtaining some depositions to be introduced at the Darrow trial in lieu of having the persons come out here, mostly to give brief testimony. Keetch is also attending to the cross-examination of a number of character withesses, whose testimony concerning the integrity of Darrow will be presented in documentary form.

The defense, with its numerous attorneys, has been active for the past few week , and the various lawyers appear in a confident mood. Darrow will personally engage in his own defense. The trial is expected to last two or three months.

FOR twenty-eight years we have been building a great organization. The nucleus of this organization is The Ladies Home Journal. The editors conceived and developed a publication which they believed would meet the needs of a certain group of women and would then win their confidence and support.

To judge the sort of women—the sort of homes they aimed to influence, study The Ladies' Home Journal. Study this publication tonight on your own library table as though it came from Tasmania or Singapore, and as though you were studying a new country from a window.

This publication does not appeal to every woman or every home; to some its appeal is only slight and of little moment. The nature of this appeal is the selective agent that determines what homes it reaches out of all the homes in the country.

To the illiterate, the slovenly, the foreign speaking, the shiftless, the improvident—the appeal is of no moment, or at least not enough to warrant purchase. Those who can't read, those who won't read, and those who can't afford to read, are automatically excluded, and those who do not love a home.

Of those that remain, more than 1,750,000 are paying over $2,600,000 this year for this medium for itself alone—The Ladies' Home Journal.

A book on the subject of advertising may be obtained gratis by those interested.

Vaughan's Lawn Seed

Clean, bright, vital seeds of best lawn producing kinds are now in the hands of those who secured these at harvest time from the Kentucky and Illinois grass seed growers. We annually protect our customers in this way.

Most low-priced lawn-mixtures, whether sold by seed dealers, department stores or grocers, are made up of Canadian seed or English fescues, and chaff (no vitality) to give bulk. One department store did not use a pound of true Kentucky seed last year and could sell their low-cost mixtures at 25 cents per pound at a big profit.

OUR LAWN SEED MIXTURES, sold by weight only, contain Kentucky Blue Grass with extra clean seed of those kinds which make an ideal lawn.

Ours are the best permanent mixtures. They make a close, velvety turf. No foul seeds; no weeds. New crop and sure to grow. Two mixtures:

"CENTRAL PARK" and "COLUMBIAN" (for shade)

AS BOTH SIDES VIEW MEXICO'S UPHEAVAL

Rueda, for Rebels, and Calero, for Madero, Give Statements to The Times.

RISING DUE TO PEONAGE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Mexican revolutionary situation, as viewed by the rebels and the Madero administration, was the subject of statements made to THE NEW YORK TIMES to-day by envoys from each side.

Dr. Policarpo Rueda, the representative of the revolutionary President of Mexico, who arrived here yesterday, told of the grounds on which he and his principals appeal for the sympathy of the American people. Emilio Vasquez-Gomez was "appointed" Provisional President by the rebels. The news of the appointment was received here yesterday almost simultaneously with Dr. Rueda's arrival.

At the same time Manuel Calero, the new Ambassador from Mexico to the United States, and former Minister of Foreign Affairs, arrived in Washington to-day and announced that he comes to endeavor to develop a better understanding of the Mexican situation. He declared himself a great admirer of American institutions and of the American people, and that Mexico has more to learn from this than from any other country, adding his conviction that when the situation and conditions in Mexico are thoroughly understood by the American people there will be less talk of intervention and a keener appreciation of the difficulties with which the Madero Government has been confronted.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"THE TIMES has always been fair in its treatment of Mexican questions, and I therefore ask that it publish this letter.

"I am commissioned by the Provisional President of Mexico, Lic. Emilio Vasquez-Gomez, with Señor Juan Pedro Didapp, as an adviser, to appeal to the American people for a hearing as to the justice of the revolutionary cause. I have been sent to Washington to ask for recognition of the Provisional Government as a belligerent. President Gomez is now forming a Cabinet at the provisional capital, Ciudad Juarez, and within a few days the civil Government will be fully established. The States of Chihuahua and Morelos, through their Legislatures, have given adherence to the Provisional Government. Americans and other foreigners are safe in these States, and property is protected. In the City of Mexico, however, under the Madero Government, Americans are forced to rely upon themselves for protection, and the United States Government has sent rifles to them. Madero is unable to protect them from his own Government.

Rebels for Ending Peonage.

"The revolutionists are fighting for the extermination of peonage and slavery in Mexico. The people cannot tolerate serfdom any longer. There was promised liberation from peonage by Madero, and for this reason he was made President. He betrayed the people, and they are worse off than before. Now they are determined that they shall have the freedom to work, and they demand that they shall have land upon which to make a living.

"Is this honest? Is this patriotic? Is this in accordance with the impulse of liberty? If so, we ask that Americans shall give us their sympathy and support. We are not concerned with politics. We are fighting for human rights and human freedom. The fight was made in America in 1861-65, and it is on now in Mexico. On which side do Americans stand? I know that when Americans come to understand the truth regarding Mexico they will demand that the Provisional Government be given a square deal in this struggle for redemption of Mexicans from serfdom.

"The Mexican people want peace, good order, prosperity, and liberty. They are not bandits or Anarchists. I ask you to compare the soldiers under Gen. Orozco with the soldiers under Madero. The soldiers of the revolution are fighting for human rights. The soldiers under Madero are impressed from prisons, and forced to fight their own principles. The question is whether the struggle for liberty in Mexico shall be on fair terms, with an equal chance for those who are keeping the torch of liberty alight.

"I do not ask that any of my statements be accepted without verification. I have the right to demand that statements from the City of Mexico be subjected to the same qualification. All we ask is that the truth be made known, and we have no fears that the American people will turn their backs upon Mexicans who are fighting for freedom from bondage, for a free Government, and for peace with the world.

"Dr. POLICARPO RUEDA,
"Representative of President Vasquez-Gomez."

Ambassador Calero's Statement.

In the course of his interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, Señor Calero said:

"Many false or exaggerated stories have been told in the United States. Some of these highly imaginative statements would create the impression, and very unfairly and unjustly, that all of Mexico is ablaze with revolution. That is not the case. Nine-tenths of the total area of the country is engaged in the ways of peace. The revolutionary movement is confined to Chihuahua, and outside or manifestations of brigandage in Morelos, Sinaloa, and Tepic, the rest of the country is peaceful. I regret these sensational and exaggerated reports very much. Regarding them I must say, while the Latin race has a rich imagination, the imagination of some Americans is richer. It is part of my mission here to correct errors and misstatements, and to bring the facts to the attention of the American people."

When Señor Calero was asked about the probable duration of the revolutionary movement in Chihuahua, the prospects of peace, and the ability of the Mexican Government to cope with the situation, his face brightened and he replied:

"It will not last long. I assure you that, even in Chihuahua, the revolutionary movement and manifestations of brigandage will soon be stamped out by the Mexican Government. The Mexican Government has the necessary reserve, the revenue and credit, and is thoroughly capable of coping with the situation. We have $40,000,000 surplus in the Mexican Treasury. Revenue is being paid into the Treasury from nine-tenths of the Republic. We have assurances that the credit of the Government is good for any amount. American, English, French, and German bankers are willing and ready to advance any money that the Government needs.

"I wish particularly to correct the impression that there is any anti-American feeling in Mexico. There are many good Americans in Mexico. They are valuable residents of the Republic. They are helping to develop the country and its resources, and are hard-working people. Speaking for myself I wish to say that I think much of the misrepresentation as to Mexican conditions that has reached the United States has been manufactured for a purpose. I think there are certain sinister influences behind some of the disturbances in my country."

Señor Calero did not care to indicate or identify these influences.

"I can assure you that there is no anti-American feeling among the Mexican people. There is every reason why the Mexican people should entertain the friendliest good-will for the United States."

After the interview Señor Calero was asked to prepare a statement for publication. His statement reads, in part:

"The political situation in Mexico has been lamentably misunderstood in the United States. My mission here—in addition to the duties corresponding to my official character—will be that of rectifying errors, of proving, by means of accurate data, that Mexico is now experiencing a period of difficulties to be expected in any country taking the first steps in practical democratic government.

Madero Popular.

"No President of Mexico has ever been elected in a more popular and democratic manner than was President Madero. The great majority of citizens voted for him in the elections of last October, and among these citizens were almost all the leaders of the present revolutionary movement in Chihuahua. Immediately after Mr. Madero's inauguration Gen. Bernardo Reyes, whose military prestige ranked very high, tried to start a revolution in order to seize the Presidency. This movement forced the Government to devote its undivided attention to the problem of pacification, and when Gen. Reyes's attempt failed and the Government had just initiated a policy of progress and peace there broke out the Chihuahua movement, abetted and directed largely by old followers of Gen. Reyes, as also by certain elements whose unbridled ambitions were not satisfied by the Government of Mr. Madero. Fortunately the movement has been confined to the State of Chihuahua, in spite of what has been said to the contrary.

"Disturbances exist, it is true, in other portions of the Republic of Mexico, but these are not political in character, but are rather brigandage on a greater or lesser scale. These manifestations of brigandage are not new to Mexico, nor to any other Spanish-American country, where the native Indian population abounds, and have almost always a problem of social and agrarian character as their origin, which is the case in a partion of the Mexican Republic to-day. My Government, while successfully combating these movements, is earnestly striving to find a remedy for this problem, and has in this connection, already accomplished some most important work.

"There ahe perhaps some Americans who may have received injury either to person or to property at the hands of the mandits; but this happens everywhere. The Government is making, and will continue to make, every possible effort toward protecting all interests, both domestic and foreign."

REBELS STILL ADVANCE.

If the Federals Stop Retreating Will Engage Them Before Torreon.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, May 5.—News from the rebel front is that the march continues on toward Torreon and that within a few hours, if the federals continue retreating, the rebels will have the town surrounded. If the federals make a stand before Torreon is reached, fighting may be expected any time. Gen. Salazar, who advanced to Sierra Mojada is said to have been ordered on to Monterey, to strike at that town while its available troops are in Torreon assisting in the defense there.

To-night Emilio Vasquez Gomez, newly installed Provisional President of Mexico, held a conference with Col. Pascual Orozco, Sr., father of the rebel General, and afterward reiterated that Orozco had sent for him to come here and accept the Presidency and that there was no friction between the rebels.

Moreno Canton, appointed provisional Minister of Foreign Affairs yesterday, has made a statement to-day declaring that all rebels are now united.

"Gen. Emilio Zapata, who is commanding the Liberal army in Southern Mexico," said Señor Canton, "issued the plan of Tacubaya last Fall, and in it named Vasquez Gomez as Provisional President and Gen. Pascual Orozco, Jr., as Provisional Vice President to carry out its provision. At that time Gomez was in San Antonio and Orozco was in the service of Madero at Chihuahua. Since that time Orozco has subscribed to the plan of Tacubaya, which is practically a reiteration of the plan of San Luis Potosi, which Madero promulgated and failed to keep. Gen. Zapata a few weeks ago sent an emissary to Orozco, recognizing Orozco as the ranking officer of the Liberals in Mexico, so that they have been co-operating since that time. The rebels in the south of Mexico all subscribe loyalty to Zapata. Those in the north all subscribe loyalty to Orozco. With these two leaders working in conjunction there can be no differences."

ZOO ANIMALS KNOW FIRST RULES OF TAG

TEACH GUINEA PIGS HOW

A Squirrel Puts Up a Practical Joke, and Enjoys It, Too, Curator Ditmars Believes.

Do animals play games? Raymond Ditmars, Curator of the Zoological Park in the Bronx, believes that small animals, at least, do, and he has arrived at that conclusion after much observation and a week of experiments. Small animals in many cases are very playful, and when unobserved indulge in games which the unobserving sometimes take for an aimless scampering about. Three Peruvian chinchillas, for example, who occupied a sunny, roomy cage in the small mammal house, indulged in a modification of a childish game called "squat tag," though in their case, instead of squatting, they would roll over.

They would go to one end of the inclosure. Two would get slightly in advance of the third, who had evidently been elected "it," and away they would go to the other end of the inclosure. The one who was "it" would give a little squeak, and at that signal the other two would roll over. The third would try to nip the tail of one of the other two, if he could reach one of them before the animal he was "tagging" had got completely on its back. This done, the three would go scampering about, chirping in great good glee. They would then retire to the end of the inclosure, and the chinchilla who had been "tagged" would be "it," and they would begin again. There were apparently other methods of playing the game, but this form seemed to be the most popular.

One of the observations which convinced Mr. Ditmars of this disposition on the part of some of his charges to play games was the actions of a pair of red-bellied squirrels. He was standing in the deserted small mammal house not long ago, when he noticed one of the squirrels filch a nut from the other, and, waiting his chance, hide it under some straw. His companion missed the nut, and Mr. Ditmars said the air of injured innocence with which the other met the apparent accusation of theft would have been worthy of an actor. When the first squirrel finally found the nut, the other gave every appearance of enjoying the joke.

"That little incident," said Mr. Ditmars, "might have passed unnoticed by the unobservant, but it furnished me with much food for thought."

So the Curator's conviction grew that the small animals not only possess a sense of humor, but indulge in organized games and really enjoy them. Some of the deer, he is convinced, run races, usually jumping races, at which they will line up and start at a signal and make for a fixed goal.

Badgers Play Puss-in-the-Corner.

Pursuing his observations, Mr. Ditmars found that badgers also indulge in games. They play tag, and, most surprising of all, they, or at least those observed by Mr. Ditmars, could play as good a game of puss-in-the-corner as most children. He also noted that they did not appear to quarrel over the game.

The badgers would take their corners, and one would go to the centre of the inclosure. They had great fun changing corners, and when finally the one that was "it" would succeed in ousting another out of its corner, then that one would go to the centre of the cage, and the fun would begin all over again.

Watching the animals at play suggested to Mr. Ditmars the making of an interesting experiment. In the reptile house are a number of guinea pigs, which are used to satisfy the appetites of the hungry snakes. They are a lively family. Mr. Ditmars took five of the pigs and put them into a cage, where they had a close view of the badgers. At first they did not appear to take any notice of their neighbors. The badgers did not pay any attention to them, and at times continued to indulge in their games. In time the guinea pigs began to take notice, and after several days it was observed that they were playing "tag" in a very unsystematic manner. Experience or observation taught them better, and in time the five became very proficient players of the game. The puss-in-the-corner game appeared to be beyond them, and they never even attempted to play it. It is related that the guinea pigs, though usually of gentle disposition, seemed to quarrel more over their game than did the other animals.

Moving Day Annoying.

The most noteworthy incident at the Zoological Park during the last week was the transfer to new quarters of one of the big polar bears. It was found necessary to change this bear from the bear pit to the cage formerly occupied by Silver King, the monster bear captured by Paul Rainey.

The polar bear objected to moving, and it took eight keepers to get him into the moving crate. Then the old fellow's temper broke. He battered and tore at the wooden crate, and it required the constant attention of the keepers to prevent him from smashing up things. Keeping him occupied with other things than smashing the crate further enraged him, and when his new home was reached he was fighting mad. Thrusting his forepaw from out the crate, the bear caught one of the keepers on the shoulder, and as he stepped hastily back the claws cut the coat from shoulder to cuff.

The end of the crate was backed up against the open door of the new cage and the door opened. Out came the bear like a shot. A piece of board projecting from the end of the crate was struck a mighty blow by the enraged animal. The other end swung around and knocked two of the keepers down. Fortunately they were not hurt. They managed to get the cage door closed, but for an hour after he arrived in his new home the bear raised ructions.

"That was the maddest bear I ever saw," said Keeper Charlie Snyder. "If he could have gotten out in that frame of mind we would have had to flee for our lives."

Clearance Sale of Pianos and Players
taken in exchange

THE extraordinary success of our annual opera sale, of HARDMAN PIANOS and AUTOTONES (The Perfect Player-Pianos) used by the Metropolitan Opera Company and its Artists, which just ended, makes it necessary for us to dispose of an accumulation of pianos and players of leading makes, which were taken in exchange.

These instruments have been put into perfect condition by our own experts in our factories, and we therefore guarantee them in every respect.

Each one is of such unusual value that the prices at which they are offered must ensure their immediate sale. The former owners of these pianos and players exchanged them for no other reason than that they desired to have a Perfect Player Piano—in other words, a Hardman or Harrington Autotone.

Here are a few of the Bargains:

MILITARY FESTIVAL IN OLD FIRST CHURCH

Society of Colonial Wars Celebrates There the Anniversary of Its Founding.

TEN CHAPLAINS TAKE PART

Rev. Dr. Duffield Tells the Society It Exists to Tend the Beacons Lighted by the Patriots.

Militarism helped religion in ideal fashion yesterday morning in the old First Presbyterian Church in lower Fifth Avenue. It was the service celebrated by the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York, commemorative of the founding of the general society of the name. Ten clergy in brilliant robes, elaborate music, beautiful banners and ensigns, and men in military uniforms, all these assisted in a service in which there was much ritual and yet much spiritual expression.

The Veteran Corps of Artillery and the Military Society of the War of 1812 attended the services in uniform, and among the other societies present were the Colonial Dames of America, Daughters of the Revolution, Daughters of the Holland Dames, Historical Society, St. David's Society, Sons of the Revolution, Loyal Legion, Holland Society, Society of Mayflower Descendants, St. Andrew's Society, Society of Cincinnati, Aztec Club of 1847, Colonial Order of the Acorn, St. Nicholas Society, St. George's Society, Colonial Dames, State of New York; Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of the Cincinnati, and Huguenot Society.

The Rev. Howard Duffield, pastor of the church, and Chaplain of the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of New York and also Chaplain of the St. Nicholas Society, conducted the services. The clergymen who assisted him were the Rev. Alexander Hamilton, Chaplain of the Society of the Cincinnati; the Rev. F. Landon Humphreys, General Chaplain of the Society of the Cincinnati, Chaplain of the Veteran Corps of Artillery, and Assistant Chaplain of the Sons of the Revolution; the Rev. Henry Branch, Chaplain of the Society of Colonial Wars of Massachusetts; the Rev. Cornelius Brett, Chaplain of the Society of Colonial Wars of New Jersey; the Rev. Thomas Butler, Chaplain of the Society of the Colonial Wars of Vermont; the Rev. Joseph Brown Turner, Chaplain of the Society of the Colonial Wars of Delaware; the Rev. J. Nevett Steele, former Vicar of Trinity Church, and the Rev. James S. Dennis and J. Newton Perkins of the Society of the Colonial Wars of New York.

There were beautiful decorations above the pulpit and some of the pews. The music, with Dr. William C. Carl at the organ, began with Bartholdy's "Reformation Symphony," and included the Queen Victoria Festival setting to the "Te Deum" and "God of Our Fathers" from the "Stabat Mater." Both upon entering and leaving the most was made of ceremonial and military precision, with the result that it was one of the most perfect festival services ever held in a New York church.

"The Nation Builders" was the subject of the Rev. Dr. Duffield's sermon. Using the figure that those who went before "kindled beacon lights along the coast of time," Dr. Duffield said the "Society of Colonial Wars exists for the purpose of trimming and tending the lamps which they lit," and flashing their radiance into the coming years.

"The environment of our ancestors cannot be reproduced without going to church," said Dr. Duffield. "Religion is the clue to their unique personality. The altar place of their God was the citadel of their hope. The meeting house was the powerhouse which rendered their life dynamic. They 'trusted in God and they kept their powder dry,' but it was not so much the dryness of their powder as the grandeur of their faith that made their flintlocks formidable and triumphant.

"Every new stage of human progress is marked by a colonizing movement. Every advance of humanity is invariably betokened by a shifting of life upon the face of the earth. Our colonists came across the seas at a period which stands apart from the ordinary years. Tokens of a new era flamed in the sky. The Reformation was not a theological quarrel, but a cosmic upheaval, the insurgency of humanity against the tyranny of the ages. It was a refusal to bow at any throne less exalted than the throne of God.

"Our time repeats the tokens of that earlier age. The revolving years have brought around another colonial period. Its marks are repeated before our eyes. There is a new world view to-day. The Panama Canal is pivoting the world upon a new centre. It means nothing less than the wane of Europe and the ascendency of America. The drama of the future will be set upon the waters of this Western ocean. A seething unrest pervades every department of our life. Humanity is on tiptoe with expectation. There are new alignments of political parties, new theories of education, new conceptions of religion, of social relations. The nation builders, the nation leaders, have always been a blend of bloods.

"The world being the judge, all martyrs, reformers, patriots, missionaries, philanthropists, leaders whose sympathies with the needs of men have driven them to sacrifice and suffering, are tinged with folly. But such folly is the foolishness of God. Our ancestors were a company of God's fools.

"Such were the Pilgrim Fathers, such were the old Continentals, such was Lincoln—fools all to invite sleepless nights, and haunted days, and to wear the crown of thorns for things so impalpable as right, and truth, and the freedom of man.

"To that brand of fools the future belongs. Let that divine and glorious folly become the genius of our Nation, and it will be no idle boast to sing:

> "Our flag on every wind unfurled,
> Proclaims from sea to sea
> A future and a nobler world,
> Where men and thoughts are free.
> Our men, our thoughts, are free;
> Our wars are waged for peace;
> We stand in arms for liberty

The Marshal was John Francis Daniell, and he had for aids Edward N. Crosby Cullen V. R. Cogswell, Arthur F. Schermerhorn, and Guy Van Amringe. Others in charge included Frederic R. Lefferts, Jr., De Witt Clinton Weld, Jr., Frederick S. Woodruff, Walter L. Suydam, Frederick A. de Peyster, William C. Demorest, Madison Grant, Lefferts Hutton, Theodore Roosevelt Pell, Alexander D. B. Pratt, Dr. Thomas Darlington, and Lawrence B. Elliman.

KNIGHTS MARCH TO CHURCH.

Catholic Society Attends Military Vespers in New Rochelle.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 5.—Nearly one thousand members of the Knights of Columbus attended communion, breakfast, and military vespers in New Rochelle to-day. Members of the order from Westchester County, New York City, Philadelphia, and Boston marched in the parade, which was headed by the Second New York Fourth Degree Regiment under command of Col. William J. Costigan. The vesper service was held in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament at 4 o'clock.

The speakers at the breakfast, which was held in Germania Hall at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, were Mayor Frederick H. Waldorf, Congressman John Goulden of the Bronx, National Secretary William J. McGinley of New Haven, Past Supreme Knight Edward L. Hearn, Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier of Boston, W. J. Boyd, Supreme Master of the Fourth Degree; Daniel P. Toomey, the Rev. James T. Hughes, the Rev. P. A. Halpin, the Rev. James F. Driscoll, the Rev. Joseph P. Green, and the Rev. Thomas P. McLoughlin. Michael W. Flynn presided.

WOULD REVIVE TERM 'THEFT.'

Rabbi Wise Says It Is Only Word for Some Industrial Conditions.

"Thou Shalt Not Steal" was the subject of a sermon delivered by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise in a series of addresses on the Decalogue before the Free Synagogue at Carnegie Hall Sunday morning. In the course of the sermon he said:

"We have got to bring the words thief and theft into fashion once more, when these may justly be applied and when no other name fits. A man does not cease to be a thief because he steals much, nor remain one merely because he steals little. According to our present day conception the man who steals 37 cents is a miserable beggar; the man who steals $37 is a common thief; the man who steals $370 is an uncommon swindler; the man who steals $37,000 is a promoter, and the man who steals $37,000,000 is a captain of industry—the sum of $37,000,000 not having been arbitrarily chosen by me.

"The tenement house system is guilty of theft and of murder, too. For human overcrowding means pollution of air and the pollution of air is not only theft but murder, even though that murder be slow in operation or execution. The tenement house evil is not an unavoidable one; the tenement, as we know it at its worst, need not be. We must learn to see that stealing of invisible things may be just as truly theft as is the filching of things visible and tangible.

"Nor need one take away from another in order to be guilty of theft. I steal from and rob my neighbor if I withhold from him that which is his rightful due, even though he may not technically ever have been the possessor thereof. A man may be guilty of theft though he does not abstract money from pay envelopes; to withhold from the pay envelope that which ought to be contained therein is theft, even though the crime be committed by a millionaire corporation head. Holding in my hand, as I do, fifty pay envelopes of the workers in the Lawrence mills before the recent strike, thirty-nine of which contain wages of less than $6 per week for fifty-four hours of work, I say that the American Wool Company has been guilty of theft in its conduct toward its weak and heretofore almost defenseless workers.

"The underwage has resulted in social conditions in our land which are making it necessary for a whole family to become the wage-earning unit. Men who are the leaders in the textile industries admit that in their communities the father of the family has ceased to be the unit of support, the father earning something, the wife a little less, and the children still less. This means at one and the same time the breakdown of the home, and finally the breakdown of democracy.

"Speaking as President of a great Social Union in England, the Bishop of Hull rightly said upon a recent occasion, 'We talk about inexorable economic laws, but economic laws are only generalizations of normal human actions. Insofar as the standards and laws are at fault we are responsible, for we are the makers of the laws, and the laws embody the standards which we lift up.'

"The impersonal character of business management or corporation control must cease. There are too many men who, like the master described by Hauptmann in 'The Weavers,' answer when very terrible conditions are brought home to them by employes, 'These are things my manager must look into; I really have not the time. Arrange the matter with my manager.' Absentee landlordism in industry may be almost unavoidable, but it is none the less morally disastrous. Nothing like distance, says Prof. Ross mockingly and mordantly, to disinfect dividends.

"We cannot have social justice for the asking. It is not to be had so cheaply, so simply, so readily. It involves sacrifice and continued sacrifice."

PARIS CALLS DR. SHIPMAN.

Church of the Trinity There Seeks Rector of Heavenly Rest Parish.

The Rev. Dr. Herbert Shipman, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in Fifth Avenue, has under consideration a call to the pulpit of the American Church of the Holy Trinity in the Avenue de l'Alma, Paris. The wardens and vestrymen of that Episcopal church for the American colony unanimously decided upon the invitation to Dr. Shipman to succeed the late Rev. Dr. John B. Morgan, who was rector of the Paris church for some forty years. Dr. Shipman received the call on Saturday, but said yesterday afternoon that he had come to no decision on the question of its acceptance.

Dr. Shipman was born in Lexington, Ky., in 1869, the son of the late Jacob S. Shipman, for many years rector of Christ Church in this city. A graduate of Columbia and the General Theological Seminary, he was appointed by President Cleveland in 1896 to the post of Chaplain of the Military Academy at West Point, where he served for the next nine years. In the Spring of 1907, he accepted the assistant rectorship of the Church of the Heavenly Rest and in the next year succeeded Dr. D. Parker Morgan as rector. Dr. Shipman was married in 1899 to Julie Fay Bradley, daughter of Edson Bradley.

Reception to Papal Delegate To-night

A reception in honor of the newly appointed Papal Delegate, Archbishop Bonzano, will be held at the Catholic Club to-night at 9 o'clock. Cardinal Farley will be present at the reception and will be one of the speakers. Other speakers will be Michael J. Mulqueen, President of the Catholic Club, and Supreme Court Justice Victor J. Dowling. The Papal Delegate will respond in English. The clubhouse has been beautifully decorated in honor of the event. More than 1,000 lights have been strung along the outside of the building.

SCHIFF TO DOUBLE SYNAGOGUE FUND

IT IS FOR LOWER EAST SIDE

Hundreds of Tenement Synagogues to Consolidate with It—Praise for Mr. and Mrs. Straus.

At a mass meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Israel of the People's Orthodox Synagogue, held last night at the Synagogue Beth Hamedrish Hagodol, 56 Norfolk Street, for the purpose of pushing a campaign to raise a fund for the establishment of a modern synagogue in the neighborhood of Second and Third Streets and Second Avenue, and the consolidation of hundreds of small synagogues situated in the tenement houses, tributes were paid to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, who were lost on the Titanic.

The purpose of the proposed new synagogue, as set forth by the speakers last night, will be to preserve the traditions of Judaism and carry forward its religious teachings. The inadequacy of the present small synagogues, from which the younger generations are practically excluded, was explained by Dr. I. Odes, organizer and head of the Sons and Daughters of Israel, who then paid a high tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Straus. Dr. Odes then introduced Jacob H. Schiff.

"I know I am among friends," said Mr. Schiff, "and I am glad you have invited me to come, for I am nowhere happier than among my own people, nowhere happier than among those who hold dear the traditions of Judaism.

"The last words of your leader were of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus. They were friends of mine. I had known them for many and many years, and no one feels their loss more than I do.

"Mr. and Mrs. Straus in their death have raised the standard of the Jew all over the world. The Jew to-day, not only in the city, not only in the country, but all over the world is infinitely more respected because of the way in which Mr. and Mrs. Straus went to their death. I am sure if Mr. and Mrs. Straus could know of all that has been said of them all over the world they would gladly go to such a death again. It is true that they did not observe the very strictest dogmas of Judaism, but they were good Jews. It is true that some individuals can do without religious ceremonies, but the community cannot do without them.

"I believe in the old Biblical expression from Mount Sinai, sent by the Lord through the mouth of Moses: 'Wherever My name is pronounced in reverence, there will I come and bless it.' The God of Israel is not only the God of the orthodox Jew, but the God of the reformed Jew. I believe that reformed Judaism cannot exist without orthodox Judaism. My friends, you are right to maintain orthodoxy; you are right to hold the traditions of our fathers. I want to encourage you. Don't make any concessions to reform. Hold to your traditions. You call yourselves the Sons and Daughters of Israel. It is a proud title, and all of us honor it. Do nothing that may dishonor it or irreverence it."

FARLEY DEDICATES A CHURCH

Holy Trinity's New Home Formally Opened to the Parish.

Cardinal Farley dedicated yesterday morning the new Church of the Holy Trinity in West Eighty-second Street, near Broadway. After the dedicatory prayer there was a solemn mass. The preacher was the Right Rev. Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, rector of the Cathedral.

It was decided two or three days before the arrival of the Papal Delegate that he should dedicate this church as the first official act of his office after his arrival. But the Delegate upset these plans by pleading fatigue. He said mass in the Cathedral at 7 o'clock and rested during the remainder of the day.

The Cardinal performed the ceremony in the presence of a devout assemblage of the parish. The rector, Father Considine, is an old friend of his. He was for several years an assistant at St. Gabriel's when the Cardinal was its pastor, and prior to that had been Director of the seminary at Troy.

ELISE NICHOLAS FOUND.

17-Year-Old Girl Had Been Missing Since March 26.

Elise Nicholas, 17 years old, who disappeared on March 26 in this city, was found by the police on Saturday night. Magistrate Herbert placed her in the custody of a probation officer, Mrs. Carrie McCauley, and later she was sent to a home. The girl is a niece of the late United States Senator Daniels of Virginia.

She left the home of an aunt, at 78 West 105th Street, whith whom she had been stopping, saying that she intended to go to the Roosevelt Hospital School for Nurses. The next day, when she did not return to her aunt's home and was not found at the hospital school, a report of her disappearance was made to the West 100th Street station.

No word was received concerning her until Saturday night, when Policeman Wynne of the West 125th Street Station found her in the hallway of 318 West 116th Street, where she had fallen from illness. A newspaper clipping was found on her telling of the disappearance of Miss Nicholas, and under the questioning of Magistrate Herbert, she later admitted that she was the missing girl.

CHEF ROBBED, TRIED TO DIE.

Martin Lost All His Savings When He Was Held Up.

After he had been held up and robbed of $67 and a watch and chain valued at $25 early yesterday morning, according to the story he told the police of the West Seventeenth Street Station, a man who said he was Henry Martin, 42 years old, a chef, was arrested in his rooms at 135 West Twenty-fourth Street last night for having attempted to commit suicide by inhaling illuminating gas through a tube.

Martin was found lying unconscious on the floor of a room in his flat after fumes had been traced to his apartment, and the door had been forced by Patrolman Frederick Russell. He was attended by Dr. Faber of the New York Hospital, but declined to be taken to that institution after being revived.

In the West Seventeenth Street Station Martin declared he had become despondent after being held up and robbed. He had just left the home of a friend in 102d Street at midnight yesterday, he told the police, when several men assaulted him, knocking him to the sidewalk and rifling his pockets. He said the $67 taken from him represented the savings of many months.

HOSPITAL FOR ANIMALS.

Women's League Will Build One on Site Recently Purchased.

The New York Women's League for Animals, of which Mrs. James Speyer is President, has bought a lot at 11 Bond Street, containing 3,150 square feet, on which a hospital for animals will be erected. The property was purchased from the Industrial Christian Alliance. It has a frontage of 115 feet on Lafayette Place, 25 feet on Bond Street, and 32 feet on Shinbone Alley.

The league has been working for many years for a hospital for animals. The subscriptions for the purpose are now sufficient to pay for the property and the building which is to be erected. An additional $25,000 could be used to good advantage in purchasing equipment. Contributions may be sent to the Treasurer of the league, Clark Williams, President of the Windsor Trust Company.

THE CANADIAN ACCOMPLICES.

At the end of April Canada published its trade returns for the year ending with February, and the figures have a bearing on the subject which Englishmen are doing their best to make acrimonious. The reason why the attempt must fail stands out on the face of the figures, showing that the United States has reason to be satisfied with the political relations which it is alleged we wish to alter, and that England has cause for alarm on the commercial side which it ignores.

In the year named Canada's total trade with the United States increased $63,582,240, as compared with a gain in the trade with England of $18,342,157. This is 15 per cent. gain for the United States and 8 per cent. for the home country. Canada's imports from the United States were $348,478,262, and from England $115,404,027. The balance of trade against Canada was $243,000,000 in the case of the United States, and the defeat of reciprocity forbade the Canadians of the West to reduce the debt by selling grain, for which there always is a poor market in England and an excellent market in our northwestern milling centres. There were sixty to seventy millions of bushels of Canadian wheat thus kept from their natural market.

The bald figures are the best expression of the extent to which Canada is an adjunct of the United States. If trade with the United States is treason the Dominion is full of traitorous accomplices of President Taft and Ambassador Bryce. Any man who is forbidden by law to seek a natural market for goods which spoil on his hands can judge whether the farmers of the prairies are more loyal because of the defeat of reciprocity. The idea that the defeat of reciprocity was all that was necessary to turn into east and west channels the trade which naturally flows north and south is shown to be mistaken. The fact is, as the Canadian press is demonstrating, that after fifteen years of preference to British trade Canadian imports from Great Britain are one-third of those from the United States, and the total trade with the United States is more than half the total trade with the rest of the world, there being no second to the United States in the rate of growth. This tendency is bound to grow with the growth of population on both sides the border. To attempt to impede the growth of these natural adjuncts of each other is merely to dam up disloyalty until it breaks all bounds. Nobody knows this better than Canadians, and we are performing a friendly duty in calling the attention of public men in England to the fact.

Why should not the United States be satisfied with present political relations? It is natural enough to wish to increase commerce, but why should not the United States be content with the profits of that policy, leaving England and the Dominion to bear the burdens? Canada borrows in England to an extent which would not be possible if it were not a British dependency. The money which is borrowed in England is largely spent here. Canada's great debit to us is for rails and railway equipments bought from American makers in considerable part, and so for many other industries. Canada's loyalty does not extend to buying British goods when she can find American more to her liking. And while we do this trade Canada insists upon loading herself with British handicaps springing from Old World relations which are of only secondary concern to Canada, although they impose a share of the burden of imperial defense. The strain is a severe one, but it is not of our making, nor can any British finger point to any slightest act of ours suggesting the benefit to Canada of any change in any respect. The United States has done nothing more than to seek to promote the commerce and mutual profit of Canada and the United States. It is a serious mistake to suppose that putting impediments in the way of such profits is promotive of loyalty to England.

The fact is that England is treating Canada as we are treating Alaska, and with similar results. There is a feeling in Alaska that it would thrive more naturally if treated in the manner of the Canadian Northwest. And the Canadian Northwest feels that it would thrive better if not forbidden to trade with Americans. In both regions there is a bitter feeling which it behooves both countries to allay by fostering free natural growth. Religions and political affiliations in that case become of no account. Gold is not tainted because it is minted into sovereigns, and the Canadians take so many American dollars that they grumble about paying the freight back to their home. There are some eight millions of American gold circulating in Canada because the Canadians object to sterling coinage. But Canadians have not yet discovered that this implies disloyalty to England, although naturally enough they are now starting to mint Canadian dollars. Americans will be very glad to take them at their metal value, and will not imagine that their patriotism suffers in consequence. Canadians must see that they are the worst accomplices of Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryce, and that hectic utterances like those of Sir Gilbert Parker make them ridiculous.

RECALLING THE COMMERCE COURT.

The gentlemen who are proposing to abolish the Court of Commerce before it has finished its first year, and for no other reason than that they dislike its decisions, would do well to pay some attention to the conflicting conditions regarding the immigration laws. The Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Federal Circuits have sustained the interpretation of the Department of Commerce and Labor, and the Fifth and Ninth Circuits have overruled it. Until a tiresome process of appeals has been concluded the law must remain in an unsettled condition.

The Commerce Court was established to prevent such conditions in the much more important matter of the interpretation of the inter-State commerce law. It was provided that there should be but one appeal to a single body intervening between the Commission and the Supreme Court. The law itself was left undisturbed, and in any case appeals must reach the Supreme Court. To abolish the Court of Commerce will not affect the law, but it will make it more difficult to reach the same result after a prolonged interval of confusion. Appeals have been facilitated and hastened, as was expected, and the disliked decisions, if they are wrong, are in the way of a speedier overruling than otherwise would have been possible. It is a case where more progress is made by doing nothing than by false motions giving an impression of great activity, and fooling the people instead of truly serving them.

THE TRIUMPH OF THE WIRELESS TELEGRAPH.

Deferred wireless messages across the ocean will henceforth be sent for 8 cents a word, a reduction of 4 cents, or one-half, as compared with the cable rate. The rate for immediate transmission is hereafter to be 16 cents, as compared with the cable rate of 25 cents. All telegraph offices in the United Kingdom will co-operate with the Marconi system in this schedule, and the Western Union Company will be the receiver and distributer in the United States and Canada. Cheapening talk at this rate is not cheap talk at all. It is a boon comparable to the original laying of the cables, which now are in the way of being superseded unless they forthwith keep the pace set by their competitor.

In a way they have themselves to blame for their own troubles. With a carrying capacity of 300,000,000 words a year they preferred to limit themselves to some 25,000,000 rather than to tap the inexhaustible traffic awaiting the facilities now offered by the genius of Marconi. It is absurd to set any limit to the communications which will pass between the hundreds of millions of people on the opposite sides of the Atlantic. Yet 99 per cent. of the messages which now pass are code, that is to say, are of commercial nature. Not one family in one hundred has cabled one word in a year heretofore. It is an interesting conjecture how the traffic will grow now that the cheapest rate is less than the regular rate across this continent.

All that a man hath will he give for his life, and pretty near all that a man could afford has hitherto been asked for the privilege of lengthening life by saving the time which composes it. Cheap communication is the key to all the momentous events in the world of commerce and diplomacy, and it is of high utility in the intimate events of personal and family life. With oceans and continents shrinking like this, the maxim to think in continents becomes antiquated, and it is necessary to think in terms of the globe. Mr. Marconi before sailing said that the limit of wireless communication is about 6,000 miles, but that there is no limit to capacity. There is, therefore, no limit to the increase of the happiness of the masses whose social communications are brought within the reach of anybody who would telegraph between New York and San Francisco. There is a larger saving yet, which defies calculation, through bringing this facility of commerce within the reach of a grade of business which has been unable to use the cable with the same liberality as the first rank. The annihilation of distance saves delay, which is the same thing as saving interest, and assists the making of profits by even humble merchants.

There is an interesting analogy between the mail and telegraph exchanges of modern times. Short and often is the modern taste in communication, rather than long and seldom. Who knows how many million postcards are exchanged, each saving the writing and the reading of a letter? Who can estimate the multiplication of telegrams, whose brevity will save a world of anxiety or steel the nerves for the details to come? According to the report of Mr. Sammis's recent testimony fifty messages may be sent within the hour, and 150,000 messages are sent in a year, some extremely long. With this achievement by a method of communication theoretically capable of illimitable development the cable has a most useful ally in the service of humanity. That the cable rates must be cheapened also is evident, since there cannot be two prices for the same service. Doubtless it is a severe trial for more than one hundred millions of invested capital. But it is the fortune of business. It is not possible to limit the development of the wireless system or to regret its existence merely because it makes conditions hard for enterprise which in its turn served well and deserved well. Possibly if it had served better and cheaper it might not have created this adversary which now will divide the field with it.

VISITING ART.

The international spirit has been slow to invade the field of art in this country, but it is here. Within the past five years we have had exhibitions of contemporary Russian, German, Dutch, Scotch, Spanish, and French art, with something, too, of the modern English school. At the present moment France is arranging to lend us representative examples from the Government collections in order to familiarize our public with the character of the French museums. Next Winter we are promised a traveling exhibition of Scandinavian pictures revealing the artistic tendencies of Sweden, Norway, and Denmark.

In some instances, of course, commercial considerations play their candid part. It is desirable from a business point of view that Americans should have an opportunity to form their opinion of the art of all the countries of the world. The rumor has been spread abroad that when we know what we like we buy it.

The motives inspiring this "cousining" habit, to use a back-country expression, are by no means all mercenary however. Occasionally, as in the case of the French, a very genuine and high type of idealism is involved. Art to the Gallic mind is only less dear than liberty. The French have helped us loyally in our struggle to win both.

There is also the increasingly complex nature of our hospitable Republic to consider. The call of art is almost as strong as the call of nature, and as soon as our immigrants become amalgamated with us they feel the need of strengthening their diluted racial instincts with their native art.

In the meantime we are reaping benefits. It cannot be denied that our early American schools, although fed from European sources, showed traces of the over-spiritualized New England type. More sensitive than robust, the pictures of an earlier generation of American painters reflect the slightly arid intellectuality of our spiritually burdened ancestors. This quality, which had its charm, has almost entirely disappeared from the painting of the present; its place is taken by a blunt concern with the obvious, a fancy for brutal fact that in itself frequently is repelling, but indicates a wholesome reaction.

There is every probability that a certain infusion of the peasant spirit in an art that has tended toward aristocracy will increase its chances of life and health. No one can examine the splendid group of Rodin's sculptures now in the Metropolitan Museum without feeling the benevolent influence upon his high-strung imagination, of his humble origin, and the characteristics fostered by his nearness to the world of common things.

MEMORIALS OF HEROES.

Many lasting memorials will keep alive the fame of heroes of the Titanic disaster. In Liverpool, as a special cable dispatch in The Sunday Times announced, a group of statuary will be erected in honor of the engineers of the big ship, all of whom perished in the performance of their duty. Monuments will record to posterity the bravery and martyrdom of all the noted men who went down with the Titanic. It is not likely that the memory of the little band of musicians who played until almost the last moment will be neglected. A movement to build a public memorial in their honor would have world-wide support. The body of their leader, Hartley, has been recovered and will be taken to his home in England for burial.

The plan to swell by American contributions the fund to build a monument at his English home to Jack Phillips, the heroic wireless operator of the Titanic, who kept on sending his appeal for help through the air while the ship was sinking, has been taken up spiritedly by a committee of the Maritime Exchange. Bride, Phillips's brave assistant, who survived, as it seems, almost by a miracle, has contributed to the fund, which has already grown so large that the committee will widen its scope. A part of the money received will be set aside as a Phillips Memorial Fund, from the income of which wireless operators who perform brave deeds will be rewarded in the future. The Phillips fund has already been increased by the contributions by many of the fellow-workers of Phillips and Bride in the wireless service. It is a fund to which everybody should be proud to contribute something.

"THE PEOPLE'S" PRIMARY.

The only plea for the direct primary that has any sense is that it enables the majority in any party to express its real preference and to have it respected. Plainly that can be done only when the votes in the primary are cast only by members of the party holding it. This was not the case in Massachusetts, where Mr. Roosevelt's managers practically advertised for Democrats and Socialists to vote in the Republican primaries. It cannot be the case in Oregon, as is shown by The Portland Oregonian in a simple examination of the figures of registry for the primaries and of the vote at the last National election.

In 1908 there were registered at the Republican primaries 80,923 votes; at the election that followed Mr. Taft had only 62,530 votes, or a little more than three-fourths of the primary registry. On the other hand, the Democrats registered at the primaries only 28,788 and the vote for Bryan was 38,049, or about 40 per cent. more than the primary register. This year the Republican primary registry runs up to 93,070, or 12 per cent. greater than in 1908, while the Democratic figures remain nearly the same. The Oregonian says:

> The normal Republican plurality in Oregon is about 25,000 and does not exceed 30,000 at this time. The tendency is indeed for decrease rather than increase. Yet the registration shows an apparent Republican plurality of 64,653, or more than twice the actual plurality.

It adds quite pertinently:

> The figures speak for themselves. They are unanswerable. They disclose a growing tendency to abandon the Democratic Party in the registration and confine all political effort by all parties to the Republican primary. In other words, Democrats and Socialists register freely as Republicans in order to influence and control Republican action.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Pajamas in the Daytime.

After noting sorrowfully that though most criticism of men's clothing is well deserved, all of it has been destructive and therefore not very helpful, The New York Medical Journal undertakes the task of telling us how we should dress in our tropical Summers instead of how we shouldn't. What this authority advises for daytime wear in hot weather is practically a duplication of the pajamas which in most civilized countries have been substituted for the nightgown or nightshirt of other days.

A two-piece suit of linen or cotton worn over light underclothes would be, it thinks, an ideal garb, meeting all the demands of propriety and at the same time being comfortable, safe and inexpensive. The ease with which these garments could be washed would be only one of their many advantages, though a very important one from the standpoint of health. The coat part of the suit, made a little longer, perhaps, than its nocturnal mate, and of cloth in gentler colors, would button up to the neck and so get rid of the starched shirt and collars that have become tolerable only through long custom and are so gladly cast aside by every man whenever he has a chance to be happy in his own way.

To introduce this costume, The Journal admits, would require for a while no less courage than that which supports the martyr at the stake, but with all arguments and so many now suppressed inclinations on their side, it thinks the pajama pioneers, or most of them, would survive the persecutions they would have to undergo for a while and in time would rescue themselves and their fellow-men from slavery to—nobody could say what, but not for that reason the less cruel.

That this advice will be adopted cannot be called probable. The tailors are only one great class sure to oppose it bitterly, and such a change of fashion would shake to their foundations a hundred established industries and great vested interests.

Our Greatest Panama Achievement.

Without denying the importance of the Panama Canal as a canal, it is yet possible to say with truth that America's greatest achievement on the Isthmus is not the building of a waterway from ocean to ocean, but the convincing demonstration that any region in the tropics, no matter how deadly its climate has been supposed to be, and no matter how thoroughly it has been infected with the worst of diseases, can be made by modern sanitary knowledge and practice a place where anybody and everybody can live and work in reasonable safety.

Of course, from a statistical point of view, it is no great thing that sterile Panama's two little cities and few score villages now have a death rate lower than that of many towns in the temperate zones; what is a great thing is the fact that the sanitary regeneration of Panama has deprived other tropical countries of their last excuse for allowing their harbors to be centres whence malignant fevers are constantly carried along all the routes of commerce. The countries of Central and South America have learned or are learning this lesson, and interest is combining with pride to make them seek to remove what has come to be a disgrace, not a misfortune.

Stephen Bonsal, in a dispatch from Santiago, quotes President Luco of Chile as saying that his Government, unless its own efforts to conquer an epidemic of yellow fever which is ravaging one of the Chilean cities are soon successful, will ask for the assistance of experienced American experts from Panama. Inquiries at once made by us at Washington elicited the reply that any such request would be received with pleasure and, if the necessary consent of Congress were first obtained, promptly granted. That we ourselves learned how to do this work was by far the most important outcome of our war with Spain.

Instruction in preventive medicine is something which any nation can ask of any other, not as a favor, with consequent humiliation, but as a right, and to give it, when asked, is not the imposing of an obligation, but the performance of a duty in recognition of the human brotherhood that knows no territorial boundaries. Chile can, therefore, well afford to borrow some of our newly trained sanitarians, and by doing it she will set an admirable example for several South American countries that need the services of such men even more than she does.

Translating American Into English

Gilbert K. Chesterton, like everybody else who writes at all, has been writing about the loss of the Titanic, and, as might have been expected, he puts the truth in the form of whimsical paradox. Americans, he insists, are not merely transplanted Englishmen, but a distinctly foreign or alien race, and the fact that the inhabitants of the two countries speak what they think the same language is not, as so often stated, a bond between the two peoples, but a barrier separating them and making it more difficult for each to understand the other than if they used languages more plainly dissimilar!

There is something, and perhaps much, in this novel theory. Every translator from one language into another knows how unsafe it is to assume that two words of similar spelling and identical derivation are interchangeable. Almost invariably such words have different significances in the two tongues, and often the difference is so wide that mistakes ludicrous or dangerous result from ignoring it.

According to Mr. Chesterton, it is because Americans and Englishmen think they speak the same language that the latter think the former, in the Titanic investigation, are simply seeking a victim to punish, while the former think the latter are trying to save everybody from punishment and to conceal any scandalous negligences that may exist. It is a pity that Mr. Chesterton has been so badly informed that he believes we have been "hounding Mr. Ismay from court to court," but in a general way, and allowing for his characteristic exaggerations, he is right enough in his expression of the two opinions.

He is presumably right, too, in declaring both opinions wrong and in explaining the wrongness and in admitting that in each instance there is an element of substantial accuracy. Why he should object violently to our "joy ride" as a name for one kind of automobiling we do not pretend to know. Possibly it is just "for fun," and it may be for the same good reason that he professes to have particularly great trouble in understanding us when we use, as we often do, locutions no longer current in England, though once a part of the common speech. He even declares that when we say "the girl has a beau" no present day Englishman knows what we mean. That is hardly credible to any reader of books written in what, as literary history goes, was only yesterday.

West Point Needs A Lecture.

Several unpleasant little episodes recently reported from the vicinity of West Point indicate the desirability that somebody in authority at the Military Academy should very gently but very firmly tell the young men there the precise nature of their relation to the civilian population and that of the civilian population to them. For these gallant youths—that they are gallant youths nobody in his senses would deny—seem inclined to forget to whom it is that they owe such superiorities of manner and mind as they may possess.

Were one inclined to be harsh one might say that what they sometimes forget is that they are by profession the hired men, the paid servants, of that great majority of Americans who, for good reason or bad, have not chosen to specialize in the science of using deadly weapons. Hired men and paid servants the West Pointers are, but there is no desire to use such terms except when, in the vivacity of youth, they fall into the delusion that civilians are inferior beings with few rights on a sidewalk and none to reprove or criticise a General in the making.

That the West Point boys have the defects of their qualities is, however, a reason not for scolding them but for friendly admonition. The traits that seem a little objectionable in time of peace—pugnacity, self-confidence, and the putting of their own work above every other—are just what we want them to show in the day of public danger.

BAD POLICING

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to protest against the very bad handling of the crowd by the police below Twenty-third Street during the woman suffrage parade on Saturday. The crowd got entirely away from the police, broke up the ranks of the marchers, and made things generally unpleasant. One young officer on horseback, whose apparent inexperience alone could attempt to excuse his brutal methods, rode down the crowds. Under my observation his horse stepped on a child's foot, an act in itself enough to lame the child for life.

Below Twenty-third Street there were not sufficient police to keep the immense crowd in hand. It was a sorry and dangerous spectacle, and a bad example to women of masculine government.

Wild Rabbits.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You published a letter which relates to the game law codification made by the last Legislature. Very few sportsmen who know anything of game conditions in our State will agree with your correspondent, but I merely wish to call attention to his glaring error in regard to the breeding of wild rabbits. He says that rabbits are undeserving of protection for many reasons and says also that they breed so fast and have so many young that a year's close season would restore any depletion of their numbers.

Wild rabbits are not like tame rabbits, and they breed but twice a year, as a rule having from three to seven young in each litter.

Of course they are not rabbits at all, being in fact true hares—lying in forms and never in burrows, only in exceptionally bad Winter weather and even then these burrows are either nature or man made and never the result of the "rabbit's" labor.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am in receipt of a letter from a Pennsylvania lady, 22 years of age, making a business inquiry, who writes that she is a member of the "prespiterrian" Church. A few of the less distinctive words are spelled about as a New York Alderman might spell them, but as the lady is a member of the Presbyterian Church, how may it be accounted for, admitting her phonetic sense of spelling to be defective, that she has not seen the word times enough in print to have fixed the arrangement of the proper letters in her visual mind? Possibly some TIMES orthographist can answer.

Personal Responsibility.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit a woman heartily to indorse the notable point of Admiral Mahan's letter on apportionment of blame for the Titanic disaster: "Fix the sense of personal responsibility and burn it into men's minds." Reduced to the simplest term that is what all America wants to wake up to. Burn that sense of personal responsibility into the youth of to-day, and to-morrow will be that stuff of which our dreams are made.

Dangers of Flying Glass.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In many railroad accidents—steam, electric, and surface cars—passengers are often injured by flying glass. If wired glass is used in car windows, would that not eliminate the danger of being injured by the breaking and flying glass? In many cases passengers are not injured in any other way.

A SLAP AT JAPAN?

Nipponese Historian Points to Provision in Dillingham Bill.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Senator Dillingham's immigration bill, which was passed by the Senate on April 20, will be taken by Japan as a slap in the face, and a pretty hard one at that. Japan has left nothing undone to fulfill the "gentlemen's agreement" with the United States. Statistics show that during the past three years the number of Japanese departures from these shores exceeded the number of Japanese arrivals by 6,585. Is this a situation which necessitates the enactment of a new law at the expense of the good will of a friendly power?

The Dillingham bill contains a provision which is calculated to be an affront to the Japanese nation. That provision bars out those aliens who have no right of naturalization in this country, and the Japanese will be the chief nation to be affected by this provision. True, the bill makes an exception where the United States, by treaty or memorandum, agrees to override that provision—the "gentlemen's agreement" with Japan for example. But this does not obviate the possibility of international complications. For when the present agreement with Japan expires in 1923, the Dillingham bill, if enacted, will became applicable to the Japanese. The existing agreement may be renewed in 1923, but it is equally possible that Japan will fail to secure the renewal. Moreover, the people of Japan have been and still are in hopes that before the "gentlemen's agreement" expires, their patience, their self-restraint and their fastidious regard for American interests will gradually bring about a change of American sentiment toward them, and thus lead to the eventual removal of that obnoxious agreement. Now the Dillingham bill, if enacted, will blight all such hopes, and will fix upon the Japanese, more ineffaceably than ever, the stigma of inferiority. It will treat the Japanese as inferior even to Syrians, Armenians, Slovaks, Ruthenians, Croatians, Slavonians, &c. It is not difficult to foresee how long the Japanese will acquiesce in such a humiliating treatment.

It is to be hoped that the House and the President will realize the real significance of the Dillingham bill. But if the bill must be adopted by the House and sanctioned by the President, the United States should at the same time extend to the Japanese the right of naturalization.

ANTI-PATRIOTIC SOCIALISTS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have wondered if anybody will be fooled by the display of patriotism which Mr. Berger and the editor of The Call have so suddenly exhibited. The New York Call stated editorially on Jan. 7 that "devotion to the flag is really only submission to the most horrible, revolting, inhuman, slave conditions." On Feb. 10, on its editorial page, it printed an article from the pen of Richard Perin in which the Stars and Stripes were insulted as, perhaps, never before. To quote briefly from this article:

> I loathe the Stars and Stripes, once the symbol of liberty for all, but now the stripes represent the bloody stripes left by your lash on the back of the worker, and the stars the bullet and bayonet wounds in his breast. To hell with your flag!

And again:

> When the red flag flies above our homes and our nations we shall honor it and love it. But until it does we refuse to recognize or respect any flag which is merely the symbol of and protects some National section of international capitalism. Down with the Stars and Stripes! Run up the red flag of humanity!

For several years the Socialists, through their press and by their speakers, have promoted a propaganda of anti-patriotism. In every State boys and girls have been taught to hate the Government and to spit upon the flag. As a logical result, the daily papers have recently recorded several instances in which the National emblem has been treated with contumely by Socialists. The latest attack upon the flag occurred at the May Day mass meeting at Union Square, but instead of defending the principles that they had instigated, The New York Call appears with an editorial designed to show that, as Mr. Berger says, "the Socialists are the best patriots we have."

Could anything be more absurd, unless it be the present attempt of a few Socialists to make it appear that the party is not in sympathy with the methods of William D. Haywood and his I. W. W. crowd from Chicago? If I felt that I could take so much space in your paper I would quote many paragraphs in which the Socialist press of this country praises the I. W. W. and its methods without any qualification. It was upon his I. W. W. record that Haywood was elected to membership in the National Executive Committee and by a large majority, yet The Call and Mr. Berger ask us to believe that the I. W. W. does not represent Socialist sentiment. We may admit that not all Socialists are International Workers of the World, but all International Workers of the World are Socialists; their leader is a member of the National Executive Committee, and it is difficult to understand by what curious twistings of the laws of logic Mr. Berger and The Call editor can at this late date repudiate those who are simply trying to carry out in a practical manner the doctrines that have always been advocated by all real disciples of Karl Marx.

JOHN R. MEADER,

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is little or no difference between radical Socialism and philosophical anarchy. Socialists ridicule patriotism and have contempt for the American flag. Many of them, in their Sunday schools, teach the little ones to worship the red flag and to hate the American flag, which they claim stands for capitalism.

Socialism is a menace to home and family, to God and country, and to Church and State alike.

JEFFERSON LEE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With regard to the parade of May 1, such exhibitions must not be allowed in future on this or any other anniversary. Legislators at the next Albany session should pass a bill forbidding it. The red flag means nothing else than hatred of government and defiance of law and order. The first insult to our flag was parading it in company with the red flag of anarchy. We Americans have no sympathy with the disturbances created by dissatisfied foreigners, and our flag has never, with our consent, been carried in company with the red flag. The greater insult in store for it was trampling upon it.

AMERICAN.

ODE TO MAY.

May, thou Queen of Spring and Youth,
Whisper, pray, to me the truth—
Must we shiver day and night,
As in April was our plight?
Is it overcoats or no?
Do you bring us heat or snow?
To a faithful swain of yore
Whisper what you have in store.

Do not keep us in the dark—
Shall it be gas logs or park?
This year you've no comet, May,
On whose tail the blame to lay,
So you'd better hand it straight,
Even tho' you hand it late.
Come, May, just one little clue
As to what you mean to do.

Shall our raincoats still hold sway?
Dare we send our furs away?
Shall we boldly buy a straw,
Even tho' the air is raw,
Trusting you will still make good
As the Merry Maytime should?
End, I pray thee, our suspense,

DEMAND THE DEFEAT OF IMMIGRATION BILL

ESPIONAGE MENACE IN IT

Provision for Deportation of Revolutionary Aliens Assailed by Political Refugees League.

A protest similar to that which will be voiced by a big mass meeting at Cooper Union to-night against the Dillingham immigration bill as amended by Senator Root, prescribing among other restrictions a literary test for immigrants as prerequisite to their admission here, has been made to Congress by the Political Refugees Defense League, an organization consisting of representatives of many labor bodies and other societies.

The Defense League's protest, which has been sent in the form of a letter to every Congressman, denounces especially that provision of the Dillingham bill which permits the deportation of "any alien who shall take advantage of his residence in the United States to conspire with others for the violent overthrow of a foreign Government recognized by the United States." This, the league insists, would make the United States Government virtually lend itself as a police service to foreign Governments against persons in this country in sympathy with revolutionists abroad.

"What the Government of the Czar of Russia has failed to achieve under our extradition treaty," says the letter, "is now sought to be accomplished through the proposed amendment. Should this amendment become a law, the Czar's Government would be the first to establish a branch of its secret police department on our shores, to hunt for all Russian subjects who are in sympathy with the cause of freedom in Russia. All the Czar's spies will have to do will be to charge an unnaturalized Russian with conspiracy to overthrow the Russian Government. A rehearing before inferior immigration officials will be conducted in the usual star chamber fashion, and an executive officer will be vested with the power to order the deportation of the accused.

"Eminent men like Garibaldi, Lafayette, Carl Schurz, O'Donovan Rossa, and Kossuth would not have been permitted to enjoy our hospitality under such an amendment.

Denounces Root Amendment.

"The amendment is so plainly repulsive to the spirit and traditions of the people of this free republic that we sincerely trust you will not only vote against this pernicious amendment, but use your best efforts to prevent the attempt to make the United States a fugitive slave trap for the spies of the Russian Government."

With the letter, the league incloses copies of the resolution which it passed condemning the proposed bill. The resolution reads:

> Whereas, the Dillingham bill (S. 3,175,) as adopted by the United States Senate, if made part of the law of the United States, would result in shutting the door of opportunity to the victims of political oppression; and
> Whereas, The requirement of a certificate of identity would introduce upon American soil a passport system which is both oppressive and humiliating, and which has long ago been discarded by the civilized nations of the world; and
> Whereas, The bill as amended by Senator Root provides, among other things, for the deportation of "any alien who shall take advantage of his residence in the United States to conspire with others for the violent overthrow of a foreign Government recognized by the United States;" and
> Whereas, The principle that every people has an inalienable right to overthrow by any and all means a Government which maintains itself by organized physical force and not by the sufferance of its people, has given birth to this Republic and lies at the very foundation of political liberty, as emphasized by the Declaration of Independence; and
> Whereas, The said amendment would transform our Government into a secret police agency for the despotic Governments of Europe and Asia; be it
> Resolved, That we emphatically condemn said provisions of the bill as in conflict with the time honored American institution of political asylum, and look upon this amendment as an attempt to convert the United States Government into a branch of the secret service of despotic rulers, thus using this Republic as a trap for the convenience of tyrannical oppression; and be it further

Similar to Fugitive Slave Law.

> Resolved, That we consider this amendment as on a par with the Fugitive Slave law, against which the American people in the past recorded its immortal disapproval; and be it further
> Resolved, That we call upon the members of the House of Representatives to prevent the enactment of said amendment and the bill itself into law; and be it further
> Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to every member of the House of Representatives and to the President of the United States.

The Dillingham bill now provides that no immigrant shall be permitted to enter the country who cannot read and write and who has not on his or her person a certificate of identification. Among the organizations which are protesting against the enactment of this bill into law is the National Liberal Immigration League, of which Edward Lauterbach is President, and which includes in its membership Charles W. Eliot, ex-President of Harvard University; Andrew Carnegie, Woodrow Wilson, Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy, and President John H. Finley of the College of the City of New York.

At the mass meeting to-night President Finley will be Chairman, and the principal speakers will be Congressmen Sulzer and Harrison, Oscar S. Straus, William S. Bennet, Magistrate Freschi, George Gordon Battle, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, and Edward Lauterbach.

BILLS DENOUNCED IN BOSTON.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 5.—Denunciation of the Dillingham and Burnett Immigration bills now before Congress was voiced at a meeting in Faneuil Hall here to-night, by men and women of a half dozen nationalities. All assailed the bills as unfair and infamous. Jacob De Haas declared that the passage of such restrictive laws would mean the establishment of a spy system, and would offer great opportunities for graft. He said that the immigration regulations at present are bad enough without being made worse by such legislation.

A committee of five was appointed to go to Washington and fight the bills. Resolutions condemning the bills were passed. The resolutions which will be sent to-day to every member of Congress, to the President, and to his Cabinet, are in part as follows:

> That this meeting of the citizens of Boston protests against the adoption of the Dillingham and Burnett bills as being un-American in spirit and harmful to the best interests of the future people of the United States.
> Further, that the Chairman of the committee organizing this meeting shall appoint a committee of five who shall proceed to Washington to urge upon the individual members of the House of Representatives and upon the officials of the parties the objections of this meeting to the proposed good conduct certificates for immigrants.

Ex-Congressman John A. Keliher, ex-Alderman Edward J. Bromberg, Dr. Santozuosso, President of the Italian Liberal Immigration League, and Jacob De Haas, editor of The Jewish Advocate, were speakers. Leo Lyons presided.

SMOKE EATERS DO A VAUDEVILLE TURN

LIFE-SAVING DEVICES USED

Audience Applauded Until Hose Nozzles Were Pointed at It, and Then It Ducked.

Fire Commissioner Johnson and fifteen selected firemen and officers made their début as actors last night at the Metropolitan Opera House amid flames and much applause. Commissioner Johnson objected to calling it grand opera. He said it might better be called a vaudeville performance. The spectators, however, had still a different view of it. They called it a circus, and they were probably right, for nowhere but at a circus are such hair-raising stunts performed.

The occasion was the seventh annual benefit performance for the Newsboys' Home Club. The newsboys recently came into possession of the old building of the New York Historical Society, at Second Avenue and Eleventh Street, and they need about $30,000 to fit up the interior for their special purposes. The benefit was planned by the officers and Directors of the Newsboys' Home Club, to provide at least a part of the money necessary. They didn't get all of it, but an appreciative audience contributed at least a third of the amount, and the newsies will now get their swimming pool and gymnasium without a doubt.

William Harris arranged the programme of singers, dancers, and players, and then he thought of Commissioner Johnson's troupe. With one rehearsal he knew that he had a headliner. Last night he was convinced that he had a marvelous success. All the troupe needs, it is conceded, is a little stage drill. Commissioner Johnson is at once the leading man and the great artist of the production.

The Fire Commissioner, who has a reputation as an after-dinner speaker, appeared on the stage in evening clothes. His associates appeared in the uniform of action. The Commissioner first apologized for anticipated stage fright on the part of his men, but assured his auditors that he, for one, was not the least bit frightened, except by the footlights and the sixty-piece orchestra and the enormous distance from pit to gallery peak.

"This is the first appearance of any city official in vaudeville," he said, "but if I get away with this, it may not be the last. In fact, I will admit that I'd like to go on in vaudeville, and any managers present will kindly take notice that I am open for engagements.

"The public pays eight and a quarter millions a year to support the Fire Department, and it ought to have some such visual return on the investment as it will get to-night."

With that the fireworks started. First they set a house on fire, Commissioner Johnson blowing the bellows which kept the flames rising to the scenic heaven. In the burning house there was a doomed man, frantically tugging at inch-thick steel bars. It was an imitation of President Giblin of the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company, trying to extricate himself from the burning Equitable Building. There appeared an Indian fireman named Seneca Larke, the man who sawed President Giblin out with a hacksaw. Larke applied the saw to the steel bars. It would have taken him an hour and a half to cut them had not Fire Chief Larkin rushed up at that moment with a brilliant red acetylene gas tank and a glow light. This light, under pressure, was applied to the bars, and in four minutes two bars had been cut in four places and the doomed man was saved. He was put on a stretcher, and Dr. Harry Archer, whom Commissioner Johnson had previously introduced as the worst of "firebugs," soon resuscitated him. Whatever may be said of the acting ability of the firemen, that doomed man most certainly could act. He had no sooner come back to life than he took up his stretcher and walked off with it.

Then came the shooting of the life line. A fireman with a gun did the shooting. Four firemen whom he was attempting to save were high up in a scenery tier, and were yelling for help. The shot wasn't perfect, but one of the men up in the air hooked the rope with a piece of scenery and hauled the life line up. Down came the four men on the rope without mishap.

The crowd cheered, but there were still more men to save, and in a different way. This was by the life net method, which, the Commissioner explained, is serviceable to the height of six stories. An improvised house three stories high was rolled out on the stage, and three firemen climbed the rickety structure and imagined that flames were all about them. Below stood ten men holding the circular life net.

"Jump," shouted an enthusiast in the third balcony.

Jump they did, and bounced about a bit, and then, one by one, rolled out on the Metropolitan Opera House stage. It was just like jumping on a haystack. The audience liked this stunt in particular.

The last act was the stretching of two lines of hose. The fire had to be imagined in this case, for Commissioner Johnson had ceased blowing the bellows and the fire had gone out. The smoke eaters knew where the imaginary fire was, however, and at a command brought out two nice clean lines of hose, with brass nozzles.

"Turn off the water!" yelled Chief Larkin.

Of course, it was only a joke, but the audience wasn't sure of it, and some of the front-seaters did duck, to the great delight of the smoke eaters.

Then the firemen's show was over, and Commissioner Johnson was last seen talking to several vaudeville managers.

AWAKES TO SEE BURGLAR.

Girl Gives Alarm and Pastor Helps Capture the Man.

A burglar entered the Bushwick Avenue German Presbyterian Church early yesterday morning by forcing entrance on the Ralph Street side. After opening the poor boxes, which contained nothing, he left the church by crawling out of the rear window opening upon the yard of the parsonage. He then entered the parsonage by a rear window and went upstairs into the bedroom of Miss Elizabeth Meiss, a friend of the family of the Rev. Herman Schnatz, pastor of the church. While he was opening a bureau she awoke and demanded who was there.

"Why, it's only me," the burglar answered, in the evident hope of giving the impression that a member of the family had entered.

He left the room quickly, and several minutes passed before Miss Meiss gave the alarm. Mr. Schnatz at once telephoned to the police. The hat and coat of the burglar were on the sill of a rear window.

The clergyman, who was waiting at the front window for the police to arrive, saw a man in his shirt sleeves on the sidewalk. He started out of the house and the man ran. Mr. Schnatz pursued, and, jumping on a milk wagon, kept up the chase till he overhauled the fugitive at Bushwick Avenue and Madison Street. When they came to close quarters the burglar turned and struck him several heavy blows. Before he could get away, however, Policeman Hoffman arrived and seized him.

At the police station the prisoner gave his name as Hugh G. Lisk, 22 years old, of 46 Jefferson Avenue, Richmond Hill. Some old coins and a gold watch and chain he had taken from the parsonage were found on him.

CONFER ON SCHOOL AFFAIRS.

Outside Agencies Will Meet Board of Education and City Officials.

A general conference on school affairs, at which all the agencies now co-operating with the public schools of this city will be represented, will be held on May 17 at the Colony Club.

The conference was called by John Purroy Mitchel, Chairman of the Committee on School Inquiry of the Board of Estimate, and its purpose is to work out a plan for a closer relationship between the schools and the 200-odd private agencies that now contribute upward of $1,000,000 each year to school work. A full discussion of the budget estimates and allowances for next year will be a part of the conference.

In the invitations to the conference sent out by Mr. Mitchel and Controller Prendergast it is stated that the originators of the conference wish to bring out particularly these four things:

What and how much co-operation is possible from the outside if called upon by the school authorities.

Whether the schools and school authorities are now utilizing to the fullest possibility all co-operation offered.

Whether co-operating agencies feel the need for a central co-ordinating agency and general centre for work in school affairs.

How an adequate discussion of the school needs may be had throughout the present Spring and Summer.

The list of organizations invited to participate in the conference includes the teachers' associations, the local School Boards, the Metropolitan Art Museum, the Museum of Natural History, the public libraries, the Botanical Gardens, the Board of Health, the Public Education Association, the Committee on Tuberculosis, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the School Art League, the Teachers College, the Russell Sage Foundation, Columbia and New York Universities, and the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science.

THINKS HE SAW MISS ARNOLD

Man Who Found Kidnapped Baby Has Another Clue.

Carl Roseleaf, who a month ago found and rescued Ruth Fleischman, the baby who was "kidnapped" by a demented servant girl, went to Police Headquarters last night and asked for a description of Dorothy Arnold, the missing heiress. Roseleaf, who is a florist, living at 288 Bowery, said that he met a girl who answered Miss Arnold's description outside Cooper Union earlier in the evening. He said the young woman approached him and asked where she could find lodging. She said, according to his story, that she had only been in this city a few days and came from St. Augustine, Fla.

Roseleaf said he directed the young woman to the Young Women's Christian Association home at 14 East Sixteenth Street. He said the young woman was about 22 years old and of evident refinement. He said she registered as Ethel Gilbert after she had misspelled the name as "Glibert," and gave as references C. A. Weeks and Frank Munsell, both of Allenhurst, N. J.

At the Y. W. C. A. home last night it was said that the young woman had retired for the night.

At the home it was said later that photographs of Miss Dorothy Arnold had been shown to those who met Miss Gilbert, and that they did not resemble the young woman in the least. Miss Gilbert had not misspelled her name, it was said.

N. R. VAN KLEEK TO WED.

New Yorker Will Marry Miss Cochran of Pittsburgh Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 5.—The engagement of Nelson Roe Van Kleek, son of Mrs. William Van Kleek of New York, to Miss Caroline Hampton Cochran of this city has been announced. The wedding will take place next Saturday at Hampton farm, near here, at 4 P. M.

Among the wedding party will be Mrs. William Van Kleek, mother of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Devens, Mrs. Thorburn Reid, Mrs. George M. Fleming, and Chester E. Van Kleek, brother of the bridegroom, all of New York. Chester Van Kleek will act as his brother's best man.

A series of entertainments will be held in the course of the week in honor of the bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Ellen Drury Weds F. J. Lewis.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 5.—Mrs. Ellen Drury and F. J. Lewis of Rockville Centre, L. I., were married in the Cathedral of the Incarnation this afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dean John Robert Moses of the cathedral, assisted by the Rev. D. Herbert O'Dowd of St. Agnes's Church, Rockville Centre. After the ceremony the wedding party, accompanied by immediate friends and relatives, motored to the Garden City Hotel, where the wedding dinner was served.

Arrivals on the Minnehaha.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday from London on the Minnehaha were Thomas M. Barker, Miss Ethel Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Broadhurst, W. F. Bush, Miss M. E. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hawkins, L. T. Howes, Mrs. Dunbar Johnston, the Rev. Dr. G. Westley Johnston, R. S. Jones, J. R. Madison, H. E. Merry, Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Robertson, Mrs. M. A. S. Robinson, and Miss Edith F. Surrall.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Margaret Morris, who fell while skating on the ice at the Moulin Rouge two weeks ago and broke her left leg, will return to the cast of "A Winsome Widow" to-night.

A musical version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," for which Arthur Pryor wrote the music, will have its first performance in Chicago this month. Belle Gold will play the principal character role of Topsy.

Katherine Grey will present her dramatic sketch, "Above the Law," in New York shortly. In her company are Arthur Row and Menifee Johnson. Miss Grey's vaudeville season will end on June 1, when she will begin a Summer stock engagement.

"The Talker" will end its season at the Harris Theatre on Saturday night after 150 performances. Several members of the company are under contract for Summer stock companies. The piece will open on Labor Day with the same cast, and will go on tour, starting at Philadelphia.

A special matinée performance of "Patience" at the Lyric Theatre on Thursday afternoon, and the evening performance on the same date will be for the benefit of the Intercollegiate Bureau of Occupations.

The Shuberts announced yesterday that the English production of "Two Little Brides," the musical comedy that James T. Powers is now playing in at the Casino Theatre, has been postponed and negotiations are under way for Mr. Powers and the American company to go to London as soon as the season here is over.

THEATRE FEDERATION OFF ON DRAMA HUNT

Trial Performances of Promising Plays to be Given — Augustus Thomas Praises Movement.

Wallack's Theatre was filled to its capacity last night at the first public meeting of the recently organized National Federation of Theatre Clubs. Besides addresses on the purposes of the federation there was an entertainment, which probably helped to attract the crowd. The audience, however, was as enthusiastic over the speeches as over the entertainment numbers.

Inserted in the programmes were folders telling of the purposes of the organization and blanks for subscriptions. The federation, said the folders, disavows any intention of undertaking a radical reform of the stage, but proposes as its mission the contriving of ways and means to help produce plays which appeal to the judgment of intelligent people, to afford authors and actors enlarged opportunities for coming before the public, to bring worthy works to the notice of producing managers through trial performances instead of manuscripts, and to give its lay members the opportunity of witnessing the performance of such plays under special privileges.

To Pass on Manuscripts.

It is planned to elect a Reading Committee, which shall pass on all manuscripts that are sent into the federation. Those selected by the committee as possibly worthy of production will be read by the organization, and if they pass this test will be produced.

The first speaker last night was Augustus Thomas, who said that he is in complete sympathy with the purposes of the federation and will lend all the aid within his power toward making it succeed.

Wilton Lackaye, representing the actors, also expressed sympathy and a desire to help. He said that all actors would favor any movement that had for its object the advancement of the stage. This movement, he said, is about the only sane method he had ever seen attempted. The drama, he declared, needs what has been given to music and painting in this country—a subvention that will make it possible to spend much money to educate the people. He said the fault with the New Theatre was that it was in the hands of a small part of a class, and did not appeal to the people of the middle class.

Professionalism the Keynote.

Sydney Rosenfeld, the President of the Federation, explained that the purpose of the organization will be professionalism; that it will enlist professional people connected with the stage. He declared that what prevents the success of many good plays to-day is the price of admission charged, which makes it impossible for many people to attend the theatres where good plays are produced.

James W. Osborne spoke in behalf of the theatregoer in general and along the same lines as the previous speakers, and Mrs. Belle de Rivera, First Vice President of the Federation, and Mary Shaw also made addresses.

The entertainment part of the programme, in charge of Mrs. Dore Lyon, included songs by Blanche Duffield, Fritz Strumfels, and Sydney Barraclough and some impersonations and dances by two stage children, Nora Laing and Hazel Dudley.

The dues of the Federation are at present $2 a year, and the officers are Sydney Rosenfeld, President; Mrs. Belle de Rivera, First Vice President; Mrs. Dore Lyon, Corresponding Secretary; James R. Stillman, Treasurer, and Mrs. Gerard Bancker, Recording Secretary.

Miss Fisher Back in "The Typhoon."

Florence Fisher, who has been out of the cast of "The Typhoon" for the last six weeks on account of an operation for appendicitis, will return to the support of Walker Whiteside at the Hudson Theatre to-night. Miss Fisher was taken ill during a matinée of "The Typhoon" on March 23, and was hurried to Philadelphia, where her uncle, Dr. J. N. Fisher of the University of Pennsylvania, performed the operation. Miss Fisher was in Mr. Whiteside's company in "The Melting Pot," and was with Mme. Nazimova for four seasons. During her illness her rôle in "The Typhoon" has been played by Amy Summers.

CRUISES TO PANAMA.

Steamship Lines Arrange to Meet a Rush to See the Canal.

It is estimated that during the past Winter season 7,000 tourists from all parts of the United States visited the Panama Canal. The number would have been larger if the steamship lines could have accommodated the rush of traffic. At the end of March the United Fruit, the Hamburg-American, and the Royal Mail Steam Packet companies had to refuse to book any more passengers for the Isthmus, as they could not bring them back, owing to the number of tourists waiting in the West Indies to come home.

Although Col. George W. Goethals states that he expects to raise the Gatun Lake up to the level of fifty feet this August, it will not interfere with the inspection of the works next Winter, but that will be the last chance, as the canal will be flooded in the Fall of 1913.

In view of this fact and the lack of hotel accommodation on the Isthmus and in the West Indies for any large number of tourists nearly all the big Atlantic lines will run cruises. The Hamburg-American Line will send the cruisers Victoria Luise and Moltke, the White Star Line will send the liners Laurentic and Megantic, the North German Lloyd the liner Grosser Kurfuerst, the Royal Mail Steam Packet the Avon, and the Cunard Line, it is rumored in steamship circles, will enter the cruising service with their new liner Laconia.

McADOO WILL INVESTIGATE.

Record Shows Man Was Out in a Week After Six Months' Sentence.

In Essex Market Court Nathan Becker of 90 Avenue C and Morris Marks of the same address were arraigned yesterday on a charge of jostling. Detective Bernecke, who arrested the two youths, testified that on Saturday night at Norfolk and Rivington Streets he had seen the two prisoners try to rob a woman. Bernecke submitted a police record of Becker, which showed a number of convictions for similar offenses.

As Magistrate McAdoo looked over the record, his face took on a puzzled form.

"How is this?" he asked. "In April, 1909, Becker was sent to the Workhouse for six months by Magistrate Krotel. One week later he is arraigned before Magistrate Steinert and fined $10. Becker, how do you account for that?"

As Becker gave no answer, Detective Bernecke said that when he arrested Becker the prisoner said he didn't care if he was sent to the Workhouse, as he would be out within three days.

"This matter is going to be investigated thoroughly," said Magistrate McAdoo. "I am going to have it solved and at once."

The Magistrate then sentenced Becker to six months in the Workhouse and gave Morris Marks two months. During Becker's stay, Magistrate McAdoo will have the old sentence looked up, and if he finds that Becker did not serve the first six months in 1909 he will have him resentenced, he said.

MASONS MEET TO-MORROW.

Prominent Freemasons from all over the State have been assembling in the last few days to attend the one hundred and thirty-first annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the State of New York. The Grand Lodge will convene at Masonic Hall, Twenty-fourth Street, near Sixth Avenue, at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and will be opened by Robert Judson Kenworthy, the Grand Master, assisted by Grand Marshal Jacob C. Klinck.

When the Grand Master calls the Grand Lodge to order there will be present representatives from more than 800 lodges in the State, with a membership of nearly 175,000. In addition to the officers of the Grand Lodge and the representatives from the lodges, it is expected that Past Grand Masters William Sherer, Frank R. Lawrence, Townsend Scudder, S. Nelson Sawyer, and William A. Brodie will be present. A large number of representatives of foreign lodges will also attend.

The Grand Master will read his annual address. This will be followed by the reports from the Grand Secretary, the Grand Treasurer, and the Boards of Trustees of the Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund. The report of the Trustees is looked forward to with great interest, as it will deal with matters relating to the building known as the Masonic Hall, in West Twenty-fourth Street, near Sixth Avenue, which is occupied by the Grand Secretary, the Masonic Library, and Masonic Club, and is the meeting place for many lodges, and also to the new building nearly ready for occupancy on the site of the old Masonic Temple, on the northeast corner of Sixth Avenue and Twenty-third Street. This is a commercial and office building, and not intended for occupancy by the craft.

The erection of these buildings has placed a heavy debt on the Grand Lodge, and it is expected that the Trustees will recommend measures with a view to its reduction and final extinction, so that a larger income may be assured for the Masonic Home and School at Utica, which is regarded as one of the finest institutions in the State.

Robert Judson Kenworthy has served two terms as Grand Master, and will retire from office. Charles Smith of Oneonta, who has served two years as Deputy Grand Master, will beyond doubt be promoted to the Grand Mastership. This leaves a contest for Deputy Grand Master. Under the regulations of the Grand Lodge, when the Grand Master's home is outside the metropolitan district, the Deputy Grand Master must come from one of the lodges located in the City of New York. As Charles Smith is from Oneonta, the Deputy must be chosen from the metropolitan district. There are naturally a number of candidates.

Col. E. M. L. Ehlers, who has been Grand Secretary for more than twenty-five years, will be re-elected without opposition. The election of the officers will take place on Wednesday, and the proceedings will close with their installation on Thursday.

MINERS' LEADERS LEAVE CITY

John T. Dempsey, John Fahy, and Thomas J. Richards of the United Mine Workers of America, who remained behind after the other members of the Executive Committee of the miners left the city last week, left New York yesterday.

The anthracite mine workers will hold their convention at Wilkesbarre on May 14 to act on the refusal to ratify the tentative agreement by the conference committee of the mine workers, which was arranged by their sub-committees and the operators. All the officers are busy preparing for this convention.

It was learned yesterday that before he left the city for Indianapolis to sign the soft coal agreement, President White of the United Mine Workers had a conference with Charles P. Neill, United States Labor Commissioner.

Mr. Neill could not intervene as a mediator in his official capacity in the troubles of the mine workers, but he has a good deal of influence among labor leaders.

It is said that the rank and file of the miners are not so much concerned about recognition of the union as about a good increase in wages. The wage demand was for an increase of 20 per cent., which, with the abolition of the sliding scale, would mean a net increase of about 15 per cent. By this rule the 10 per cent. advance provided in the compromise agreement would be a net increase of about 5 per cent. only about one-third of the net increase demanded. The operators hold that they could not afford to grant the actual increase demanded without advancing the prices of anthracite, which they say they are not prepared to do.

Dealers said yesterday that even if there was no strike the suspension of work, which is bound now to continue at least to the end of this month, means that between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 tons of anthracite, which would have been mined if there was no suspension, will be still unmined at the end of this month. This, with the suspension of mining in April, means about 14,000,000 tons less than under normal conditions.

PAPER MAKERS RETURN.

A Second Conference on Wages To-day—Say They Don't Want a Strike.

T. C. Carey, President of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers; S. Newton of the Pulp and Sulphite Workers' Union, and other labor leaders who took part in the conference at the Hotel Latham on Saturday with the representatives of the International Paper Company to avert a threatened strike of 7,000 workers, left town yesterday morning.

They will return to-day for another conference, at which every effort will be made to prevent a strike which would tie up thirty-six mills. It is stated by representatives of the company that the voluntary raise of wages which they made on May entails an added expense of $198,000 to the company.

It was stated that the men who want another increase are also anxious to avert a strike. Within the past five years, it is said, they have quit work three times and returned to work losers.

Mme. Marie L. Ranke's Recital.

In the announcement of Mme. Marie L. Ranke's farewell benefit recital of poetry, story, and song, which is to be held on the evening of Friday, May 10, it was incorrectly stated in yesterday's TIMES that the recital would be at the Waldorf-Astoria. It will be in the grand ballroom at Delmonico's.

MUSIC NOTES.

Giuseppe Giusto, baritone; Giovanni Niola, violinist; Gina Ciaparelli Viafora, soprano, and Armando Marescotti, tenor, will give a concert at Carnegie Lyceum on Wednesday evening.

Miss Mabel Besthoff, pianist, and Miss Evelyn Jenks, mezzo-soprano, will give a concert at the American Institute of Applied Music, 212 West Fifty-ninth Street, on Friday evening.

MRS. BLATCH CALLS POLICE INEFFICIENT

ROWDIES RUSHED THE LINES

And the Crowds Frequently Blocked Progress—Gross Neglect, Says Mrs. Blatch.

Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, President of the Women's Political Union, the organization that superintended the preparations for the great suffrage parade held on Saturday afternoon, wrote a letter to Commissioner Waldo yesterday expressing her indignation at the inadequacy of the police arrangements for the demonstration and giving every evidence of a determination not to let the matter drop.

"Will you kindly at the earliest moment appoint a time to receive a delegation of participants in yesterday's woman suffrage parade who wish to lay before you facts as to the serious results of the inadequate police protection accorded us?" the letter began. "We are quite at a loss to understand the inefficiency of your department, for at repeated interviews with your officials the numbers of the marchers and the concourse of the spectators were taken up. As late as Friday afternoon in a telephone communication your department again assured us in response to our expressed anxiety that the police would be massed, as in the parade of 1911, all along the route, and that a double cordon would be stationed at Carnegie Hall.

"There was not only gross neglect on the part of your department, but apparently a desire to deceive us as to the protection which the procession would receive."

Complaints as to the nature of the police arrangements were made frequently to Mrs. Blatch yesterday, Mrs. Raymond Brown reporting that the women who were forming their ranks in Ninth Street were constantly rushed by flying wedges of rowdies without any policemen in sight to check them. Witter Bynner, in behalf of the New Hampshire Men's League, reported that the crowds pressed forward around the men marchers to such an extent that for long stretches their steps were jostled. Others reported the utter inadequacy of the police provision at Fourteenth Street, which allowed the crowds so to reduce the lane for the marchers that they were forced to go two abreast. All the marchers were indignant over the way in which the crowds from the sidewalks were allowed to surge into the street and block the progress of the parade.

LAST FIGHT FOR RICHESON.

Final Effort to Save Minister from Execution to be Made.

BOSTON, May 5.—The final fight for life in behalf of Clarence V. T. Richeson, who while a Baptist minister with a pastorate in Cambridge and engaged to marry a wealthy young woman, poisoned his former sweetheart, Avis W. Linnell of Hyannis, will be made this week. Richeson, who confessed to the crime before being brought to trial, has been sentenced to be executed by electricity in the week beginning May 19, but his attorneys hope to prevail upon Gov. Foss to allow a petition for clemency to go to the Executive Council, which holds its regular meeting on Wednesday.

"I feel confident that Richeson will not forfeit his life in the electric chair," declared William A. Morse, of Richeson's counsel. He said further that "circumstances such as cannot be overlooked prevail, which would make the taking of his life most unjustifiable."

These "circumstances," upon which the plea for commutation of the death sentence to one of life imprisonment will be based, are understood to be connected largely with the claim that Richeson was suffering from a form of insanity when he gave Avis Linnell the poison which caused her death on Oct. 14, 1911. An alienist who examined Richeson in the Charles Street Jail has recently declared that Richeson was at present partly insane.

REPUDIATE FLAG INSULT.

Industrial Workers of the World Denounce Disorder at May Meeting.

Although it was charged that the most noisy and persistent of those involved in the disturbances at the Union Square May Day meeting of the Socialists were prominent members of the Italian Socialist Federation, allied with the Industrial Workers of the World, the whole affair was repudiated yesterday at a meeting of the Industrial Council of the Haywood faction of the I. W. W. at 212 East Twelfth Street.

Members of the federation at the demonstration forced their way to the front of the platform, declaring that they would not speak under the American flag. In the scuffle that ensued the flag was trampled on. The resolutions adopted yesterday said, in part:

"Therefore, the Industrial Workers of the World repudiate and condemn the actions of the unknown and irresponsible individuals who caused a disturbance at the May Day celebration at Union Square on May 1. We denounce these disturbers of a peaceful demonstration as either spies paid to foment trouble or else as irresponsible persons. Should any member of this organization be hereafter discovered to have been connected with the disturbance he will be summarily dealt with."

HYPNOTIZED WHEN WEDDED.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 5.—Declaring that she was under a hypnotic spell or not in her right mind when she was married to Marriet Frasher four years ago, Eleanor K. Frasher of Middletown, N. Y., has applied, through counsel, to Justice Morschauser for the annulment of her marriage.

It was alleged that she was about to be placed in a hospital by her mother for mental trouble when Frasher appeared and spirited her away. She did not realize she was married to him, she declares, until some time afterward, when her mind returned, and she has no recollection of any marriage ceremony.

Justice Morschauser appointed Amos Van Etten of Kingston as referee to take testimony and make a report.

Obituary Notes.

JOHN WESLEY PULLMAN, a pioneer in the steel and iron industry, died yesterday at his home in Wyncote, Penn., from the effects of a general breakdown. He was born in this city and was in his seventy-third year. He was graduated from the New York Free Academy, and afterward became interested in iron mines in Pennsylvania. He retired from active business several years ago. He leaves a daughter and two sons.

The Right Rev. CHARLES WILLIAM STUBBS, Bishop of Truro, England, since 1906, died yesterday. He was born in Liverpool in 1845. From 1881 to 1895 he was preacher at Cambridge; at Oxford in 1883 and 1888-89, and at Harvard University he was select preacher in 1900.

Sister MARY AUGUSTA CLARKE, for many years teacher of French and music in the Convent of Sts. Peter and Paul and later in charge of St. Ambrose and St. Agnes Academies, died on Friday at St. Joseph's Convent, Brantwood, N. Y. Her last position was as Assistant Supervisor of the Sisters of St. Joseph in Brooklyn. She was graduated from St. Joseph's Academy in 1868 and was called "the angel of the school."

LAURA TOWNSEND CLARK, widow of Col. Charles G. Clark and a daughter of the late William H. Townsend, died on Friday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. B. McLean, 225 West Eightieth Street. Mrs. Clark was 81 years old.

JOEL CARTER, at one time a bontanist in the employ of the Government, died on Saturday at his home in Fulton Township, Penn. He had frequently served this country in expeditions to foreign lands on bontanical investigations. He was 69 years old.

JANE MORR died on Saturday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Joseph Bardsley of Montclair. Mrs. Morr was 91 years old.

AMANDA PRENTICE, wife of Frederic Prentice, a retired oil dealer of this city, died on Saturday after a six weeks' illness. She is survived by her husband and one daughter.

THEODORE BRADLEY, for many years a conductor on the New York Central Railroad, died on Saturday of paralysis at his home, 552 Lenox Avenue. He was 61 years old.

FRANK H. MAGUIRE, once Under Sheriff of Kings County, died on Saturday at his home, 578 Park Place, Brooklyn.

ELIZABETH HOFFMAN, widow of Christian Hoffman, died on Friday at the age of 87 years at the home of a daughter at 51 Ashland Place, Brooklyn.

REUBEN N. MURDOCK died on Saturday at his home, Bedford Avenue and Crown Street, Brooklyn. Mr. Murdock was 65 years old and had long been a resident of Flatbush.

WILLIAM VOGEL, an officer in the French Army during the Franco-Prussian war, died on Saturday at the German Hospital of rheumatism of the heart. His home in this city was at 1,404 Third Avenue and he was a civil engineer. He was born in Alsace and came to this country at the close of the war.

DAVID H. WILDAY, President of the Morristown Board of Education, is dead at the age of 65 years. He was a contractor and builder and had been a member of the board for twenty-four years.

GEORGE B. MARKHAM, who was a candidate for State Senator in 1908, died at St. Luke's Hospital on Saturday. His home was at 457 Convent Avenue. Mr. Markham was for several years Principal of the evening recreation centre in East 119th Street.

JOHN C. HOWELL, for fifty-two years with the publishing house of Harper Brothers, is dead at 8 West Sixty-fifth Street.

CARDINALS FAIL TO STOP CINCINNATI

ST. LOUIS, May 5.—The Cardinals made a bold attempt to halt the winning streak of Hank O'Day's Cincinnati team to-day, but failed in the face of the Reds' terrific batting, the visitors winning by a score of 11 to 9 and clinging to the lead in the league race.

Manager Bresnahan assembled his whole regiment of baseball infantry in his attempt to drive in a victory, but was stopped short in the ninth. He sent in four pinch hitters, every one of them failing to hit at the opportune time. St. Louis used up sixteen men in the struggle and Cincinnati had fourteen players in action at various times.

Laudermilk was the only Cardinal pitcher that the Reds couldn't hit, and he wasn't called on till the game was lost. A batting assault drove Willis from the mound in the fourth inning, after the Reds had gathered four runs, and the same thing happened to Dale in the eighth. "Rube" Ellis had a day of glory, smashing out two home runs, a three-bagger, and a single. He scored three runs, but even with this aid St. Louis couldn't win. Hoblitzel was even more deadly with the bat, and made five hits out of five times up. There were only three innings in the game when the Reds didn't push runs across the plate.

St. Louis made a great rally in the ninth inning. They had chased Smith and Humphries off the mound under a fusillade of hits, and in the final round went after Bagby strong. After the Cardinals had scored three runs in the last of the ninth, with only one out, Manager O'Day yanked Bagby out and sent in Rube Benton to save the day. Benton was up to the task, and finished the two-thirds of an inning without giving the "Cards" another hit. The score:

O'Toole Wild at Critical Times.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Marty O'Toole made his Chicago debut by suffering a defeat at the hands of Chicago to-day, 6 to 2. Although pitching in fine form he became wild at critical times, the locals taking advantage of his generosity. In the fourth he struck out Zimmerman, Evers, and Lennox in a row. Score:

Cobb's Single in Eighth Gives Detroit Victory Over St. Louis.

DETROIT, May 5.—Ty Cobb's scorching single in the eighth inning escaped Shotten, and before the latter could retrieve it Bush and Cobb scored the runs which enabled Detroit to defeat St. Louis to-day, 3 to 2, in the closing game of the series. Cobb retired the side in the seventh, two of the catches being spectacular. Score:

White Sox Increases Lead.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Chicago increased its lead for top position in the American League to three full games to-day, defeating Cleveland, 2 to 1. Neil Ball, famous for making a triple play unassisted, practically gave Chicago the game. He held the ball after failing to catch Collins stealing second in the sixth inning and watched Bodie race home with the winning run. Bodie scored both runs and also made two doubles. Score:

Sheriff Stops Baseball Game.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., May 5.—Deputy Sheriffs again refused to allow Sunday baseball here to-day, so Hartford and New Britain played an exhibition game for seven innings this afternoon, resulting in a tie, 4 to 4. Two Deputies were at the field and announced that they had instructions to prevent the game from being played. After a lengthy argument the managers finally yielded and compromised on an exhibition game.

Detroit Buys Pitcher Bailey.

DETROIT, Mich., May 5.—President Navin of the Detroit American League baseball club announced to-day the purchase of Pitcher Bill Bailey from the St. Louis Americans. Bailey, a southpaw, was long considered one of Detroit's greatest "hoodoos."

Jersey City Captures Final Game of Series from Montreal.

The Jersey City and Montreal series ended at West Side Park, Jersey City, yesterday, with a victory for the Skeeters, making it three out of four games played. The score was 2 to 1. It was a pitchers' battle, Viebohn holding his own with Mason and McHale, who did the pitching for the Skeeters. In the sixth inning, Janvrin in trying to steal home collided with Mason, who was at the bat, knocking him down and compelling him to retire from the game. The score:

NOTES OF THE GOLFERS.

Jack McDermott, the National open golf champion, will sail from this port to-morrow, his objective point being the Muirfield links, where the open championship of Great Britain will be held June 21, 22, 24, and 25. The presence of McDermott on the other side will create a situation entirely new in the history of golf. Heretofore the Britons have been accustomed only to annual visits from the Jacks and the Willies who had learned the game in Scotland.

Most of the prominent professionals of Great Britain have entered for the tournament of the Cooden Beach Golf Club, to be held on June 14 to celebrate the opening of the course. Something like $500 has been offered in prizes, and conditions call for thirty-six holes of medal play. Among those who have entered are Harry Vardon, the open champion; James Braid, J. H. Taylor, Alec Herd, Jack White, George Duncan, H. C. Mayo, James Sherlock, Tom Ball, Ted Ray, James Kinnell, and Ben Nicholls, for years connected with clubs in this country.

Not long since a representative of the Merion Cricket Club of Philadelphia visited the United Kingdom and made copies of some famous British holes. Abroad, the idea is declared to be a good one, though not always practicable. Willie Park, in speaking about designing golf links, has said that every bit of ground has to be treated differently. The point is that nature must be allowed, and that nature will always beat the work of man.

WOOD MAKES NEW 15-MILE RECORD

One hour eighteen minutes, fifteen and one-fifth seconds is the mark that the distance runners of the world can from now on run against if they desire to lower the figures made yesterday by Arthur Edwin Wood of England in the fifteen-mile professional championship race at Celtic Park, under the auspices of the Monument Club. The former world's record, made by an amateur, Fred Appleby, was 1:20:04 3-5, at Stamford Bridge, London, England, while the American amateur record is 1:25:15. The only authentic professional figures up to yesterday were to the credit of J. Howitt of England, being 1:22:00.

Incidental to setting up such marvelous figures Wood took the measure of such title holders as Billy Queal, the American premier distance runner; Alfred Shrubb, the world's record holder at many distances; Henri St. Yves, the former Marathon champion, and others. Wood also lowered the world's best "past performances" at twelve, thirteen, and fourteen miles. Queal, who was second, was clocked in 1:21:02 1-5, while Shrubb, the third man, did 1:22:04 1-5, and Ted Crook, who finished fourth, 1:24:03 1-5.

Three thousand persons braved the possibility of inclement weather, and were rewarded by the performances of the men, who gathered their respective shares of the money award. The atmosphere and all the conditions proved conducive to the establishment of a record, which seems destined to stand for many a day, according to the testimony of the many experts who witnessed the performance. The runners all attested that there was an abundance of oxygen in the atmosphere, and that the quarter-mile ellipse was almost "cushiony," enabling them to travel at their best pace without the usual fatigue attending such exertions.

The race was spectacular in the extreme, because of the uncertainty which existed as regarded the possible outcome between Wood and Queal, who ran like a team to the twelve and three-quarter-mile mark, with the Englishman on the pole watching every move of the American champion. Four miles before this stage the pair had shaken off the one-time mighty Shrubb, and the rest of the field was spread all over the track, with some of the runners two miles to the bad even at that point.

Some idea of the pace is conveyed when the various elapsed times of each five miles are glanced at, these being as follows—First five, 25:31; second five, 26:20 1-5; third five, 26:23 4-5. Even the last five miles is capital time for many of our star runners, without the proposition of their having had any previous distance "under their belts."

Wood has been running four years, and in 1909 won the amateur distance running championship of England, doing 52:40 for ten miles, beating Voight, the title holder. Yesterday's race was the longest distance that he has ever run, and he confessed after the race that he was a bit fearful of the distance.

He was lapped on the leader yesterday at half a mile in 2:21 4-5, and his running in the last half mile in 2:30, and the last hundred yards in 15 seconds, coming through with all the earmarks of having plenty in reserve. Just a dozen runners toed the scratch, and included aside from those named John Svanberg, who figured in the last Olympic games for Sweden; Harvey Cohn and Jimmy Lee, former American amateur champions, and several lesser lights of the spiked shoe.

There was considerable speculation before the race, and the sharps were divided between Wood and Queal, with the latter a slight favorite. This pair had met twice in races of an hour, and Queal had won each time, although the Englishman had shown an inclination to gather pace as the distance progressed. This and the fact that Wood had run twelve miles against Longboat in 1:02:29 served to have the Queal supporters have a wholesome respect for his ultimate victor.

Up to eight and three-quarter miles Wood, Queal, and Shrubb alternated in the making of pace. From then on Shrubb fell behind, and the others hung together to twelve and three-quarter miles, where Wood jumped away. The elapsed time for each mile, and the actual time of each mile follow:

The times for each mile.—4:56 4-5; 5:15 4-5; 5:02 1-5; 5:07; 5:10; 5:14 1-5; 5:15 3-5; 5:21; 5:14 1-5; 5:15 1-5; 5:19 4-5; 5:21 1-5; 5:11 4-5; 5:19, and 5:12.

PONY RACE FOR $5,000.

The ponies for the Piping Rock Club subscription race, organized last Fall by a committee consisting of Thomas Hitchcock, F. P. Moore, and J. E. Davis, master of the Meadow Brook Hounds, have been purchased by Charles Hersig of Cheyenne and are now on their way to Piping Rock.

Each subscriber paid $300, of which $200 was to be expended in buying a green pony, the remaining $100 to go toward a purse to be raced for at Piping Rock next Fall. As there are over fifty subscriptions, the purse will be about $5,000, by far the largest purse raced for in the East this year.

The committee will distribute the ponies by lot at Piping Rock at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. Immediately after the distribution there will be gymkhana races, in which each owner of a pony will have an opportunity of taking part, riding his pony for the first time.

The gymkhana games will be in charge of E. W. Hopping, the new manager of polo at Piping Rock.

Golf at Montclair Country Club.

The season of the Upper Montclair Country Club opened May 4 with a medal-play handicap, Classes A and B. This organization, the home club of Jerome D. Travers, holds both the Metropolitan Golf Association and New Jersey State championships. Mr. Travers showed sensational form last season and won both of these events last year. He is in good form this Spring and is going to make another try for the National championship when Harold H. Hilton, the British expert, returns to defend his title as American champion. The Upper Montclair Country Club is erecting a new clubhouse. On May 11 the club will have a mixed foursome, and on May 18 the Spring tournament will qualify twenty-four members for match play. There are medal-play handicaps on May 25 and May 30, the latter a 36-hole proposition.

The club championship will be held on June 8, furnishing four rounds of match play later. The Summer tournament, July 4, will qualify thirty-two men for match play. On June 29, July 27, Aug. 31, and Sept. 7, qualifying rounds will be held for the President's and Vice President's Cups, qualifying thirty-two players for each cup, followed by a medal play eliminating round on Sept. 14 and match play later. The Governor's Cup will be contested for on Sept. 2 and is a 36-hole, one-day medal-play event. The Fall tournament on Oct. 12 qualifies thirty-two members for match play. On Nov. 5 will be the Goat Club Handicap, and the season winds up Thanksgiving Day with a turkey contest.

Motor Cycle Track Pays Up.

Dr. Thornley on Thursday received a check for $1,000 from the management of the Riverview Stadium, the motor cycle track in Chicago that had such a success last year. Of this amount, $250 represented a bonus offered for the rider winning the most points at the meets last season, while the remaining $750 was for a restricted agreement between the F. A. M. and the Riverview management for races in 1912. This agreement provides for the issuing of exclusive sanctions to the Riverview people, and if it is accepted by the Board of Directors of the F. A. M. it will squash the attempts made by other interests to construct a track at the Windy City after the track there last year had netted a worth-while profit. It is understood that Joe Wolters, who was active in the winning list at Riverview last season, will be the recipient of the $250.

BRUSHING SEASON OPENS.

Despite the unpleasant weather, which was anything but seasonable, the opening of the Spring brushing season of 1912 got under way yesterday, with a representative number of entries comprising a programme of ten events.

Many of the horsemen who had anticipated entering the matinée did not come out, owing to weather and the long and trying work of Saturday at the Speedway parade, but the number out was sufficient to make up the entire card, and as a result some unusually fast work was witnessed for such an early stage of the season.

The feature of the afternoon's sport was the performance of Joseph F. Gibbons's chestnut pacing gelding Claro in the Class A pace. Mr. Gibbons has had Claro for almost three years, in which time it has shown flashes of unusual speed, but could never be made to perform up to expectations on the desired occasion.

Yesterday, however, the horse was at its best, and as a result it captured the event by defeating the champion pacer of the Drive, Thomas B. Leahy's black mare Princess Direct. Four horses were entered in the event, and Claro won in straight heats, the time of the first heat, 1:03, being the fastest recorded during the course of the afternoon. In the second brush Claro again showed clean heels to the field and won in 1:05.

The new-comers were out in force, and in some instances showed that they will be strong contenders for the honors before the season is over.

Charles Weiland's new bay pacing mare Dawson Dillon showed some good form in the Class D pacing and won in straight heats from Midnight Direct and Bright Direct, which were second and third, respectively.

The majority of the events were decided in straight heats, as only two went beyond the two-heat mark, those being the Class D trot and Class B pace. In the three-heat trotting race Joseph Gibbons again scored a victory, being in the wagon behind his favorite colt Mahlon Wilkes. After finishing last in the initial heat, Mahlon Wilkes came back and annexed both heats handily.

Class D. Trotting.—Won by Mahlon Wilkes, ch. g., (J. F. Gibbons;) C. C., br. g., (A. Young,) second; Lady Tashman, b. m., (M. I. Aronson,) third; Dr. Eddy, b. g., (W. Horn,) fourth. Time—1:24 4-5; 1:11; 1:12.

Class B. Trotting.—Won by Robbie B. Mo Gregor, gr. g., M. C. Reynolds, (G. Holloway;) Trixie H., b. m., (C. G. Schmidt,) second. Time—1:12; 1:09.

Class E. Pacing.—Won by Della Patch, br. m., (J. O'Shea;) The Rube, b. g., (J. A. Shannon,) second; Triphammer, b. g., (N. Grungfelder,) third. Time—1:12; 1:13.

Class D. Pacing.—Won by Dawson Dillon, b. m., C. Weiland, (Dr. Semon;) Midnight Direct, b. m., (W. C. O'Neill,) second; Bright Direct, br. g., (C. Hiegewatsch,) third. Time—1:09¾; 1:09½.

Class B. Pacing.—Won by Louise E., br. m., Walcott, (R. Clark;) The Aristocrat, blk. m., (A. Mullady,) second. Time—1:05½; 1:10; 1:10.

Class A. Pacing.—Won by Claro, ch. g., (J. F. Gibbons;) Princess Direct, blk. m., T. B. Leahy, (I. Goldsmith,) second; Clover Patch, br. m., (I. V. Hunt,) third; Ernest, b. g., (J. Lawrence,) fourth. Time—1:03; 1:05.

Class E. Trotting.—Won by Meadow Bell, Jr., ch. g., (C. A. Horn;) Hortense W., b. m., (U. C. Urban,) second; The Trip, br. m., (L. Smith,) third; Lady Inwood, blk. m., (E. M. Corner,) fourth; Tommy Baron, b. g., (E. Carpenter,) fifth. Time—1:10.

To Beat 1:09 Trotting.—De Witt, b. g., (C. Weiland,) won. Time—1:05¼.

Class C. Trotting.—Won by Alice Victor, b. m., (B. Cohen;) Little Ella A., blk. m., (A. Lennon,) second; Francis Milroi, b. m., (A. Mullady,) third; Winsome, b. g., (F. A. Campbell,) fourth. Time—1:07¼; 1:07.

Class C. Pacing.—Won by Dick Welsh, rn. g., (H. Smith;) Alphonso Q., b. g., (J. Chainovitz,) second; Baron Waltzer, b. g., (F. Costello,) third. Time—1:06¼; 1:09.

Saddle Horses Under the Hammer.

The increasing demand for saddle horses and the falling off in the breeding has made the situation critical, and it is only after scouring the country that the public has been afforded opportunities to purchase desirable mounts in the past two years. During the past Winter there have been a number of auction sales, but saddle horses have not been found in numbers to meet the demand, and as a consequence persons in search of good mounts have been handicapped in this respect. A sale will be held to-night and on Wednesday of this week at Durland's Riding Academy. To-night the consignment of J. C. Cook of Shelbyville, Ky., consisting of seventeen well-broken saddlers, will be offered for sale, and on Wednesday night the offerings of S. T. Harbinson, the well-known breeder of the "blue grass" country, will be sold. In the latter consignment there will be found a horse which is credited with doing 2:20 under saddle, and others capable of going a 2:30 clip. The choice of the Cook lot is a chestnut mare My Butterfly. The mare is 6 years old and conceded to be the best walk-trot horse in all Kentucky, winning three blues and one championship in the State show of Kentucky.

THE WEEK'S BOXING BOUTS.

Bantamweight Champion Johnny Coulon Here to Box Solsberg at Royale A. C.

The coming week offers several bouts of interest to the boxing public, among the collection of boxers to appear here being the bantamweight champion, Johnny Coulon. It has been some time since Coulon has appeared in a local ring, and his ten-round bout at the Royale A. C. at the Clermont Avenue Rink with Young Solsberg of Brooklyn will attract much attention. The bout will be held on Wednesday night. Solsberg has made a good showing against good bantams in this vicinity, and his admirers hope to see him hold his own against Coulon.

A boxing club which in the old days of the Horton law was the scene of many good bouts will reopen on Wednesday night—the New Star A. C. at 107th Street and Lexington Avenue. It was formerly the old Lennox A. C. There are forty rounds of boxing scheduled for the opening, the main ten-round bout being between Battling Hurley of New Jersey and Young Hickey. Both are hard, rugged athletes, and the bout is sure to abound in action. The club has been renovated and will now seat more than 4,000 spectators.

The St. Nicholas A. C. on Tuesday night will offer its patrons as a star attraction Jack Goodman of the west side and Young Ahearn of Brooklyn in a ten-round bout. Goodman has had a long rest since his last bout at the Fairmont, and he will have a fast, clever opponent in Ahearn, who, while he does not possess a heavy punch, is a boxer of much merit.

Heavyweights will be seen in action at the National Sporting Club on Thursday night, the boxers being Gunboat Smith of California and Jim Stewart of Brooklyn, who not long ago defeated Carl Morris and sent him back West. Smith was brought East by Jim Buckley, and in four bouts in this vicinity has showed some promise. He weighs 202 pounds, and as Stewart is the most formidable opponent he has had the bout should show him at his best. Smith fought a twenty-round draw with Jim Barry on the coast.

The Fordon A. C. on the east side will have no bout this evening, as the contest between Phil Cross and Terry Brooks has been called off. Cross has a badly battered nose from his last bout.

Benny Franklin and Young Otto will be the attraction in a ten-round bout at Brown's Gymnasium on Tuesday night. Both boxers have been seen often at local clubs, and a good bout is looked for. At the Sharkey A. C. on Wednesday night the main bout will bring together Billy Galley and Richy Ryan. Several of the local clubs have boxing shows scheduled for their usual Saturday night attractions.

Bash Wins Billiard Game.

C. Bash won his match with D. L. Schiff in the Harlem Class A amateur three-cushion championship tournament at the Morningside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, last night, by the narrow margin of 1 point, the final score being 25 to 24. Bash has not yet been defeated, and leads the tournament. He plays L. Meyer to-night. The tournament will be finished this week.

KOPSKY CAPTURES 150-MILE ROAD RACE

The New York State Olympic elimination bicycle race of 150 miles was held yesterday on Long Island over a course of fifty miles, in which twenty-five cyclists started, with a field of ten finishing the entire route. Two other riders covered a distance of 100 miles. Jesse G. Kopsky, representing the Century Road Club of America, was the first to finish the course, his time for the journey being 8 hours, 26 minutes, 27 3-5 seconds.

The race was started at 8:30 A. M., with Kopsky the first rider to be sent away. The remainder of the pack were dispatched at intervals of one and a half minutes until the entire squad was on the road. The course was laid out over a stretch of good roads leading from Floral Park over the Jerico Turnpike to Hicksville to Bellmore, by way of the Newbridge Road, to Amityville by way of Merrick Road, and return, a distance of twenty-five miles, making a circuit of fifty miles. The riders were compelled to cover the course three times, but the trying conditions with a stiff wind blowing at all times in addition to the drizzling rains at intervals, proved a hazardous task, and many were compelled to abandon the ride before the 100-mile mark was reached.

Eliminations are being held at various points about the United States to secure a team of twelve contestants to carry the American shield in the 200-mile race at the Olympic games at Stockholm, June 29 to July 22. After the entire district tryouts have been completed the final test will be held at the Newark Veledrome May 25 over a distance of 100 miles, 90 of which will be contested on the road, and the final 10 on the board track.

The entire field was a representative one, and comprised the best long-distance road riders of the East. J. Pike, who finished in second place, won fame as a road rider by winning the New York to Philadelphia road race in 1910, in which he established a record.

Aside from the customary accidents to the bicycles, only one accident was recorded to cause any alarm. J. Crowley of the Yonkers Y. M. C. A., during the riding of his second lap on the return trip from Amityville, was struck by an automobile near Hicksville and received trifling injuries, being shaken up and his bicycle demolished. He was taken to his home by the occupants of the automobile. The summaries:

J. G. Kopsky, C. R. C. A.—50 miles, 2:28:00; 100 miles, 5:21:05 1-5; 150 miles, 8:26:27 3-5.

J. Pike, C. R. C. A.—50 miles, 2:44:15; 100 miles, 5:28:11; 150 miles, 8:40:32 1-5.

OARSMEN'S HOUSE WARMING.

Metropolitan B. C. Entertains Representatives of Harlem River Clubs.

The Metropolitan Rowing Club held the centre of the stage along the Harlem River front yesterday, when weather conditions made anything like serious training on the water out of the question. Oarsmen accepted the general open invitation to inspect the new clubhouse and partake of the "Mets'" hospitality.

Oarsmen from every club in New York, from the veteran George N. Young of the Atalantas, who has been rowing since 1857, to the youngest novice on the river, figured in the general reception, as did also Norman Hannings, Secretary of the Philadelphia Fairmount B. C., who, with C. Schoeni, will compete as a junior double in this year's Harlem regatta.

The guests, many of whom arrived in barges, gigs, and motor boats, were taken in hand by a hard-working Reception Committee, and after being shown through the new building were entertained at a clam chowder luncheon, the day's programme winding up with a dance. The affair was in the hands of John O'Reagan, J. Waters, W. N. Henke, M. J. Murphy, and Charles D. Bergen.

The Hudson Boat Club will open its active season Sunday with a club regatta, at which the candidates for this year's crews will be definitely decided upon according to the showing made. The club races will, like yesterday's Metropolitan affair, be made the occasion of a general open house, to which all the Harlem organizations have been invited.

A general meeting of the Harlem Rowing Association will be held to-night, at which the club delegates will be expected to show what support will be given the big Memorial Day regatta, the forty-sixth event held by this association. Several changes are likely to be made to-night in the original list of events, which includes the following: Junior single sculls, intermediate single sculls, association single sculls, senior single sculls, senior single quarter-mile dash, junior double sculls, intermediate double sculls, senior double sculls, junior quadruple sculls, intermediate quadruple sculls, junior four-oared gig, intermediate four-oared gig, senior four-oared shell, junior eight-oared shell, and senior eight-oared shell.

David Brown, Secretary-Treasurer of the Middle States Regatta Association, made the most of yesterday's celebration in bringing attention to the annual meeting of the Middle States Regatta Association, to be held at the New York Athletic Club on May 11 at 8 P. M. At this meeting will take place the annual election of officers, as also the selection of the Regatta Committee, a programme of events, and a plan for this season's event.

The Bowling League will wind up with the general distribution of prizes on Thursday of this week and a banquet to the winning team.

This year the championship was won by the Lone Stars, with 12 victories and 1 defeat; the Atalantas got second prize, with 11 wins and 2 defeats; the Nonpareils securing third place, with 10 and 3. The other clubs finished as follows: Friendship, 9 and 4; Wyanokes, 9 and 4; Harlem Yacht Club, 8 and 5; Bloomingdale Boat Club, 7 and 6; Union, 6 and 7; Palisade, 6 and 7; Hudson Boat Club, 6 and 7; City Island Yacht Club, 4 and 9; Bohemian, 4 and 9; Morrisania, 1 and 12, and Harlem Yacht Club, 0 and 13.

The high team score prize was captured by the Lone Stars with 997. A. Greenberg of the same organization won high single game prize with 248. The high average was made by C. Hopper of the Unions, with A. Greenberg, Lone Stars, second, and F. Pabian of the Bohemians third.

OLYMPIC GAMES BEGIN.

Covered Court Tennis Matches Open Series of Contests.

STOCKHOLM, May 5.—In the presence of nearly every member of the royal family the Olympic games began to-day. The first of the series of covered court lawn tennis matches was played.

P. O. Clerks' Games.

KRAMER STILL CHAMPION.

Leon Comes, the tricky bicycle racer from Paris, more than met a match for his trickiness in Frank Kramer, the American champion, at the Velodrome track in Newark yesterday, when the American outgeneraled the French speeder in two straight heats of a match race, best two in three. "Tricky" Comes found that he could get the better of the Yankee rider in jockeying for the start, forcing his opponent to take the pace, but the foreign rider didn't have the snap and dash to carry him to the tape in the final jump. Kramer showed that he still possesses the greatest sprint among bicycle riders.

In the first heat, both riders remained perfectly still, balanced on their wheels trying to force each other to set the pace. Comes tumbled over and the heat started again, each setting a very slow pace. On the last lap, after both had loafed most of the distance, Kramer jumped in front and won. In the second heat the time-killing loafing tactics were repeated. The Frenchman then jumped ahead like a rocket on the third lap, and for a time it looked as if he had completely fooled the champion. But Kramer jumped after him and just nosed ahead at the finish, winning by less than half a dozen inches.

Ernie Pye, the Australian motor pace follower, easily defeated George Wiley in a ten-mile race. At the third mile Wiley lost his pace and fell more than a lap behind. He picked up new pace and had regained most of the lost distance after some terrific speeding, and when on the way to catch Pye a puncture put him out of the race for awhile, and by the time he got a new wheel, he was many laps behind.

The semi-final heats of the race for the $1,000 grand prize of Newark were run off, and the three riders who won and will come together in the final dash for the purse next Sunday are Frank Kramer, Leon Comes, and Joe Fogler. Frank Cavanaugh of Newark defeated Fogler in the semi-final yesterday, but was disqualified for rough riding. Cavanaugh jockeyed from one side of the track to the other in front of Fogler, inviting the Brooklyn rider to bump him and perhaps get a bad spill any moment. A big field contested in the events for amateurs. The summaries:

Three-Mile Open, Amateur.—Won by Gus Wahlrab, Jersey City; Earl Adams, Montclair, second; Franklin Fisher, Irish-American A. C., third; A. McDougall, Newark, fourth. Time—6:56.

One-Mile Invitation, Professional.—Won by Fred Hill, Boston; John Bedell, Lynbrook, second; Peter Drobach, Boston, third; Ernest Tokus, Newark, fourth; Werner Beck, Newark, fifth; Jumbo Wells, New Zealand, sixth. Time—2:34 4-5.

Half-Mile Handicap, Amateur.—Won by Thomas Smith, Newark, (55 yards;) Tim Sullivan, New Haven, (40 yards,) second; Chester A. Smith, Baldwin, L. I., (15 yards,) third. Time—1:00.

Grand Prize of Newark, Professional.—Repechage Heat.—Won by Floyd Krebs, Newark. Time—1:06. First semi-final heat—Won by Leon Comes, France. Time—1:12 4-5. Second semi-final heat—Won by Joe Fogler, Brooklyn. Time—1:05. Third semi-final heat—Won by Frank Kramer, East Orange. Time—1:22.

Two-Mile Handicap, Professional.—Won by Jacob Magin, Newark, (90 yards;) Percy Lawrence, San Francisco, (125 yards,) second; Menus Bedell, Lynbrook, (75 yards,) third; Floyd Klebs, Newark, (90 yards,) fourth; Tommy Smith, Newark, (185 yards,) fifth. Time—4:07 3-5.

Special Match Race, First Heat, Professional.—Won by Frank Kramer, East Orange; Leon Comes, France, second. Time—3:17. Second heat—Won by Frank Kramer, East Orange; Leon Comes, France, second. Time—3:25.

Ten-Mile, Motor Paced, Professional.—Won by Ernie A. Pye, Australia; George Wiley, Syracuse, second. Time—13:36 2-5.

CYCLE RIDERS ARRESTED.

Seventy-nine riders participated in the first annual endurance run of the Invincible Motor Cycle Club of Brooklyn yesterday, which was the first event in the motor cycle road competition field in the vicinity of New York this season. The run was in two divisions, one starting from the Bedford Rest at 6 A. M. and going to Southampton, and the other starting two hours later and making a round trip to Patchogue. A route along the south shore of Long Island was followed. All but about fourteen of the riders completed the 100 and 200 mile routes, and will get gold medals.

A number of the riders were arrested for exceeding the speed limit while passing through Freeport, no less than five being fined $5 apiece by a Judge at that place. The riders were traveling at a fast gait because of the threatening weather.

There were several accidents, but none resulted seriously. H. E. Stout was rendered unconscious when his machine struck a log in the road near Oakdale. A physician passing in an automobile attended him, and he was able to complete the 200 miles. Several women started out with the riders in the morning, but one, Miss Frances L. Loeb, who rode her own machine, failed to get as far as the first checking station at Patchogue.

Mrs. J. U. Constant had a thrilling experience when the side car she was riding in ran into a tree near Rockville Centre. She was not injured. Mrs. W. M. Annes finished the 200 miles on the tandem seat of her husband's machine. A side car, with a dog as one of the passengers, also made the trip to Southampton and return.

Only Two Cyclists Finish.

BOSTON, May 5.—Only two bicyclists finished out of the field of ten starters in the 150-mile preliminary try-out to-day for the Swedish Olympic bicycle race. The trial was over a triangular course between Boston, Providence, and Worcester, which was covered in 9 hours flat. Alvin Loftes and Henry E. Johnson, both of Providence, were the successful competitors. Loftes is a member of the New York Athletic Association. The two winners will go to New York for the elimination trials soon to be held.

Newark Defeats Clan McDonalds.

More than 5,000 soccer football enthusiasts found their way into Blatt's Oval, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon to witness the game between the Clan McDonalds of Brooklyn and the Newark F. C. of Newark, N. J. After one of the best fought games ever witnessed in the metropolitan district the Jersey contingent captured the contest by the close score of 1 goal to 0.

At Macomb's Dam Park yesterday the St. George F. C., runners up in the second division of the New York and District League, took the Bronx United of the National League into camp by 1 goal to 0.

The nineteenth consecutive victory of the New York Celtics was registered yesterday afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park, when they lowered the colors of the German F. C. by the close score of 1 goal to 0. This game was a scheduled fixture of the New York and District League championship series of the second division. The lone count of the contest was tallied about twenty minutes before time in the second period by Edwards.

The banner soccer game of the year will be played at Marquette Oval, Brooklyn, next Saturday between the Brooklyn Celtics and the Newark F. C. for the championship of the United States. The kick-off will be at 4 o'clock.

Belmont Park Dog Show Entries.

Members of the Nassau County Kennel Club are satisfied at the way the entries are coming in for the first annual exhibition of the organization at Belmont Park on Saturday, May 18. Alfred B. Maclay, President of the organization, has received a cablegram from Harvey Ladew entering the whole Elsinore Kennels. Mr. Ladew is a fancier of sporting dogs, French bulls, pointers, setters, beagles, and pomeranians. Another entry that is creating considerable interest has just been made by Louis Martin. It is of a French sheepdog named Berger De Brie. The animal is one of the few of his breed in the country. Through the courtesy of the Field and Turf Club, the Nassau County Kennel Club exhibitors will have all privileges of the home of the former organization at Belmont Park on the day of the show. The clubhouse will be thrown open and there luncheon will be served. The dogs will be benched in the field stands, and the rings will be on the track proper.

Mahopac Boat Club's Schedule.

The Mahopac Boat Club of Yonkers has arranged a long schedule of events for the coming season. The first event is a regatta for the Secretary's Cup, on July 13. All the general races will be started in classes. All the power boats of the club which have new engines or changes in machinery tending to greater speed will have to make three trials on the club's course on the Hudson at Yonkers before being allowed to compete for the club cups. Other events scheduled for the season are: July 20, ladies' race; July 27, club cup; Aug. 3, sealed order race; Aug. 10, Commodore's cup; Sept. 2, relay race; Sept. 7, race for speed boats.

WORLD'S RECORDS ON AUTO TRACK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 5.—Five new world's speedway records were established at the Motordrome's one-mile track to-day by drivers who participated in yesterday's Santa Monica road race.

Caleb Bragg, in the ninety horse power Fiat which he drove into second place yesterday, broke the world's five-mile record for all classes, held by Ralph De Palma, lowering the latter's mark by about four seconds. His time was 3:11 4-5.

Louis Disbrow, in the Simplex Zip, broke Oldfield's record for the same distance for 600-cubic-inch cars, and Joe Nikrent, in a Case, broke Ray Harroun's record for cars of the 300-cubic-inch class. Disbrow's time was 3:25 1-10, almost 23 seconds faster than the former record, and Nikrent's time, 3:44 3-10, was more than 11 seconds faster than the previous record.

Disbrow, in a Case, established a new ten-mile record for cars of the 300 cubic inch class, his time being 7:46 3-5.

The fifth record broken was in the 300 cubic inch class, held by Harroun, for twenty-five miles. Nikrent covered that distance in 18:58 4-5, almost a minute faster than the old record.

This record was made in an exciting race between Nikrent and Ralph De Palma, who was driving the Mercer with which he won the medium car race at Santa Monica yesterday, and in which Nikrent was second. De Palma won from Nikrent in two five-mile events. The fastest mile of the day was driven by Disbrow in the H. I. C., in 38 seconds flat.

VANDERBILT RACE ENTRIES.

Fifteen American Cars Named for Classic Auto Event.

Fifteen American entries are already on file for the Vanderbilt Cup Race, which will be held over the Milwaukee course next September. Although this is the earliest list of entries ever filed for this event, it is regretted by the management that the list does not include foreign cars. It is understood, however, that several American representatives of foreign makes of cars are in correspondence with the manufacturers relative to making entries. The general outlook for the event is very encouraging to the promoters.

An offer of $50,000 for the building of a course for the race on condition that the race passes its plant was made by an automobile concern, will be accepted, as the offer would locate the race twenty miles from Milwaukee.

The committee in charge of the race has already received contributions of several thousand dollars toward the $70,000 fund which will be necessary to put the course in condition. At a conference by the State Highway Commissioners and Milwaukee automobilists the State experts advised the committee that plans for rebuilding the roads cannot begin too early.

ROUND ROBIN TENNIS.

Watson and Niles Win Tuxedo Club Doubles Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., May 5.—The round robin lawn tennis tourney in doubles was finished on the courts of the Tuxedo Tennis and Racquet Club here to-day, and resulted in a victory for C. F. Watson, Jr., and Nathaniel Niles, who defeated the Larned brothers in the morning and the Wrenn brothers in the afternoon, after some very keen tennis. The weather was cold, and a drizzling rain was falling during part of the morning matches and a downpour in the afternoon.

Clothier and Gardiner surprised the large and fashionable audience, which was sheltered under the large piazza of the club, by defeating the crack Larned brothers team, winning by two sets to one. The Tuxedo courts are in superb condition, and the drizzling rain seemed to help the players, the dampness making the balls take the cut.

Wrenn brothers easily defeated Clothier and Gardner in the opening match of the morning, although three sets had to be played. R. D. Wrenn's left-handed service was very puzzling, and he played close to the net. The summaries:

R. D. Wrenn and G. L. Wrenn, defeated W. J. Clothier and G. P. Gardiner, Jr., 6—4, 3—6, 8—6.

C. F. Watson, Jr., and Nathaniel Niles, defeated W. A. Larned and E. P. Larned, 6—3, 6—4, 6—1.

W. J. Clothier and G. P. Gardiner, Jr., defeated W. A. Larned and E. P. Larned, 6—1, 2—6, 8—6.

C. F. Watson, Jr., and Nathaniel Niles, defeated R. D. Wrenn and G. L. Wrenn, 0—6, 7—5, 6—4.

ROOSEVELT MAY BE WITNESS

The Government Will First Try to Show That the Trust Itself Is a Merger of Illegal Combinations.

Hearings in the Government's suit for the dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation will begin this morning in the Custom House before Henry T. Brown, the examiner appointed by the Circuit Court. The Government will be represented by Jacob M. Dickinson, former Secretary of War, and Henry E. Colton. The corporation will be represented by Richard V. Lindabury, Raynal C. Bolling and a host of other lawyers for the various individual and corporate defendants.

The hearings to be held here at this time will probably last two months. More witnesses will be called than in either the Standard Oil or Tobacco Trust cases, and the record will be of unprecedented size by the time the suit is decided by the Circuit Court. After that, no doubt, it will go to the Supreme Court.

The Government contends that all the principal companies that were merged to form the United States Steel Corporation were in and of themselves combinations in restraint of trade, and its first task will be to trace the history of these earlier combinations in support of this contention.

Among those who already have been subpoenaed as witnesses are Daniel G. Reid, W. H. Moore and James Gayley. Messrs. Reid and Moore, who are now Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, were among those who were active in forming the American Tin Plate Company, which was a merger of a large number of independent concerns. The Government declares that they obtained a practical monopoly of the tin plate business of the country, and then, finding that the sheet steel makers could easily go into the tin plate business, they formed the American Sheet Steel Company, another alleged trust. The National Steel Company and the American Steel Hoop Company followed, the four forming the so-called Moore group.

James Gayley is a former Vice President of the Steel Corporation. He was one of Andrew Carnegie's young men, and he will be questioned about the creation and expansion of the immense Carnegie Steel Company, which was engaged principally in the manufacture of crude steel, such as billets, with great advantages in respect to cheap ore. The Carnegie Company also had a number of coal, coke, and railroad subsidiaries.

The third, or Morgan, group which went into the Steel Corporation comprised the American Steel and Wire Company, the Federal Steel Company, and the American Bridge Company.

The Individual Defendants.

It will not be until a good deal later that the actual formation of the Steel Corporation will be taken up and the questions of ore monopoly, railroad rate discrimination, and the famous absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company gone into. Since these matters were thrashed out by the Stanley Committee and before the present suit was begun the Steel Corporation arranged to divest itself of the Hill ore leases in the Northwest by giving notice that it would terminate the contracts at the earliest possible date—on Jan. 1, 1915. It also has reduced the rates charged by its railroads in the Northwest for the transportation of ores to Lake Superior.

The individual defendants in the Government's suit, which was filed in Trenton on Oct. 26, 1911, are J. Pierpont Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, Charles M. Schwab, George W. Perkins, E. H. Gary, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Henry C. Frick, Charles Steele, James Gayley, William H. Moore, J. H. Moore, Edmund C. Converse, Percival Roberts, Jr., Daniel G. Reid, Norman B. Ream, P. A. B. Widener, and William P. Palmer.

The corporate defendants are the United States Steel Corporation, Carnegie Steel Company, Carnegie Company of New Jersey, Federal Steel Company, National Steel Company, American Steel and Wire Company of New Jersey, National Tube Company, Shelby Tube Company, American Tin Plate Company, American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, American Sheet Steel Company, American Steel Hoop Company, American Bridge Company, Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines, H. C. Frick Coke Company, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, and the Great Western Mining Company.

Parties to the suit also are the Union Steel Company, Clairton Steel Company, West Mesaba Land Company, (Limited,) Wright Land Company, (Limited,) Davis Land Company, (Limited,) Wells Land Company, (Limited,) Stone Land Company, (Limited,) Wabigon Iron Company, Minosin Iron Company, Nibiwa Iron Company, Wenona Iron Company, Minawa Iron Company, Leonard Iron Mining Company, Arthur Iron Mining Company, Fillmore Iron Mining Company, Harrison Iron Mining Company, Jackson Iron Mining Company, Polk Iron Mining Company, Tyler Iron Mining Company, and the Van Buren Iron Mining Company.

What the Government Asks.

The Government asks that the various combinations be decreed to be unlawful, and all acts done in creating them in violation of the Sherman act; that all the defendants and the officers, Directors, stockholders, and agents of the defendant corporations be perpetually enjoined from doing any act for the purpose of carrying them out; that "the United States Steel Corporation, in and of itself, as well as each and all of the elements composing it, whether corporate or individual, whether considered collectively or separately, be decreed to be illegal and an attempt to monopolize and a monopolization" under the Sherman act, and that it be dissolved; that each of the companies merged be decreed illegal, and that each be dissolved; that the defendant corporations be enjoined from holding stock one in another; that the individual defendants be enjoined from continuing to violate the Sherman act; that such disposition be made of the various properties as will effectuate the purposes of the anti-trust act, and that the lease between the Great Northern interests and the Great Western Mining Company be declared illegal.

The filing of the suit against the Steel Corporation and the rumors of such prospective action that preceded it caused something of a sensation in financial quarters because of the fact that it always had been classed not only as a "good trust," but as the best of all. The classification of "good" and "bad" trusts originated during the Administration of President Roosevelt, and one of the features of the Government's petition that attracted much attention was the statement that President Roosevelt had been deceived by Judge Gary and H. C. Frick when hey induced him practically to consent to the absorption of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company.

This followed not long after Col. Roosevelt himself had appeared before the Stanley Committee and stated with the greatest emphasis that this was not the case, and that he had acted with full knowledge of the circumstances during the panic days of 1907; that what he did was "exactly right," and that if he had it to do over he would do exactly as he had done. The view of the Taft Administration was expressed in the petition as follows:

Holds Roosevelt Was Misled.

"The President was not made fully acquainted with the state of affairs in New York relevant to the transactions as they existed. If he had been fully advised, he would have known that a desire to stop the panic was not the sole moving cause, but that there also was the desire and purpose to acquire control of a company that recently had assumed a position of potential competition of great significance. The President, taken, as he was, partially into confidence and moved by his appreciation of the gravity of the situation and the necessity for applying what was represented to him to be the only known remedy, stated that he did not feel it to be his duty to [illegible] transaction."

Whether Col. Roosevelt will be called as a witness when this subject of the absorption of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company is reached is a matter for the future to determine.

Another point that will be gone into is the Gary dinners, at which the heads of the trust's subsidiaries and of independent steel companies were wont to meet at the same board and discuss business conditions and matters of trade interest. It always has been contended on their part that the question of prices was not discussed at these dinners, and while they were not public, a stenographic report of the speeches was made public a few days later, when they had been written up, in support of this statement. The Government in its petition takes this different view:

"It is not here alleged that merely assembling and mutually exchanging information and declarations of purpose amounts to an agreement or a combination in restraint of trade. These meetings and their results have gone further. What they actually accomplished shows the great and dangerous power achieved by the corporation through unlawful combination exercised over the trade and commerce of the country. The concerted action taken has prevented fluctuations in prices and competition."

The petition says that fully 90 per cent. of the iron and steel trade of the United States has been represented at these meetings.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., May 5.—Orders for steel cars and the unusual prosperity at the local steel mills have caused a shortage of laborers, so that 7,000 unskilled workmen could be used here immediately. The Harriman lines have placed an order for 8,450 cars, and are negotiating for 3,000 more. The St. Louis & San Francisco has ordered 7,000 freight cars. The New York Central has asked bids for 3,000, and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad 1,000.

Railroad companies and steel mill operators have sent agents into the streets canvassing for workmen. Wages for common labor have advanced 50 cents per day. The dearth of workmen has not been relieved in the coke region nor in the bituminous coal mines since operations began earlier in the week. As coal miners have to be somewhat skilled, the shortage is greater in the coal districts than elsewhere.

The railroads are in search of men, especially for extensions in West Virginia, where thousands of track workers are required.

THE ENDLESS APPEAL OF

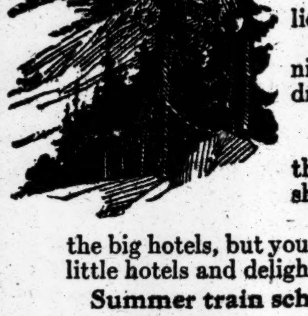
of New Hampshire

Ask a dozen persons what attraction brings them back to the White Mountains summer after summer, and you might get a dozen different replies:



The sheer beauty of the mountains, woods and vistas.

The social gayety.

The charming people you are thrown with—the valuable friendships made.

You will find all these things at the big hotels, but you will also find them at the many little hotels and delightful boarding houses.

Common Sense Investment

If you have funds to invest, it would be well to bear in mind that experienced and reliable investment banking firms always determine, so far as it is possible for experts to do, the true value of plant and property behind security issues, and also weigh carefully other factors having an important bearing upon the safety and profitableness of the investment.

Considering the money, time and labor spent by those investment organizations in getting at the real facts, which in the vast majority of cases result in the propositions being turned down, how can you hope to surround your money with greater safeguards than by investing it in securities which have withstood the test of such rigid investigations?

Remember that by placing your funds in diversified investments of this character, you not only can obtain a return averaging the liberal yield of about 5 per cent., but you can also feel confident that you are adhering strictly to the rules of common sense investment.

A STEADY CLIENT

On June 8, 1895, we sold a private investor in New York City $10,000 PITTSBURGH, SHENANGO & LAKE ERIE FIRST 5s at 86⅛; they are now 113 bid, an advance of 26⅞ points. The road was then independent, but is now controlled by the United States Steel Corporation.

TRANSACTION NO. 2.

Since 1895 we have sold this investor many bonds. Lately he purchased at 94½ the first mortgage 5% bonds of a railroad operating in substantially the same territory. We offer at the same price the small unsold balance of the bonds and will gladly send descriptive circular with map.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

Had it not been for the persistence which certain market operators showed in their efforts to advance prices of certain issues even after the general level of the market had ceased responding to such activity as these operations brought about, the effect upon prices of the two disappointments to which the market was subjected last week might have been lighter than it was. It was only partly, however, because these came closely on the heels of somewhat violent efforts to raise prices against the general current of events that last week's reaction occurred. The market so far as the movement of prices is concerned had been taking count almost exclusively of the favorable features in the situation, and was disposed to be somewhat impatient of any suggestion of caution based either on the extent to which quotations had risen or on the possibility of the financial community being disappointed in respect to some of the events upon which it was counting as justification for the continued rise. This very fact helped to increase the effect upon market sentiment of the Steel Corporation statement for the first quarter of the year, which was considerably worse than had generally been expected, and of the eleventh-hour failure of the coal miners' committee to ratify the agreement with the operators which had previously been approved by subcommittes of the miners' and of their employers. These are the two matters which stand out most clearly among the influences which turned the tide of the market last week. Of lesser importance was the outcome of the Massachusetts Presidential primary, and this was true, even at the outset, when the substantial character of Mr. Taft's success in that State was obscured by the faulty working of the primary election, which seemed on the surface of the early returns to indicate much more support for Mr. Roosevelt in that State than he actually had. To this news the market was apparently more or less indifferent, indicating that other factors than politics are those to which the financial community is giving most attention. This is partly due to the very strong belief that Mr. Roosevelt and the radical theories for which he stands have really little chance of success in the effort to obtain majority support at the Republican National Convention. It will be in keeping with experience that political considerations should at some time between now and election become the dominant influence in the temporary movement of prices, but at the moment it seems clear that rather the labor situation and the general industrial situation, as that found reflection last week in the statement of railroad earnings and of the profits of the Steel Corporation, which were making the most impression upon Stock Exchange sentiment. Consideration of the crop outlook is not to be excluded from the list of present day factors, but here the disposition was still very general to credit the high prices for wheat to the so far successful efforts of grain operators to control the May wheat option than to a reasoned survey of the general crop outlook. So far as that outlook can be described at this time it is favorable, despite the expected reduction in wheat acreage and the tardiness of the season. This is saying little more, of course, than that at this date it is unreasonable to borrow trouble of the future in respect to the crops, which are only now going or which are still to go into the ground. At the same time the forthcoming Government report, which will give the Winter killed acreage of Winter wheat, may well at one and the same time serve the purpose of the operators in the grain markets and give some ground for disappointment over the results of the first stage of the growth of this year's grain crops. Unless, indeed, that report should contain an aggreable surprise in respect to the extent to which the Winter wheat acreage has been damaged.

The report of the Steel Corporation for the first three months of the year showed profits of less than $18,000,000, which were only sufficient to provide for charges and to cover the preferred stock dividend, making it necessary to draw upon previous surplus for practically the entire amount of the quarterly dividend on the common stock. The showing was distinctly disappointing, but there are many grounds for expecting that the current quarter will make a great deal better showing. Therefore last Tuesday's statement was looked upon as a record of past conditions, and probably the worst conditions which the steel trade will have to encounter for a long period rather than as an indication of current conditions in that trade. It was inevitable that the payment of practically the full common dividend out of surplus should have been the subject of criticism, some of which took the form of arguments that the Directors should have kept the corporation's common stock dividend at a lower figure than the 5 per cent. which it has paid the last few years. Would not the same argument, however, attach to a 4 per cent., or a 3 per cent., dividend rate in a quarter when practically nothing was earned on the common? Despite theories which have been advanced in respect to changed conditions, the steel trade is still holding true to its characterization of "prince or pauper," and it is reasonable that the excess earnings of the past should be availed of to cover a temporary deficiency in dividend requirements. The practical application of such a policy has its difficulties, of course, and requires, among other things, soundness of judgment as to probable future earnings. It was assumed last week that the Directors would not have adhered to the 5 per cent. rate had it not been for a well-founded belief on their part that conditions in the steel trade have already begun to improve to a sufficient extent to hold out the hope of larger profits in the immediate future than those realized during the year's first quarter.

While awaiting the decision of the Miners' Convention, which has been called to act on the terms of settlement agreed to by the miners' sub-committee but opposed by other leaders of the union, there is ground for the hope that the proposed settlement will be put into effect despite the opposition which was effective last week in holding up its immediate ratification. Some see in that opposition labor union politics rather than a clear indication that the miners themselves will stand out for still more concessions from the operators, even at the risk of a prolonged strike. Much importance attaches to the arbitration of the demands of the railroad engineers, which has been agreed to between the men and the railways as a result of the good offices of the mediators under the Erdman Arbitration act. Scarcely had this arbitration been agreed to before the firemen on the Eastern railroads also put in demands for increased wages, which, it is estimated, would involve the expenditure by the railroads of approximately $25,000,000 more than they are now paying in wages. These demands have been expected, and it is fortunate rather than otherwise that they were presented at the very outset of the arbitration of the previous demands of the engineers. The best that could happen in this direction would be to have all the labor demands which are likely to be made upon the railroads in the near future presented before a single board of arbitration, which would then be fully informed as to the extent of the tax which an increase in wages would put upon the railroads. Such a board would have to take into consideration the effect which the increase for the past two years in the expenses of the railroads have had upon the ability of the railways to maintain their credit and show reasonable profits. One of the adverse influences of the past week was the poor showing in the matter of net earnings made in the railroad statements for the month of March. In March, 1910, before many of the wage increases granted in that year had become effective the net earnings per mile of all the railways in the United States amounted to $327. In March last year their net earnings were $234 per mile, and in March this year, if the rate of decrease shown by seventy-four roads which have so far reported for the month holds good for the railway system of the country at large, the net earnings per mile will amount to $273. This decrease in net is due to increasing expenses and not to declining gross earnings, as is shown by the fact that gross receipts for March of the roads for which figures are so far available increased 4.01 per cent. Expenses, however, increased by no less than 7.15 per cent., bringing instead of a gain in net a loss of 3.94 per cent. This tendency in railroad earnings seems, to say the least, to throw the burden of proof upon the engineers as to the reasonableness of their demands for higher pay. What effect the arbitration of their demands will have upon any effort on the part of the railroads to increase their freight rates will depend largely upon the scope which the arbitrators give to their investigation. It is to be hoped that the investigation will be sufficiently broad to take into account all of the factors which enter into the problem which the managements of the railroads face in attempting to pay wages satisfactory to their employes and at the same time fulfill the duties which they owe to the public and to their stockholders.

THE MARKETS OF EUROPE

LONDON MONEY MARKET EASIER

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 5.—The outlook in the money market has greatly improved. Money is gradually becoming available for the redemption of the market's indebtedness to the Bank of England, and during the week a considerable sum was paid off. The influx of gold from abroad coupled with the return of cash from the country may, in the course of the next few weeks, enable the market to liquidate the large part of its remaining indebtedness, but it still seems doubtful whether the market will be entirely free from the Bank until the release of interest on funds in July.

Assuming that politics does not become adverse, it is probable that before long the Bank will be in a position to reduce its rate.

The reopening of the Dardanelles makes an early reduction more probable, as while it remained closed there were many political perils involved, and the possibilities of a disturbance in the money markets were too great.

PARIS TAKES CHEERFUL VIEW.

Bank Rate Reductions Are Expected in London and Berlin.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, May 5.—The reopening of the Dardanelles earlier than was anticipated and the strong probability that the Bank of England rate will be reduced next week and will probably be followed by a reduction by the Imperial Bank of Germany were factors which created a very favorable impression here and caused the Paris Bourse to close strong in all markets.

Business and cash were livelier last week than they had been for some time, and hopes are entertained that a much greater activity will reign on the Bourse in the near future.

Rios passed 2,000, but closed just under.

BERLIN STOCKS ARE STRONGER.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, May 5.—Political fears regarding the Dardanelles caused a weakness in prices in the funds section at the beginning of the week, but the decision of the Porte to reopen the Dardanelles and the consequent improvement in the situation gave considerable strength to the Boerse.

It was regarded as probable that the Bank of England rate would be reduced last Thursday, and German and Prussian consols became easier on the news that the present rate would be retained.

Two features of the week have been the large purchases of shipping shares, especially of Hansa Steamship and North German Lloyd, owing to favorable advices regarding the freight market, and the big demand for foundry shares as a result of the renewal of the German steel works' union, in connection with which there has been much uncertainty as to the outcome of the negotiations.

CRUDE STEEL OUTPUT AT NEW HIGH RECORD

STEEL CAR ORDERS HEAVIER

Shipments of Sheets and Tin Plate for April by American Company Largest in Its History.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 5.—A shortage developed in crude steel last week, and a curtailment in supplies of steel plates is threatened. The tonnage outgo in crude steel has been mounting week by week, and set a new high mark last week for shipments into consumption.

Finishing mills depending on the open market for their supply of billets and crude bars have not been able to accumulate any surplus stocks, and stops of one and two days to wait on steel supplies have been frequent. The result has been premium quotations on billets, open hearth being quoted at 50 cents and Bessemer at $1 above the official price of $20 at mill. On occasions open hearth sheet bars for forward delivery have brought as high as $23, mill, which is $2 above the regular open market price of the last ten weeks.

The plate mills are practically sold up well into the third quarter of the year. The specifications by the car plants for the remainder of May and the month of June show heavier commitments for steel cars than had been guessed by the platemakers. All the car orders placed recently by the railroads have not been advertised, the trunk lines having been averse this Spring to publicity on the amount of new supplies and equipment put under contract. The result has been stiffer prices for steel plates, with the newly established level of $1.25, Pittsburgh mill, rigidly adhered to during the week, in the face of the fact that the $1.25 price is not in all cases the minimum on structural material. Several sellers of shapes in central and western territory have quoted a shade under the new price for June deliveries since the official advance was announced.

Two months ago it was thought that the critical point in the year's business in steel would be the opening of the second half, and that if the industry passed July 1 with a good forward tonnage on the books, the year was certain to be a successful one from a tonnage standpoint. That hope is realized already. There have been heavy engagements into July and August ever since the opning of the present quarter. The purchases of rails by those of the trunk lines that bought sparingly at the opening of the year assure rolling schedules well into midsummer, and the trend of the bar market has been toward purchases through most of the third quarter. Since the opening of books for the third quarter on sheets, two weeks ago, there has been liberal contracting for deliveries as far ahead as September.

Shipments of sheets and tin plate by the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company for April were the largest in the history of that company, passing the shipments of the previous month, which held the record up to that time. New business booked during March had been the largest in the country's history, but April exceeded the March total. Prices of sheets have hardened till the official quotations, on the 2-cent base, represent the minimum of the market for the first time since the official price was put up. An advance in the price of tin plate is likely to occur within a fortnight, occasioned by the steadily mounting price of pig tin. The pig tin market is about 5 cents a pound higher than when the present tin plate price was established, thus increasing the cost of manufacture about 10 cents a box in tin plate, so that an advance in tin plate to recognize the general strength of the situation would be 20 or 25 cents a box above the present base prices of $3.30 and $3.40.

Pig iron has shown heavy shipments, but comparatively little new buying. Though pig iron prices in Pittsburgh and Valley districts have not shown the tendency to rise that has been exhibited in the East and the South, makers are steadily refusing to contract into third quarter at present figures. One sale of basic iron for May-June shipment was closed last week, 3,000 tons, at $13 Valley furnace, which is really a slight recession from mid-April levels. Bessemer iron remains pegged at $14.25, Valley furnace, with a lively spot demand. The Steel Corporation's purchase of 15,000 to 20,000 tons is still in abeyance. Low grade irons showed a genuine advance, two sales of forge, aggregating 3,000 tons, being closed at $13, Valley furnace, as against the previous quotations of $12.75.

The Connellsville coke region is having its labor troubles. The shortage of coke workers has prevented the starting of extra ovens, which had been scheduled to go in last week. The output was barely sufficient for the demands of the furnaces of this region, and there are fears of a shortage of furnace coke before the close of the present month. The price stays stiffly at $2.50, Connellsville, on furnace coke, and $2.75, Connellsville, on foundry coke. One purchase of 10,000 tons of furnace coke for May-June delivery was closed during the week at $2.50, Connellsville.

CIVIC CENTRE PLAN MAY BE RESTRICTED

Delegation to Go to Washington to Urge Abadonment of Present Post Office and Removal of Courts.

Unless further action is taken in the next week or two by those who are interested in the establishment of a civic centre around the new County Court House and the removal of the present Post Office building from City Hall Park, the civic centre project is likely to be restricted, because it may happen that a new and larger Post Office may be erected on the same site as the present one. The matter rests largely in the hands of the Sub-Committee on Appropriations of the United States Senate, which has now before it the O'Gorman bill, allowing $5,000,000 for new sites for the Post Office and Federal Court House, and Borough President McAneny is now organizing a delegation of citizens to appear before the sub-committee to explain what is involved in the fate of the O'Gorman bill.

When the Board of Estimate decided last January to erect a new Court House to the north of the Hall of Records and the new Municipal Building, it adopted a scheme for a civic centre which had been drawn up by Mr. McAneny's committee in consultation with a number of civic organizations, but it did not take steps to acquire the entire area covered by the plans. For one thing, the cost of the Court House site and building in these days of subway construction was so great that the board had no desire to embark on a larger expenditure than was necessary, and in the second place, as the city is not empowered by law to acquire any land except for immediate municipal purposes, and as it does not purpose erecting at the present time in the civic centre any other building than a County Court House, it was doubtful whether legally it could acquire the plots which are now causing so much anxiety.

The Area Chosen.

The area which was selected for a civic centre consisted of a rough rectangle, stretching from just north of the Hall of Records to just south of the Tombs prison, and from Lafayette and Elm Streets on the west to a line drawn north from City Hall Place to Mulberry Bend on the east. If this was all improved it would provide a large square connecting on the south with City Hall Park and touching on the northeast of Mulberry Bend Park. If the Post Office building is removed it would leave open spaces, green with trees and lawns, from the junction of Broadway and Park Row to Leonard and Bayard Streets, and it would afford an admirable setting for the County Court House in its centre and such public buildings as the Municipal Building, the Hall of Records, the Federal Court House, and a new Criminal Court House around its borders.

But the Board of Estimate limited its action to an area below Worth Street contained by the converging lines of Lafayette and Park Streets. Consequently the Court House site, though ample for the courts themselves, is not at present protected against the erection of commercial buildings to the southeast and southwest. The southeast and southwest corners of the rectangle have in fact been left out of the scheme.

In taking this action it appeared that as far as the southeastern area was concerned it was hoped that the Federal Government would come to the rescue. Ever since the agitation for the removal from City Hall Park of the old Tweed County Court House has been going on it has been felt that the natural corollary would be to get rid of the Federal Building as well, and it was suggested that it would be an excellent and economical move to induce the Federal authorities to take a hand and agree to the erection of a new Federal Court House within the area of the new civic centre, on a site behind the Municipal Building and facing on the new County Court House Square. Thus would the southeastern triangle of the civic centre rectangle be converted to an artistic use, and if the Federal authorities were only generous, possibly without any cost to the city whatever.

As soon as the removal of the Federal Court Building was mooted it became evident that it would meet with the hearty approval of any who have to pass their days there. The building has had little written about its inconveniences in comparison with the denunciations that have been hurled at the old Tweed Courts, but those who use it know that it is almost as indefensible. In the first place, as a Post Office it is entirely inadequate for handling the vast mail of the business centre of the city. The Post Office clerks are compelled to work at the sorting of letters in crowded and unsanitary basements and Fire Commissioner Johnson has recently declared that in case of a fire its means of exit are absolutely inefficient.

Then the carting of the mail to and from the railroad stations to the Mail Street Side of the Post Office causes daily congestion of traffic, and with all the improvements that can be effected in the building its space for Post Office purposes is so limited that expensive quarters have had to be hired in the Terminal Building to relieve the pressure.

With regard to the inadequacy and inconvenience of the Federal Courts, Judge George C. Holt of the Federal District Courts has twice gone on public record. In an article in the North American Review for January, 1912, and in a speech before the New York County Lawyers' Association on Feb. 17 he has expressed his opinion of the conditions under which his colleagues have to work.

Judge Holt's Criticism.

"When the present Federal Building was built," said he at the Lawyers' Association dinner, "one Circuit Judge and one District Judge constituted the entire judicial force in the Federal Courts in this city. Now there are four Circuit Judges and four District Judges and they alone are quite unable to dispose of the business. Some of the District Judges from the other districts in the circuit sit here constantly. We can offer for their accommodation a single badly lighted room, originally intended as a mere passage room, in which are placed a number of desks for their common use. They can see no one in private and whatever work they do at this apology for chambers is done in confusion."

Then Judge Holt went on to enumerate various other defects of the building, such as the crowded condition of the District Attorney's and Clerk's office, the lack of space for records, jury rooms, a proper naturalization bureau and witness rooms and press room.

No specific localities for Post Office and Federal Court sites were mentioned in the bill, introduced by Senator O'Gorman, but it was generally understood that as soon as the money was obtained it would be easy to arrange to have the Federal Court House placed in the portion of the civic centre site that the city does not at present see its way to purchase, and that a new site for the Post Office, perhaps, somewhere to the west of Broadway, about Warren Street or Park Place could be acquired at a reasonable figure.

The Senator's bill was introduced toward the end of January and now within a few weeks of the close of the session it is still before the sub-committee of the Senate which consists of Senators George Peabody Wetmore of Rhode Island, Jonathan Bourne, Jr. of Oregon and Thomas S. Martin of Virginia. Senator O'Gorman said yesterday that he was confident that it would be reported out in time to be passed by the Senate, and that if the Senate were favorable no difficulty need be expected in the House, but advices from Washington show a marked lack of interest in or knowledge of the subject, and it is felt that if the scheme is to be carried through, a vigorous effort must be made by those who favor it in this city.

Postmaster Morgan's Plan.

One rather unexpected obstacle to the plans has arisen through the action of Postmaster Morgan. Appearing recently before the sub-committee he expressed his approval of the plan to remove the Federal court from the same building as the Post Office, but he also came out strongly in favor of keeping the Post Office where it is to-day and housing it in a modern building on the same site. Though a large part of the business of the Post Office will be moved uptown to the new Post Office at the Pennsylvania Station, there will still remain the necessity of keeping an office for handling expeditiously the great business mail of the downtown section, and he considered that no site could be obtained which would be of so much value and convenience as the present one.

Against this suggestion the Merchants' Association has already issued a circular in which it declares that it believes that it is the sentiment not only of Manhattan but of the rest of the city that the present Post Office site should be surrendered and made a part of City Hall Park, thus restoring that park to its old historic appearance.

Edward Hagaman Hall, Secretary of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, has also expressed the doubt whether the deed to the site which the Federal Government holds would allow the use of the site for merely one Federal purpose.

"With the erection of such buildings as the Woolworth Tower and the Municipal Building it is most important that the park should be restored to its full size," said he. "We want to have a proper setting for our gem of a city Hall and to have as most European cities have a centre that will look as well as be the seat of municipal activities."

To impress on the Senate Sub-Committee that it should act quickly, a deputation will shortly go to Washington. The Board of Estimate will be represented by a committee nominated by the Mayor. The New York Chapter of the Institute of Architects will also send representatives, and it is hoped that a number of the important organizations of business men will join in the protest of the Merchants' Association to show that this is not the plan of merely city officials and advocates of the City Beautiful, but that it has behind it the opinion of the great mass of New York's business men.

Estimate Board Might Step In.

It has been assumed that the Federal authorities will be disposed to surrender the present Post Office site without recompense out of good will to the commercial metropolis of the country. It is argued that this enormously valuable site was granted to the Government in the shady days of New York's municipal affairs for a paltry $500,000, and that the Washington officials ought to be willing to consider that a thirty years' tenancy has pretty well exhausted the privileges that sum should purchase.

It is, however, felt by many that this is not a business-like attitude for the Government to assume, and that it is almost certain to ask that New York in getting back its land in City Hall Park, ought to be willing to provide a substitute site, at least for the Federal Courts. They advocate that the Board of Estimate face this difficulty frankly; that the board send a delegation to Washington prepared to say to the Senate sub-committee that if the Post Office site is returned to the city, it will be willing to provide an admirable alternative at its own expense. This would, it is believed, place Congress in a frame of mind much more likely to grant the money Senator O'Gorman has asked for, and it would, moreover, straighten out the local situation at once.

The Board of Estimate would then be able to condemn the Federal Court site immediately and remove forever the danger of its being built up. The courts would be placed in their proper position in the civic centre; City Hall Park would be cleared of obstruction. A new building for the activities of the Post Office would be provided off the main thoroughfares, and a central office for the sale of stamps and money orders and so on could be provided easily in a convenient business building.

THE TEXAS AND PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY.

Notice of Redemption of Scrip Certificates representing Fractional Interests in the Income and Land Grant Bonds of said Railway Company Secured by Mortgage dated May 15, 1875, to William T. Walters and George D. Krumbhaar, as Trustees.

Notice is hereby given that all of the bonds issued under the above-mentioned mortgage having been retired and cancelled and the amount of the sinking fund provided by said mortgage being sufficient for the payment and redemption of all of the outstanding scrip certificates representing fractional interests in said bonds, and the undersigned as successor trustees under the said mortgage having found that the said outstanding scrip certificates cannot be purchased by them at or less than par, the undersigned have called the said scrip certificates for redemption at par and accrued interest, at the office of The Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, No. 22 William Street, Manhattan, New York City, on the first day of July, 1912, upon which date interest upon the said scrip certificates will cease; and that holders of said scrip certificates should surrender the same for payment and redemption at the said office of The Farmers' Loan & Trust Company on and after said first day of July, 1912.

Upon the presentation and surrender of said bond scrip certificates on and after said first day of July, 1912, at the said office of The Farmers' Loan & Trust Company for payment and redemption, as aforesaid, the holders of said scrip certificates will be entitled to receive the principal amount thereof, together with interest thereon at the rate of seven per cent. per annum to July 1, 1912.

GEORGE J. GOULD,
Successor Trustees under Income and Land Grant Mortgage of The Texas and Pacific Railway Company, dated May 15, 1875.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE First Mortgage Six Per Cent. Bonds of the MISSOURI RIVER POWER COMPANY.

The Equitable Trust Co. of N. Y., successor to Colonial Trust Company, as Trustee under the first mortgage of the Missouri River Power Company, hereby gives notice that it has at its disposal in the Sinking Fund of said company the sum of twenty-five thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and 65-100 dollars ($25,938.65) and offers to purchase first mortgage bonds of said company to an amount sufficient to exhaust the said sum at the lowest price at which such bonds shall be offered, not to exceed 105% and accrued interest. Sealed offers, indorsed "Offers of Missouri River Power Company Bonds," will be received at its office, No. 37 Wall Street, New York, until 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday, May 15th, 1912.

The right to reject any and all offers is reserved.

CAPITAL-SURPLUS - - - - - $9,000,000

The Union Trust Company of New York (established in 1864) has for many years made a specialty of Personal Trusts—under Will or under Agreement—and maintains a carefully organized department for handling them.

Many millions of dollars' worth of property—real and personal—have been entrusted to the company by conservative people, residents not only of New York State but of other states in which the Union Trust Company is authorized to transact business.

Correspondence or interviews with persons considering the formation of trusts of any kind—for themselves or for others—are solicited.

UNION TRUST COMPANY, 80 Broadway.
CAPITAL and SURPLUS - - - - - - $8,900,000

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE FIRST MORTGAGE 5% 20-YEAR SINKING FUND GOLD BONDS OF THE SPRINGFIELD COAL MINING COMPANY, DATED JANUARY 15, 1908.

The undersigned Trustee, under the mortgage above referred to, desires under authority of said mortgage to expend the sum of Fifteen Thousand One Hundred Seventy-four and 90-100 dollars ($15,174.90) in the purchase of bonds of this issue, provided said purchase can in its opinion be now made advantageously.

Sealed offers of said bonds may be sent to the Knickerbocker Trust Company, 60 Broadway, New York City, on or before Tuesday, May 21st, 1912.

COURT TO CLEAR UP TRACTION MUDDLE

Relations of Metropolitan, Third Av., and City Railways to Creditors to be Settled.

DECISIONS THIS WEEK

A series of cases will come before the Circuit Court of Appeals this week in which a long step forward is likely to be made in clearing up what is left of the tangled traction litigation. On Jan. 1 this year the two important street car systems of the city, the Third Avenue Railroad and the Metropolitan Line, passed into the hands of new companies, the Third Avenue Railway Company and the New York Railways Company. The Federal court now has a considerable sum to distribute as a result of the receiverships.

In the Bankers Trust Company and the Central Trust Company $7,000,000 has been on deposit for several years at 3 per cent. interest. Adrian Joline and Douglas Robinson, receivers for the Metropolitan, still have in their hands in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. Outstanding against these sums are $2,500,000 of receivers' certificates for franchise taxes and $3,200,000 receivers' certificates for improvements and betterments, demands of the supply creditors of the New York City Railway Company amounting to $1,300,000, demands of those tort claimants who did not accept the offer of the Bondholders' Committee, amounting to $400,000, and sums due the city for license fees and paving expenses which come to $500,000. If the amount now in the hands of the trust companies and the receivers will not meet these demands, the New York Railways Company has agreed to put up $11,900,000, if necessary, to meet them.

Though the matters to be settled forthwith by the court do not include the question whether the Metropolitan Street Railway Company can make good its demand against the New York City Railway Company, the old operating concern which must not be confused with the New York Railways Company, the new company, a claim for $3,500,000 for the failure of the latter to pay franchise taxes and another large amount on account of the condition into which it allowed the physical condition of the property to fall, the cases to be heard on appeal are of great importance. These cases will decide what share of the franchises and other such property of the great street railway system will fall to the New York City Railway Company, which was the operating company, and what to the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, which was the holding concern. Consequently the amount to be recovered by the supply creditors of the New York City Railway Company will be determined largely by these appeals. The tort creditors who might have found themselves in the same boat as the supply creditors have been taken care of under the settlement by the Metropolitan Bondholders' Committee.

The first of the cases to come up concerns a demand for $65,000, made by the National Conduit Company against the New York City Railway Company. On the decision in this case will depend the establishment of the principle that such assets of the company as there are belong to the creditors as of Sept. 24, 1907, when the company went into the receivers' hands. If that is the ruling of the court a number of creditors whose claims date from after that day will find themselves unable to touch the assets of which the court took possession.

The next case involves the claim of the Metropolitan Express Company. This had a contract with the old Metropolitan, which was later assumed by the New York City Railway Company, for the operation of express cars. The receivers considered the contract unprofitable and refused to carry it out. Now the express company has brought suit against the New York City Railroad's assets. Here much the same principle is involved, and it is hoped that the Court of Appeals will rule that its receivers could only administer the assets of the company in such a way as would benefit the creditors.

Another action was started by the Tort Creditors' Committee, with reference to the termination of the lease held by the New York City Railway Company of the property of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company. Starting with the assumption that the receivers were obliged to carry on the business in such a way as would be profitable to the ultimate owners of the property, it has brought out the point that the lease must be considered to have been terminated on Sept. 24, 1907, the day of the appointment of receivers, for it is admitted that the terms of this deal were such that it forced the New York City Railway Company into bankruptcy.

William L. Turner, the Special Master, agreed with the contention of the tort creditors, and his ruling was changed by Judge Lacombe, who held that the Federal court had no authority in the matter till Oct. 1, the day on which the Metropolitan Street Railway voluntarily entered the proceeding. The date of the termination of the lease must be settled as either Sept. 24 or Oct. 1. In the week between these two days as much as $600,000 of expenses were incurred through the payment of overdue rentals to the subsidiary companies, and this sum must now be carried by the New York City Railway or by the Metropolitan, according to the decision of the court.

The lease itself is being attacked by both the tort creditors and the supply creditors of the New York City Railway Company. They have asked the court to declare it invalid on the ground that it is an unconscionable bargain. It was entered into by the New York City Railway Company on Feb. 14, 1892, and the creditors have declared it should not be enforced over their objections because the Metropolitan absolutely dominated the New York City Railway Company and had its own dividends paid, though the franchise taxes and the claims of the tort and supply creditors were not met.

Then the Hemphill Committee of Second Avenue Railway Company bondholders has a big claim which the Court of Appeals must pass upon. In leasing the road the Metropolitan gave a guarantee on the $5,631,000 5 per cent. mortgage bonds of the Second Avenue line, due on Feb. 1, 1948, on both the principal and interest, as well as a guarantee of the interest on the stock. After the Metropolitan went into the receivers' hands the Second Avenue also became bankrupt through the failure to make good the guarantee.

Special Master Turner, however, has refused to consider the claim the bondholders' committee has on the Metropolitan anything but a contingent one. He would not declare it a debt of the Metropolitan as of Oct. 1, 1907, on the ground that it was quite impossible at that time to tell whether or not the Second Avenue would be able to pay the interest on its bonds, and therefore whether there was any liability so far as the Metropolitan was concerned. As for the payments made to the Second Avenue after the Metropolitan receivership started, he held these were nothing more than payments of rent. This case is important, as it may determine the status of other claims against the Metropolitan founded on the terms of the leases of the subsidiary companies.

The New York Railways Company, which has succeeded to the Metropolitan, will also be before the court with an application. When it bought the property of the Metropolitan, it assumed all the obligations of the receivers. Among these were the tort claims which had occurred during the receivership. Nominally, the receivers had set aside a reserve fund of $1,000,000 to meet just such claims, but this was merely a bookkeeping balance. The New York Railways Company has, however, asked the court to authorize the payment of the tort claims from this reserve as part of the operating expenses of the receivers.

The court, so far, has refused to do this on the ground that the New York Railways Company has expressly assumed this among the other obligations of the receivers, and that it would be dangerous to deplete the reserve in the hands of the receivers. Moreover, it is said, it would be ridiculous to do so on the request of the New York Railways Company, for if this reserve became exhausted it would be that company which must make it good. By the terms of the purchase of the Metropolitan, the New York Railways only actually paid over $100,000, but it agreed to produce another $11,900,000 if necessary to meet any unliquidated claims against the property it purchased.

Still another matter that comes up for adjudication is the claim of the holders of 15,000 shares of the Metropolitan stock that the New York City Railway Company owes them $140 a share because of its failure to make good its guarantee of 7 per cent. interest. This has so far been declared invalid because the failure to make good the guarantee occurred after Sept. 24, 1907, and consequently these shareholders were not creditors on the day the receivers took possession of the company.

Finally, District Attorney Wise has a claim for franchise taxes both against the receivers of the Metropolitan and the Third Avenue Railroad Companies, and the importance of the principle in this case is so great in its effect on the relation of bankrupt corporations all over the country to the Federal authorities that it is not unlikely to be carried to the Supreme Court. It is not expected that in the other cases there will be any disposition to take them further than the Circuit Court of Appeals.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The opening session of the annual meeting of the American Association of Refrigeration will be held to-day at the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C. The second and final session will be called to-morrow at the Bureau of Standards, where luncheon will be served and addresses made by Dr. S. W. Stratton, Director of the Bureau of Standards; Dr. H. W. Wiley, John Barrett, Director of the Pan-American Union, and other prominent men. It is understood that plans for the coming International Congress of Refrigeration will be discussed and committees appointed. New officers and committeemen of the association will be elected.

Announcement is made that the first annual convention of the International Stamp Manufacturers' Association will be held in this city June 18 to 21. Plans covering the place of meeting, hotel headquarters, and programme of the convention will be announced shortly. It is understood that ample funds for the occasion are being obtained by the Finance Committee.

PRICE ON APPLICATION

Having sold over 75 per cent of this issue at private sale we now offer the balance subject to prior sale. We recommend the bonds for the following reasons, which we summarize from letters of Mr. C. A. Smith, President of the Company, and the independent reports of W. E. Straight, respecting the timber, and Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., respecting the accounts.

Absolute First Mortgage on over 9,020,000,000 feet of virgin sugar pine, redwood and fir timber located in California and Oregon and appraised at $21,346,427, and on the most modern and one of the largest lumber manufacturing plants on the Pacific Coast, costing over $900,000; a total value of properties $22,146,427, or considerably over three and one-half times the amount of the entire authorized bond issue of $6,000,000.

Strength of Guarantee. As evidencing the value of guarantee of Mr. C. A. Smith, Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., Chartered Accountants, have audited the books of Mr. C. A. Smith's several timber and lumber companies, and from their report, dated April 16, 1912, we summarize as follows:

Mr. C. A. Smith personally owns 99% of the capital stock of the C. A. Smith Timber Company and over 95% of the capital stock of his other lumber and timber companies, the combined timber holdings of which are 16,428,636,000 feet, amounting on the basis of a very conservative valuation of $1.40 per thousand feet to...	$22,971,283
TOTAL ASSETS	$29,212,999

Proceeds of the $4,500,000 Bonds Offered Herewith pay all of the bonded and other indebtedness of the C. A. Smith companies (except current monthly accounts of about $350,000 and the outstanding bond issue of the Linn & Lane Timber Co. of $1,433,000, due serially from June 1, 1912, to June 1, 1927) and leave the companies with unpledged Net Quick Assets of over Three Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($3,500,000)—amounting to more than 58% of the total outstanding bond indebtedness.

Equity Always Increasing. Throwing entirely out of consideration all properties of the Company, except timber, the entire bonded debt is only 66 cents per thousand feet of standing timber, against which the minimum sinking fund applies at the rate of $1.50 per thousand feet, so that bonds are retired nearly three times as fast as timber is cut.

Fire Hazard. The average age of timber covered by this mortgage is 200 to 300 years. During over two centuries it has not suffered fire, injury or loss, giving some idea as to the freedom from fire hazard in this character of timber.

Many Years of Successful Operation. Mr. C. A. Smith began lumber operations in Minnesota in 1879, starting with a nominal capitalization. Today the C. A. Smith companies show total Net Assets of over $23,000,000.

The deed of trust, titles and all legal matters relating to this issue have been approved by Messrs. Adams, Candee, Steere & Hawley, of Chicago.

WHEAT RULES HIGH ON CROP ALARMS

COARSE GRAINS FIRM, TOO

WHEAT.

The fluctuations in the wheat market the past week have been nervous over a fairly wide range of prices, with quotations showing a decline of 2 to 4c a bushel from the high, recovering at the close of the week. Naturally, as the time has approached for the issuing of the Government report there has been considerable disposition to even up contracts, as it has been feared that the report would be unfavorable enough to confirm the claims of material abandonment and material loss in condition. Several State reports have been issued and several private reports. The Missouri State report, issued after the close Saturday, made a condition of 63.4, with 26 per cent. of the area abandoned. The previous month the Government reported the condition at 76 and last year 92, with only 2½ per cent. abandoned area.

The State reports have been unfavorable from the Ohio Valley, while the Kansas report was very favorable. Nevertheless, crop experts varied in their interpretation of the Kansas crop figures from 69,000,000 bushels to 104,000,000 bushels. One expert, who issued a very bullish general report of the situation, claimed that the Kansas figures were confirmatory of the most serious private reports, yet such does not seem to be the fact on the face of the returns. On Saturday prices advanced excitedly on serious damage reports from Kansas from dry weather, although the weather map showed good rains in the State.

The estimates of abandoned acreage range all the way from 4,660,000 acres loss in eleven leading States east of the Rockies up to 6,600,000 acres loss for the entire country. The losses in the Ohio Valley were placed at 17 to 38 per cent. in acreage, and it was a rather curious fact that notwithstanding the plowing up of so much bad acreage the reports further showed a loss in condition of 6 to 18 points on the wheat which remained standing in those States. One of the bad reports made the average for the five States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Missouri just a little under 58 average, against a condition reported on April 1 of 68 per cent., a loss of 10 points. Most of the loss in area is in these States. Deducting 4,000,000 acres, or nearly 40 per cent., from the 10,439,000 acres seeded in the States named, it would leave 6,439,000 acres for harvest. An average yield as indicated by condition of 58 would point to approximately an outturn of 11 bushels to the acre, giving a crop of about 70,000,000 bushels in these States, a decrease of 96,000,000 bushels compared with last year. The loss in area in Missouri, on the basis of the Government figures of area, would be 652,000 acres.

On the other hand, the promise in the hard Winter wheat States could scarcely be more favorable. The private reports from Texas have claims of from 12,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels more than last year. An average would be about 16,000,000 bushels more. The Oklahoma State report pointed to 12,000,000 bushels more; the Kansas State report, according to the different experts, averages a promise of about 38,000,000 bushels more than last year, while the Nebraska estimates point to approximately 12,000,000 bushels more than last year. This is an indicated net gain of about 78,000,000 bushels of hard Winter wheat, compared with an indicated net loss of 96,000,000 bushels in the soft Winter wheat States. The promise in the other Winter wheat States can be possibly taken as about a stand-off compared with last year. This would point to an apparent loss of about 20,000,000 bushels, compared with a year ago, although one of the crop experts has recently issued a report pointing to a loss of 62,000,000 bushels compared with last year.

The prospects for Spring wheat are so far not unfavorable. The weather for nearly four weeks has been excellent. Although the Fall plowing was delayed both in American and Canadian Northwest the conditions have been so favorable that recently estimates of the decrease in area in the American Northwest have ranged from nothing up to about 1,000,000 acres, while in Canada the conditions have been so favorable that increase in area is looked for. Of course the Spring wheat crop is not out of the woods, but with seeding practically finished in the American Northwest the conditions are now all that could be desired. On Saturday there were generous rains over the entire belt. The start in this respect could scarcely be better. With such a favorable start there is no reason for looking for less than an average crop of Spring wheat until some damage actually occurs. An average crop of Spring wheat would mean an increase over last year of 37,000,000 bushels in the Spring wheat crop, which would go a long way toward making up even the extreme estimates of deficiency in the Winter wheat crop.

The Government report will be out Tuesday at 2:15 P. M. It made the condition of wheat last month 80.6 per cent. A year ago the condition of wheat was 86.1 and a ten-year average was 86. The area seeded, areas abandoned, and crop harvested the past ten years (last three 000 omitted) follow:

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The corn market has held very steadily around the high price of the season on May corn to about a 2c decline, and later deliveries in about the same way. The market has been influenced by somewhat larger receipts of corn, the Western movement for the week showing a gain of 1,300,000 bushels compared with the previous week, while a much quieter demand for cash corn was reported. The increased offerings of cash corn were not sufficient to fill the May contracts and the tone was very nervous. From the extreme price the market suffered moderate reaction and there was considerable pressure on Friday, followed by some recovery on Saturday. The lateness of the season was complained of as a factor in corn planting, although according to the Government reports the average date for beginning of planting in Indiana is May 1, Illinois April 30, Iowa May 4, Missouri April 14, Nebraska May 3, Ohio May 1. The supplies of old corn are so scarce, however, that the situation is easily controlled, although the market will naturally be influenced by the developments in other feedstuffs.

OATS.—In oats the situation is somewhat mixed. Although cash oats are very firm and the bull control West continues, the forward deliveries are beginning to be influenced by the new crop situation. Already oats in the far Southwest are approaching maturity, while seeding is not completed in the Northwest. In important sections of the belt seeding is about the average. In the Ohio Valley it is admittedly late, but of the 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 acres of wheat land abandoned it is claimed that fully half will go into oats and the balance into corn. This large increase in area, even with only average results, will mean a full crop of oats. The feedstuff situation is already being influenced by the fact that live stock has been turned out to pasture everywhere and the demand for feedstuffs will naturally be much reduced. Mill feeds have declined $1 to $1.50 a ton recently and other cattle feeds have also weakened. The prospects for the pasturages are excellent, and owing to the heavy rains the prospects are good for the new hay crop. Nevertheless old spot hay is scarce and very strong at record prices for the season. The situation is so mixed that the price outlook is very uncertain. Recently the Eastern demand for American oats has been quite seriously affected by heavy offerings of Canadian oats, duty paid, at 1c to 3c a bushel under Western oats.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market presents an extremely interesting situation. The fluctuations in contracts have been very erratic. Record quotations for the season were made on Monday, followed by a violent break and a partial recovery. While future prices were advancing rapidly the curious situation was shown of a comparatively heavy movement of hogs and relatively weak hog prices. Compared with last week hog prices have shown a general decline. The packing for the week was only a little under the corresponding week last year, and the statement of stocks of product at Chicago showed only a small decrease in the stock of meats, while the stock of lard showed an increase. The total stock of all kinds of meats at Chicago was only 4,000,000 pounds less than last month, but 37,000,000 pounds more than last year. With such an immense stock some attention was directed to the fact that lard is 3c higher than last year for the May delivery, ribs nearly 2¼c higher, and pork over $3 higher. September pork is about $5 higher than last year, September lard is 3c a pound higher than last year, and September ribs about 2c a pound higher. Prices for live stock are also higher than last year. Recently hogs have been selling about 1¾c a pound over last year, cattle 2c a pound over, sheep 2¼c over, and lambs 3¼c over. The prices for live stock represents not only a moderate movement of stock other than hogs, but apprehension of a light movement, and this apprehension tends to offset the fact of the much larger stocks of product than a year ago.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Speculative operations are still an important factor in the cottonseed oil market, but on the whole there has been a diminution in the volume of outside interest. There has been a heavy amount of liquidation credited to Western sources which interests have been eminently successful, and it was offerings of this character which served to satisfy other inquiry. On the setback there was no material abatement in bullish sentiment, and many authorities assert that other outside interests with cotton houses prominent have bought freely. Due to the spread of bullish ideas there has developed a somewhat cautious attitude in some quarters, but it is evident that this is based largely upon technical conditions as the underlying situation, does not seem to have been undermined.

Crude is at the high levels of the season, and materially above a hedging basis. Some authorities are disposed to minimize the importance of conditions at the South, declaring that with the well sold up condition of the mills and the activity of cotton farmers at this time, other than light offerings are not to be anticipated. The fact remains, however, that crude has never been pressed for sale for any lengthy period, even during the height of the crushing season. Obviously, what has not already passed into consumption or been contracted for is mainly located in the hands of refiners and many concede that it is to their advantage to maintain values rather than depress them under the circumstances. Of course, if it should be found that consumption has been over-estimated or should lard decline violently and cotton prospects improve materially, there may be price concessions granted by those at present in control of stocks. In this respect it is to be noted that new crop oil options are selling at small carrying charges, particularly September and October, which options could quite satisfactorily be utilized by refiners to hedge if available supplies are somewhat larger than now anticipated in most quarters.

Exports to date as given by The National Provisioner are 810,000 barrels, against 398,000 last year so that unless a decided diminution in the shipments occur there will be 1,000,000 barrels shipped this season. Using this total and on the basis of last year's indicated consumption there would be little or no carry-over suggested for this season. Undoubtedly low prices during the early part of the year caused an expansion in the consumptive demand for cottonseed oil. It is a matter of conjecture as to what effect higher levels now prevailing will exert on the inquiry; meantime, strength of lard and lateness of the cotton season are conditions not militating against consuming inquiry even though those in need of supplies will pursue a more conservative policy in purchasing.

COTTON.

The conviction of the trade that with the advance in quotations of nominally 3c per pound from the lower levels original bulls had succeeded in distributing a great deal of cotton and thereby undermining the technical position of the market led to many sinking spells during the week. When the liquidation was at its height the gossip circulated that the leading trade interests, which were generally credited with accepting the long side of the market when prices were materially below prevailing levels, had sold considerable cotton and were advising their following to await a more favorable purchasing level. For a time bullish features, such as unsettled weather conditions, a strong statistical situation, and a spot market strength, were practically ignored or at least failed to awaken the outside enthusiasm which greeted such news a few weeks ago, and this probably best illustrated the over-bought condition of the market. A more normal speculative situation seemed to prevail at the close of the week, however, and this was manifested on Saturday, when, the realization that undesirable moisture was likely to occur over Sunday dawning upon the trade, there was a scramble to cover shorts. Accompanying the advance were statements that trade interests were again arrayed on the buying side, which were not surprising, in view of the fact that the reaction from the high point had averaged more than $3.75 per bale, while the trade was again confronted with the apparition that there is still a great deal of room for improvement in cotton crop prospects, even though it was admitted that in some sections there has been betterment.

Comparatively few complaints were received or recognized from the Southwest. Prospects in Oklahoma and Texas are regarded as extremely bright, and the possibility of those two States yielding more than 6,000,000 bales is regarded quite within reason at present. The weather during the last week has been variously construed. Local showers occurred in many sections of the Central West and the Eastern belt, and in consequence of this precipitation there has been a continuation of unsatisfactory advices emphasizing the backwardness of the season. Other adjacent regions where the moisture was insignificant sent more hopeful dispatches, with the conflicting crop accounts well understood under the circumstances. Due to the excessive precipitation in sections, however, the avowals of neglected or hasty soil preparation received more attention and were not surprising. Interests which are not yet disposed to view the outlook as discouraging reiterate that there is yet time for seasonable climatic conditions to be witnessed and to remedy the unfavorable features, but the majority in the trade believe that, aside from the Southwest, there has been a superabundance of moisture in most all sections, and unless a cessation occurs immediately, with the weather exceptionally favorable until well into June, ideas will have to be readjusted to a crop substantially under the last enormous yield. There have been several private reports issued during the week, but in nearly all allowance has been made for lateness of the season. An average reduction ranging from 7 to 9 per cent. is suggested by these reports, and it is at once discernible that were this the only feature which advocates of lower prices had to contend with, their position would not be seriously jeopardized. However, correspondents dwell upon the lessened use of fertilizer and the necessity of ploughing the soil under unpropitious conditions. There has undoubtedly been fair to good progress made over the belt during the last ten days in planting, so that many believe about 80 per cent. of the crop has already been planted, but there will be unquestionably apprehension as to the early stands. Students of the situation are not inclined to disregard the fact that a comparatively dry planting season is more conducive to a healthy and strong root than a planting season such as we are just emerging from.

The depreciation of values in the future market during the last week was not responded to by Southern spot quotations. This was variously construed. Some believed that if the decline was prolonged the stubborn attitude of holders would be enervated. Others express the opinion that crop conditions were not sufficiently or convincingly satisfactory to lead to the sacrificing of holdings as yet, while in other quarters the view was prevalent that the amount of unsold cotton is not burdensome, leading to confidence on the part of remaining longs. While weather developments will largely dominate the matter of price making, [illegible] was illustrated with the [illegible] bearish sentiment.

CITY OF NEW YORK.
BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT.

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held January 18, 1912, the following petition was received:

THE BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK:

Gentlemen: The undersigned, The Brooklyn and North River Railroad Company, a street surface corporation duly incorporated under the laws of the State of New York by certificate filed in the office of the Secretary of State on December 30th, 1911, hereby makes application for a franchise for and during a term of ten (10) years, and for and during any and all renewals and extensions of said term, to construct, maintain and operate a double track street surface railroad for transportation of persons and property by electric motor power conducted and supplied through the overhead trolley system, along the route between the termini, as follows, viz:

COMMENCING, at a point in the Borough of Manhattan, at or near the intersection of Canal Street and the Bowery, opposite the property acquired by the City of New York for a terminal to the Manhattan Bridge; thence southerly, in, upon and across Canal Street to the south side thereof; thence upon the land acquired by the City for bridge terminal purposes in the Borough of Manhattan; thence in and upon said bridge terminal to the approach of the Manhattan Bridge in the Borough of Manhattan; thence upon and along the said bridge approach in the Borough of Manhattan, the Manhattan Bridge, and the bridge approach in the Borough of Brooklyn, to land acquired for the Manhattan Bridge terminal in the Borough of Brooklyn; thence upon and along the said land to Nassau Street; thence in, upon and across Nassau Street to Flatbush Avenue extension; thence in and upon Flatbush Avenue extension to a terminal at or near the intersection of Flatbush Avenue extension with Fulton Street, in the Borough of Brooklyn.

There is a public demand for the operation of a through service from the said terminus at the intersection of Flatbush Avenue Extension with Fulton Street in the Borough of Brooklyn, along the route described to the terminus at or near the intersection of Canal Street and the Bowery, and thence in, upon and along streets in which surface railroad tracks are now constructed, to the North River at or near Desbrosses Street Ferry in the Borough of Manhattan. In view of this demand the undersigned proposes and consents that said franchise shall be made conditional upon its obtaining the trackage rights, as a necessary part thereof, by agreement in writing with the Third Avenue Railway Company, Dry Dock, East Broadway, and Battery Railroad Company, and the New York Railways Company, to operate its street surface railroad cars over the respective double and single surface railroad tracks of said companies, for and during the term of said franchise and for and during all renewals and extensions thereof, along the route described as follows, viz:

BEGINNING at a point in the marginal way adjacent to the North River at or near the Desbrosses Street Ferry in the Borough of Manhattan; thence by double track in, upon and across the marginal way and West Street to Desbrosses Street; thence by either single or double track in and upon Desbrosses Street to Greenwich Street; thence by either single or double track in and upon Greenwich Street to Vestry Street; thence by double track in and upon Vestry Street to Canal Street; thence by double track in and upon Canal Street to and connecting with said terminus at or near the intersection of Canal Street and the Bowery in the Borough of Manhattan. Also a branch beginning at and connecting with the track above described at or near the intersection of Desbrosses Street with West Street; thence by either single or double track in and upon West Street to Vestry Street; thence by either single or double track in and upon Vestry Street to Greenwich Street, and there connecting with the track above described; all in the Borough of Manhattan.

In addition to the through service over the said joint line from the terminus at the intersection of Flatbush Avenue Extension with Fulton Street in the Borough of Brooklyn to the point in the marginal way adjacent to the North River, at or near the Desbrosses Street Ferry in the Borough of Manhattan, the undersigned proposes to operate a local service on the Manhattan Bridge, between the Manhattan and Brooklyn termini thereof.

Each passenger over three years of age transported on the cars of the joint line between its terminus at the intersection of Flatbush Avenue Extension with Fulton Street in the Borough of Brooklyn and the North River, in the Borough of Manhattan, and intermediate points, will be charged a fare of five (5) cents.

The cars of said local service will carry a passenger between the Manhattan and Brooklyn termini of the Manhattan Bridge for three (3) cents, and two tickets will be sold for five (5) cents, each of which tickets will entitle any person to one passage across the bridge between its terminus in Manhattan at or near the intersection of Canal Street and the Bowery and its terminus in the Borough of Brooklyn at or near the intersection of Nassau Street and Flatbush Avenue extension.

Each passenger under three years of age will be carried free, if attended by a person over ten years of age.

The undersigned further proposes to provide by agreement in writing with The Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, The Nassau Electric Railroad Company, Coney Island and Brooklyn Railroad Company, Third Avenue Railway Company, Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery Railroad Company, and the New York Railways Company for the interchange of transfer privileges, so that for each cash fare of five cents each passenger on said joint line of the undersigned shall be entitled to one transfer to the intersecting lines of said companies, and for each cash fare of five cents each passenger on said intersecting lines shall be entitled to one transfer to the said joint line; provided, however, that no transfers shall be issued upon transfers by either the undersigned or by any of said other railroad companies, and that no transfer shall be issued to any passenger paying a fare of three cents or tendering a ticket as above provided for transportation in the local service between the Manhattan and Brooklyn termini of the Manhattan Bridge.

It is the intention of the undersigned, following the precedent set in the cases of the Brooklyn and Williamsburg Bridges, to interchange facilities for access to and egress from the Manhattan Bridge over its tracks.

This application is made upon the understanding that the City of New York will furnish tracks across the Manhattan Bridge, and terminal and other facilities on such bridge and its approaches, including all necessary overhead and underground electrical equipment.

Respectfully submitted,
THE BROOKLYN AND NORTH RIVER RAILROAD COMPANY,
By SLAUGHTER W. HUFF, Vice Pres.

City of New York, County of New York ss.:

SLAUGHTER W. HUFF, being duly sworn, says that he is the Vice President and Director of the above-named petitioner; that he has read the foregoing petition and knows the contents thereof; that the same is true to his own knowledge except as to the matters therein stated to be alleged on information and belief, and as to those matters he verily believes it to be true.

Deponent says that the reason why this verification is made by him and not by the petitioner is that the petitioner is a corporation, and deponent makes this verification as an officer and director thereof, under and pursuant to the authority of the Board of Directors of the said Company.

Sworn to before me this 8th day of January, 1912. SLAUGHTER W. HUFF.

and at the meeting of April 11, 1912, the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The foregoing petition from The Brooklyn and North River Railroad Company, verified January 8, 1912, was presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at a meeting held January 18, 1912:

RESOLVED, That in pursuance of law this board sets Thursday, the ninth day of May, 1912, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, and Room 16 in the City Hall, Borough of Manhattan, as the time and place when and where such petition shall be first considered, and a public hearing be had thereon, at which citizens shall be entitled to appear and be heard; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Secretary is directed to cause such petition and these resolutions to be published for at least fourteen (14) days in two daily newspapers in the City of New York, to be designated by the Mayor, and for at least ten (10) days in the "City Record" immediately prior to such date of public hearing. The expense of such publication to be borne by the petitioner.

(The Times and The New York Press designated.) JOSEPH HAAG, Secretary.

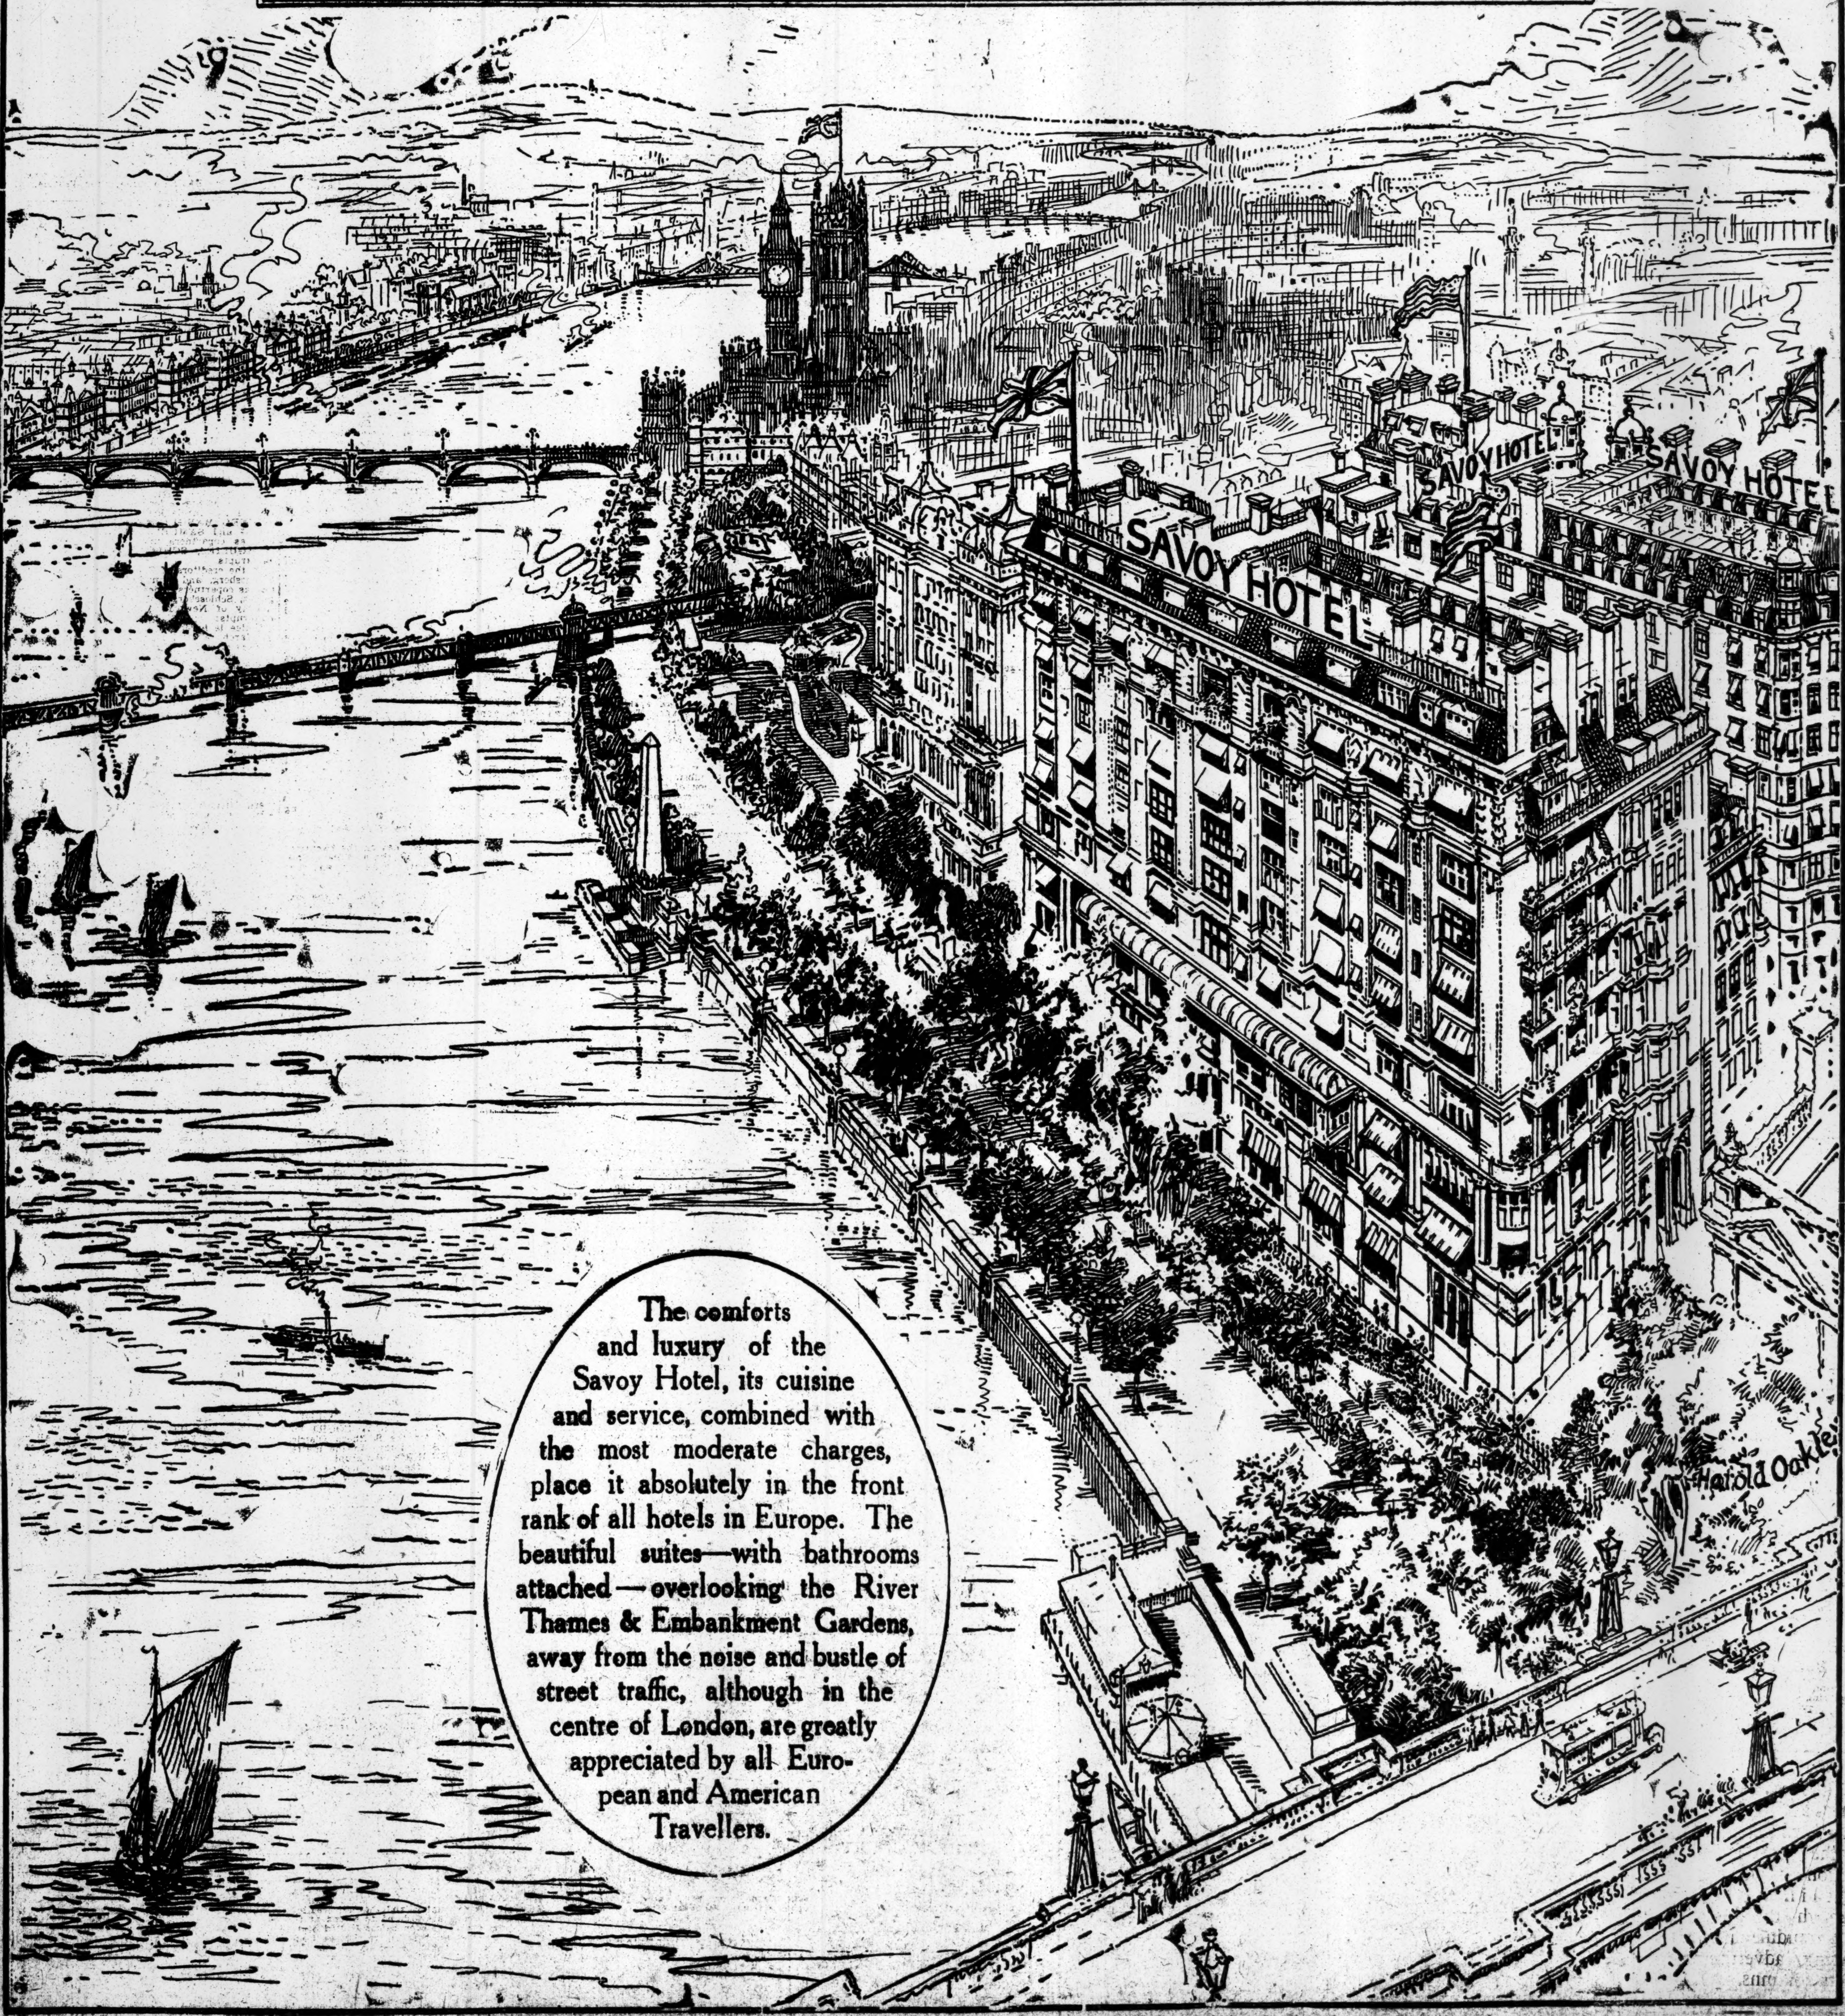
LONDON, ENGLAND.

Overlooking the River Thames and Embankment Gardens.

THE WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS HOTEL DE LUXE



The comforts and luxury of the Savoy Hotel, its cuisine and service, combined with the most moderate charges, place it absolutely in the front rank of all hotels in Europe. The beautiful suites—with bathrooms attached—overlooking the River Thames & Embankment Gardens, away from the noise and bustle of street traffic, although in the centre of London, are greatly appreciated by all European and American Travellers.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Western disturbance is over North Dakota, with diminishing intensity, and pressure changes were irregular to-night, resulting in generally unsettled and showery weather, except over the Southwest and the extreme West and Northern New England. There will be showers Monday from the Lake region and the upper Ohio Valley east, and also in the South generally, probably followed by fair weather Tuesday, except along the Atlantic Coast.

The winds along the New England Coast will be moderate, mostly southeast. Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate southeast and south. South Atlantic Coast, moderate east and southeast.

Steamers departing Monday for European ports will have moderate winds, mostly southeast, with showers to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST TO-DAY AND TUESDAY.

New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania—Showers Wednesday; Tuesday fair; warmer, moderate southeast and south winds.

Southern New England—Showers Monday, slightly warmer west portion. Tuesday local showers and warmer; moderate southeast and south winds.

Northern New England—Showers Monday and probably Tuesday; moderate winds, mostly south.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

RANK ENDS WITH COMMAND

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Naval Appropriation bill, which will probably be reported to the House the coming week, will provide for two Admirals and two Vice Admirals for the United States Navy. This will be done without increasing the number of flag officers now in the navy and without lumbering up the retired list, already very large, with additional officers of high rank.

The bill provides for an Admiral to command each one of the two fleets of the navy, the Atlantic battleship fleet and the Pacific armored cruiser fleet; also for a Vice Admiral for each of these fleets. Each Admiral will receive $12,000 annually, each Vice Admiral $10,000. The rank of Admiral is to be held by the Commander in Chief of the two fleets so long as the flag officer in command of the fleet holds that command. The moment the Commander in Chief of either fleet is detached from that command and assigned to any other duty or station, he will cease to enjoy that rank or to draw the pay of Admiral, which will automatically go to the flag officer who takes his place in command of the fleet. Should the Admiral in command of the fleet retire while in command, he will, under the proposed law, retire as a Rear Admiral.

The rank of Vice Admiral, it is proposed, would be handled in the same way. The officer in command of the second division of the fleet, who is second in command, will be entitled to the rank of Vice Admiral and pay at the rate of $10,000 annually so long as he is serving with the fleet as second in command. The moment he is detached from the fleet he would again become a Rear Admiral and draw the pay of one, which is $8,000 for Rear Admirals of the upper nine.

Under this arrangement the members of the House Naval Committee believe they will meet the necessities of the situation without creating permanently the rank of Admiral or Vice Admiral, and without increasing the burden of the retired list. More important, in their opinion, is their belief that the plan proposed by them of allowing the rank of Admiral and Vice Admiral to be held by the Commander in Chief and second in command of the respective fleets only while they are filling such duties with the fleets will provide for the promotion of Rear Admirals to command either fleet by selection.

As it is now, only the highest ranking Rear Admiral can be placed in command of the fleet if other Rear Admirals of relatively high rank are in command of any of the divisions or squadrons of the fleet. The officer in command must outrank the subordinate flag officers in the fleet. Under the Vice Admiral and Admiral provision it will be possible for the Secretary of the Navy to assign any Rear Admiral, even the one latest created, to command either fleet or to act as second in command, because the temporary right to the higher rank of Admiral or Vice Admiral would enable such younger Rear Admiral to outrank any Rear Admiral in the fleet.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 5.—The ordered elimination of the grade crossing on the Harlem Division of the New York Central lines at Babbitt's Crossing, in Westchester County, by the Public Service Commission, Second District, has caused some speculation by reason of the statement issued by the commission that it would be impracticable for the commission to do any more work for lack of funds. It is explained that this is one of the crossings provided for under the last appropriation.

The Supply bill items of $350,000 each were vetoed by the Governor in these words: "In view of the large balances available for these purposes, I do not consider it advisable to allow these items."

The result of this action of the Governor will preclude the Public Service Commission making any new orders this year or, in fact, until another appropriation is made for the elimination of any grade crossing, no matter how small the cost may be. At this time there are thirty-seven applications for elimination pending before the commission, on which preliminary hearings have been held in four cases in anticipation of further appropriation. Nothing can be done in any of these applications until money is voted for the State's part of the expense.

These held-up applications include nine from cities, seven from danger points on the lower Hudson, the Brookhaven crossing at Brookhaven, L. I., and four in Cheektowaga, crossing the tracks of the New York Central, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Erie, and the Lehigh Valley.

Republicans Split in Tennessee.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 5.—Taft managers claim Tennessee's twenty-four votes except the two in the Second District. The Roosevelt leaders claim sixteen, and if they are not allowed this number two delegations to Chicago are probable.

SILVER AFFECTS CHINA SILK.

Goods High Because of High Rate for the Metal in Canton.

Cable advices received in the New York raw silk market during the week say that the prevailing high rate of silver in China, which materially increases the lay-down cost of raw silk, is retarding transactions in the Canton market. Stocks of desirable sixth crop silks are nearly exhausted, and reelers are already quoting on new silk for June delivery. Excepting for a sharp decline in Tussah silks, occasioned by the falling off in the demand for them, the Shanghai market continues firm, with prices practically unchanged.

Reports from the Yokohama market say that prices, on the whole, remain unchanged, despite the decline in activities of buyers. Stocks available are small and contain considerable poorly reeled silk. Shipments to America from this market during the week aggregated 2,800 bales, against 800 bales forwarded to European manufacturing centres.

The Milan market is reported firm, with generally depleted stocks. Holders are refusing to grant concessions on forward contracts.

A fairly active demand for spot and nearby deliveries featured the New York market. Forward business was not much in evidence. Under the stimulus of advances in the Chinese market, local prices are said to have remained steady.

DECLINE IN ORANGE MARKET.

Good Demand for Apples — Sicily Lemons Advance.

A general decline in the orange market featured the trading in New York fruit centres last week. After a strong opening, prices on California fruit dropped sharply under the retarding effect of heavy receipts and unfavorable weather. The demand for fancy Florida fruit kept prices on the better grades at a satisfactory level, but quotations on the other sizes did not share this firmness. Receipts were heavy and the demand only ordinary.

The drop in California orange prices caused a similar decline in Porto Rican fruit. Porto Rico grape fruit moved freely, and under the stimulus of a strong demand some very satisfactory prices were realized. Fancy fruit brought up to $7.75 a box. Pineapple prices were irregular, the market opening low and advancing as the week progressed.

The apple market was very firm. Shipments received were light, and the demand for fancy fruit was heavy. Consequently prices were well maintained. Northern Spys were quoted at prices ranging from $2.50 to $5.50 a barrel. Prices on desirable Baldwins touched $4.50 and $5, and fancy Greenings brought up to $6 a barerl.

Sicily lemon prices showed a slight advance at the close of the week's trading. Offerings aggregated close to 60,000 boxes, and the fruit was generally irregular in quality and condition.

CANNED GOODS QUIET.

Transactions Light in Vegetable, Fruit and Fish Lines.

The New York canned goods market experienced another quiet week last week. The demand for spot corn was light, and packers have stopped urging sales of futures. The majority of packers have already booked all the advance orders they desire for the present. The call for spot peas was fairly good, particularly for the cheaper grades. Stocks are generally low, and the tone of the market is strong. Trading in future peas was light, due to the uncertainty of the coming crop outlook, and the fact that several packers have already booked a large advance business. The market for future tomatoes showed added strength, despite the fact that local wholesalers are not paying much attention to future needs in this line at present. In many instances jobbers are said to be holding off in the hope that prices will recede somewhat from current levels. Little activity in spot tomatoes was in evidence.

The week's transactions in the canned fruit market were light. Offerings were generally small, which aided the maintenance of current prices.

There was little activity in any of the canned fish lines during the week, and no important developments were reported.

CROCKERY MART INACTIVE.

Cut Glass Trading Badly Spotted—Blown Glass Stocks Depleted.

According to reports from the New York crockery and glassware market, little activity on the part of buyers was in evidence last week. Road orders, however, were received in fairly satisfactory volume. French wares were most in demand, the call for these goods at this time being greater than that of a year ago. The demand for German fancy wares is said to have been nominal. The call for dinner ware is improving, but as yet the demand has assumed no great proportions.

Buyers seem more anxious to obtain merchandise already under order than to contract for additional stocks. The trading in cut glass is badly spotted, reports on business in this branch of the trade varying widely. The demand for the cheaper grades of these goods is exceeding that of the better lines. Transactions in pressed table ware was reported to have been far from satisfactory to distributers. Stocks of blown glassware are generally depleted, and desirable goods of this kind are said to be hard to find. The demand for electric lighting goods was fair.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 5.—Twenty-four Methodist Episcopal Bishops who are here attending the Quadrennial Conference of the Church preached from as many pulpits in Minneapolis and St. Paul to-day. No regular session of the conference was held, the only assemblage of all the delegates being to hold memorial services for Bishops W. F. Mallalieu, Henry Spellmeyer, Cyrus D. Foss, and Daniel Goodsell, who have died since the last conference.

KILLS GIRL OF 17 AS SHE TRIES TO AID HIM

MURDERER ENDS HIS LIFE

After having threatened to murder the entire family of Charles Rucker, a grocer, of Little Ferry, near Hackensack, N. J., Anthony Parchall, who had been discharged as clerk in the store, shot and killed Mary Rucker, 17 years old, and then ended his own life yesterday. It so happened that Rucker's daughter was the only one the crazed man found in the house when he entered by the rear door of the living apartments.

She was busy at the desk writing out a recommendation to give to Parchall, when the discharged employe made his appearance. Unknown to the murderer, Mrs. Rucker was in the store, which is in front of the office, and Rucker was resting on a bed upstairs, being somewhat indisposed. Parchall was heard repeating his threat as he stood looking at the girl. She screamed as he drew a revolver from his hip pocket. The next instant came the report of the revolver, and, though shot through the body, the girl ran into the store.

Parchall fired at her again, but this bullet went crashing through the plate glass window and just missed the heads of two lads, George Stabel and William Reick. The bullet crashed through the parlor window in Orrin Peters's house across the street, and Mr. Peters's face was cut by the flying glass.

Mary Rucker dropped to the floor after returning from the store, and never regained consciousness. Parchall fired two bullets into his left side, just under the heart. The second took an upward course and he fell dead beside the body of his victim.

Dr. Harry MacDonald of Hackensack was called, and summoned an ambulance. The girl died in the Hackensack Hospital twenty minutes after arriving there.

It was said by some that Parchall was insanely jealous of Miss Rucker, who was one of the most popular girls in Little Ferry, but the father of the girl denies this.

"This was no love matter at all, and it is cruel even to suggest it in connection with the tragic death of my daughter," he said. "It was said that this man was at the reception at Sokol Hall last night and saw a young man accompany Mary and her sister, but that had no bearing on this crime. There was no friendship between my daughter and this man. He had worked for me for several years. Then he went to Germany, and a year ago I re-employed him. But I let him go six months ago, and I hadn't seen anything of him since until he came to the store this morning, asking for a testimonial. My wife told him to call this afternoon, and he did so.

"Mary was a graduate of the Egan Business College of Hackensack, and she attended to all my clerical work. Mrs. Rucker asked Mary to write out the testimonial in English, and she was writing out something decent about the man who murdered her. It's a mighty good thing for him that he killed himself. I learned to-day that Parchall had threatened to murder me and my entire family, and I believe that was his intention when he entered my house."

Parchall was 38 years old.

WOULDN'T GO TO ASYLUM.

Youth Accuses Parents of Conspiracy —Is Sent to Bellevue.

Policeman Butler of the East Fifty-first Street Station was called to the Grand Central Station of the Subway last night and found a crowd surrounding three men and a woman. He took them all to the station house, where one of them, a youth who said he was Victor Harvey Miron, 20 years old, of 414 Elizabeth Avenue, Elizabeth, N. J., complained that his father and his stepmother were trying to put him in an insane asylum.

Young Miron said he had been in an asylum at Morris Plains, N. J., from March 10, 1911, until the beginning of this year and that then he had been discharged as cured and had gone to live with his father, who is a prosperous furniture dealer. He said he could not get along with him and that two weeks ago he discovered that the present Mrs. Miron was not his mother, but that his mother was confined in an asylum in New Britain, Conn., where she had been since he was three months old. He said he had gone to an asylum in Poughkeepsie to be examined, and had been detained there. The third man in the party was a keeper from the asylum, but he admitted that he had no papers to prove that young Miron was in his custody.

Lieut. Miller called Dr. Holliday from Bellevue Hospital. The physician questioned the youth and said that his answers indicated him to be sane. He asked Miron if he were willing to go to Bellevue for observation for a few days, and the boy agreed to accompany him.

When they left the station Mr. Miron said that his son had been insane and had imagined that his father was striving to put him away. Mr. Miron said that he had divorced his first wife and married the woman who was with him last night. He said he had five children by his second wife, and that his first wife had become insane three months after the birth of Victor Harvey Miron.

FOR LIBERTY ST. EXTENSION.

Seventh Avenue Body Favors This Route for West Side Subway.

The Seventh Avenue Association, of which Thomas Dimond is President, has petitioned the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Public Service Commission to adopt as the lower route of the Seventh Avenue subway the Liberty Street extension to Brooklyn.

The alternative plan proposed by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company calls for a subway as far as Morris Street, thence running easterly to Whitehall Street, and thence by tunnel to Brooklyn. This plan does not take the west side subway through the financial, insurance, and office building section, and, it is declared, would cut down the patronage of the road by at least 20 per cent.

The Liberty Street route calls for the west side subway to turn east from Greenwich Street and to run through Liberty Street and Maiden Lane, thence by tunnel to Pineapple Street. This plan includes a spur extending further down Greenwich Street to the Battery.

President Dimond, in pointing out the advantages he sees in the route proposed by his association, declares that it will better serve the traveling public, and that this advantage will more than offset the slightly greater cost involved.

"The engineering difficulties," he said several days ago, "are not insuperable, and the under-the-river tunnel would be materially shorter. That in itself would be an advantage. The lower Wall Street section and the Heights section of Brooklyn would be served, while the Whitehall Street route would bring the second Interborough tunnel within a few hundred feet of the present tunnel, and would merely duplicate existing facilities.

"Our association believes that the east side subway will always carry more than one-half the total traffic, so that to make a well-balanced subway situation the west side subway should be as convenient to the financial district as is the east side subway."

CAPT. TOD'S YACHTING TOUR.

Capt. Robert E. Tod was busy taking his yacht Karina out of dry dock at Mariner's Harbor yesterday, but found time to announce the names of the men who will accompany him across the ocean ten days hence.

"There will be no ladies in the party," he said. "My guests will include Granville Kane, George Lauder, W. A. Barstow, Dr. James C. Ayer, Poultney Bigelow, and John Buchan. We will leave Stapleton on May 14 for Southampton, but will not attempt any record breaking, and we will take a more southerly course than usual in order to dodge icebergs. I will go 150 to 200 miles more to the south than usual so as to clear the ice.

"From Southampton we will go to Kiel and Stockholm, as well as to Baltic seaports and the North Sea, but we will not enter the Mediterranean, and, all well, we will start home in August. I shall sail the ship out and home, having John M. Barr and Peter Kuhla as first and second officers. My crew numbers twenty-eight, all told."

The Karina was built at Mariner's Harbor a year ago, and is the largest sailing yacht ever launched. Her length is 198 feet; beam, 33 feet; draught, 17 feet; length on water line, 150 feet; depth of hold, 23 feet; area of sails, 20,000 square feet, and height from water line to mizzen truck, 166 feet. She is a three-masted schooner, without auxiliary, and is the last word in yacht architecture. She is to-day off Stapleton.

Peace Prize to Brown Student.

The annual prize of $100 of the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Peace for the best essay on "International Arbitration" has been awarded to John K. Starweather of Denver, a student at Brown University. The judges were Oscar S. Straus, ex-American Ambassador to Turkey; Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, Chancellor of New York University, and Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton, U. S. N., retired. The prize was donated by Chester D. Pugsley of Peekskill, N. Y.

AIMED AT MOTHER, HIT CHILD.

Baby Dying After Quarrel Between Parents Over Church.

Objecting to his wife's request that he should go to church, Alfred Knowles, a painter and decorator of 3,905 Snyder Avenue, Flatbush, picked up a cup and hurled it at her. His 13-month-old daughter, Frances, sitting beside her mother, was struck in the forehead by the cup, and is in the Kings County Hospital, dying from a fractured skull.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Knowles prepared a good breakfast, hoping, she said, to get her husband in such good humor that he would accompany her and the daughter to church. The family sat down to breakfast soon after 9 o'clock, the father sitting at one end of the table, with his wife at the other. The baby sat in a high chair beside the mother. Mrs. Knowles suggested to her husband that he go to church. He objected and she accused him of being a heathen. The husband finally picked up a cup from which he had been drinking his coffee and hurled it at his wife. It hit the child. The screams of the mother brought Policeman Kelly of the Snyder Avenue Station, and he called an ambulance from the Kings County Hospital. Dr. Martin took the child to the hospital, where they say it has little chance for recovery.

Knowles was arrested and held a prisoner in the Snyder Avenue Station House until the result of the child's injuries has been determined.

BARK ARROW'S GOOD VOYAGE.

The four-masted steel bark Arrow arrived at her dock in South Brooklyn yesterday from Hong Kong, having made the passage from the Cape of Good Hope to Sandy Hook in 114 days. Her best run was 630 miles in 48 hours down the southeast trades. She is owned by the Standard Oil Company, and is the last of its sailing fleet. She is to be sold to a Norwegian firm. The Radiant, a three-masted ship, which arrived last week from Rangoon, the Eclipse, a sister ship to the Arrow, which recently arrived from Tuticorin, and the Alcides, a three-masted ship, which arrived from Hong Kong a week ago, have been sold by the Standard Oil Company to German shipping men.

Freight Wreck on West Shore.

Eight freight cars of a West Shore through train from Buffalo to New York were derailed between Bogota and Teaneck, at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, and the tracks were torn up for a distance of 500 feet. Traffic was blocked for several hours. A Chicago limited train followed the fast freight, and passengers were aroused from their berths to march along the tracks past the wreck to an accommodation train, sent out from Weehawken.

The contents of the derailed cars were strewn all over the tracks. A barrel of pork rolled into the back yard of an Irishman, and he was pleased to find it open and ready for use. Sauerkraut and pigs feet were found in abundance. The eight cars were totally wrecked.

Avoid That "Wet Underwear" Chill

Kneipp Linen Mesh Underwear

being pure linen, and nothing but pure linen, is quickly absorbent and the perspiration soaks into the fabric—its open weave dries very rapidly, and on the hottest days you feel cleaner, dryer and cooler.

Flat Weave Pure Linen Underwear is a popular priced Summer Underwear equal in style, finish and reliability to the famous Kneipp. It is cut to fit.

We Could Get $40 But We Wont

The REASON we WONT is that our idea of treating customers fairly is to charge them ALL a UNIFORM profit.

A BIG IMPORTER who supplies the EXCLUSIVE tailors found himself loaded down with a pretty big quantity of EXCLUSIVE SUITINGS AND OVERCOATINGS, which his exclusive customers couldn't afford to buy this season. Business has not been all they expected.

The Importer KNOWS that this establishment is a great MERCHANT TAILORING OUTLET.

He sent for us to look over his stock. We liked MOST of it—had our pick—got together on price and bought all told 3774 yards.

Using 3 3-8 yards for a suit and 2 3-4 yards for an overcoat, there are many Suits and Overcoats to sell.

But WE WILL SELL THEM.

At $25 THEY WILL MOVE RAPIDLY.

It is a FACT that these suitings and overcoatings would sell, ordinarily, in the exclusive Tailoring Shops, at two to three times our price of $25.
